The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually banishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least thinness or greenness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly flannel nose, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity to-day at first class toilet goods counter, with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money to any dissatisfied buyer. Important—Beauty specialists throughout the country who are now using and recommending Buttermilk Cream claim that after a massage with this wonderful cream many a woman looks years younger.

CUT-OUT, PAR-EXCELLENCE THIS YEAR IN ALL VARIETIES OF FEMALE WEARING APPAREL

By "MARJORIE" (Written for the United Press.) NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The cut-out may be banned by the motor world, but it is an excellence in the fashion realm. This fact is being disclosed by spring displays in every line of feminine wearing apparel. Bathing suits, shoes, blouses, dresses and suits all exploit the use of contrasting fabrics or color under a cut-out pattern in the main body of the garment. This fact was hinted at this winter, but it is spring clothing that really promotes the vogue with full vim.

One house is showing a line of cut-out bathing suits for the southern tourist and explains that the same line will be sold for northern use next summer. The suits are of emerald, topaz, canary yellow, porcelain blue, jade green, and American beauty taffeta and velvet. They are cut with a circular skirt, with back and front slashed up to the waist and bound with contrasting grade. The bloomers are of contrasting color. There is a canary yellow taffeta has black satin bloomers, and an even gayer effect is given by an emerald velvet suit with porcelain blue bloomers. The bottom of the skirt, sleeves, and neck have a cut fleur-de-lis pattern with silk to match the bloomers underlaid.

Suits are using the cut-work idea about the bottom of the coats, the collar, and cuffs. Some, violet kid, contrasting materials used. Some in-contrast leather, and fabrics are the contrasting materials used. Some imported suits use cape-like ruffles which are edged with a cut-out pattern. Such a model is shown in mastic (a new tan) tulle. A circular collar and yoke tops the two wide cape ruffles with their banding design of cut oblongs. The lining of self-color satin underlays the cut-work.

Waistcoat blouses of Georgette and satin almost universally use cut-out trimming. This trimming is concentrated upon the center front so that the blouse may serve as a suit gilet or vest. One stunning model is shown in porcelain blue crepe meleur with a swanlike cut-out pattern underlaid with black suede. Other combinations of fancy-colored Georgette with red leather, honeydew satin and black kid, porcelain Georgette or -satin and gray suede are very conspicuous. Dresses and cape wraps use figured patterns underneath the cut pattern more than do the blouses or suits. One house is showing a wrap of gray duvetyn with fleur-de-lis pattern about cape and sleeves. The pattern is underlaid with gay Persian and Roman silks.

Street dresses of serge or tricotine spotlight the skirts and bodices with irregular cut patterns faced with gay silks. Frequently, each pattern in the same gown has a different silk underlaid, although the ensemble harmonizes in to-general color scheme. Shows for spring will not be much unlike those of this winter, for low shoes are retaining supreme through even the coldest days. Kids with cut patterns underlaid with suede, or satin and suede combinations will remain very chic.

"On with the cut-out!" says Dame Fashion. "Let slashings be unfurled!"

SPokane State Bank ROBBED BY DAYLIGHT $2549 IN LOOT TAKEN

Financial Institution Undergoes Second Burglary in Five Years, Bookkeeper Held at Point of Pistol.

SPokane, Jan. 26.—(A. P.)—For the second time in five years, Spokane State Bank, situated in an outlying business district of the city, was held up and robbed yesterday. Last night no trace of the robbers who wore no mask when they entered the bank early this afternoon, had been found.

While one of the men covered Eugene Dungan, a bookkeeper and D. A. Keller, a customer, with a pistol, the other cathered up currency from the cashier's case estimated at $2549 and then forced the cashier, A. W. Sawins, to open the safe inside the vault. He took none of the silver or gold in the case or in the safe.

Because the lock on the vault door had been wet after it was opened this morning, the robbers were unable to lock the bank employes in the vault, Mr. Sawins said and as soon as they left the bank the alarm was given. They escaped in an automobile, the engine of which had been left running at the curb.

When the bank was last robbed, nearly $1200 was obtained. The alleged perpetrator of this robbery was sentenced to a term in the state penitentiary.

How to Lose Your Soul!

You can lose your soul dancing the newest dance. In fact, if you don't lose your soul you can't dance it. That's the point of the thing, according to Mrs. Ivocovoy La Cour-forray, Danish dancer, seen here introducing the latest European school of dancing called "expressionistic." She wears a horrifying mask. "Each mask," she explains, "has its own soul." In the dance the artist's soul flees and the mask-soul takes possession." She's in Chicago now.
