PRESENT DAY DEMANDS ON HIGHWAYS ARE BIG

The taxpayer's search in the past year for an answer to the question of why roads fall has led to the discovery that whatever may have been done in the past to insure proper sub-grade, more must be done. There is no denying the fact that short haul traffic is changing over from the railway to the highway. Recently the Ocean Shore Railroad (a California line) filed an application with the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to quit business. The plea made was that the "motor truck has seriously and adversely affected our freight revenues and the general increase of the use of the public highway has affected also our passenger revenues." In trying to stem the rising tide of highway traffic, short line railway stockholders in this instance has assessed themselves seven times and then "gave up the ghost."

Whatever may be given as the immediate cause for short line railway troubles, the underlying fact is that the community owned highway is becoming public utility, with the direct result that the road is being loaded with new tonnage to a degree unexpected by the public.

It now appears under the impact of increasing tonnage, that providing a rigid surface on the road is not sufficient, that however well that surface may be built, the tendency of the road is toward failure for too rapid to permit its saving capacity to earn its way out before reconstruction becomes necessary, unless—and this brings us to the peak development of 1920—due care is given to the construction of the sub-grade.

In addition to the work under way by the Federal Highway Council along this line, attention is being given to the same subject by the engineering division of the National Research Council. Out of these two organized movements to determine right principals in sub-grade construction, there is promise for a long step forward in the science of highway engineering in the future.—James W. Brooks in January Motor.

HIGH SCHOOL OF HELIX HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

(East Oregonian Special.)
 HELIX, Jan. 22.—The Helix high school was the scene of a merry group of young people Friday evening when they enjoyed their annual banquet. At 6:30 o'clock they were seated at the banquet tables which were fairly groaning with good things to eat. The evening entertainment was arranged by Principal Paul Reed, Miss Lila Ault, Mr. Roy Davidson and a committee appointed by the student body. Mr. Davidson acted as toast master—his present being called on for toasts—the main topic being basketball. Games were enjoyed and all were unanimous in expressing themselves as having spent a delightful evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McConnell entertained informally a number of their friends on Saturday evening at their home near Helix.

Mr. James Griswold is a Helix young man of whom we feel justly proud, he is now attending the Denver Academy of Applied Arts and is a very clever cartoonist, recent drawings received in Helix justly bear evidence of this. Mr. Griswold is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Griswold and as a volunteer served overseas.

Mrs. Myrtle Stannard of Pendleton, formerly Miss Myrtle Herman of Helix has been a recent guest here of relatives and friends.

The local chapter of the Eastern Star held an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening, the first part of the evening was given over to initiatory work after which a social hour was spent.

Clifford Kendall was a Portland visitor several days this week.

Miss Grace Garrett attended the play "What Happened Next Door" given in Pendleton by the Pendleton high school. She reports it as a very creditable production.

An interesting meeting of the mission society of the Baptist Church was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Edgar Norvell.

A wedding of interest to Helix people will take place in Rieth on Sunday when Mr. John Rose a popular business man of Helix will be married to Miss Lillian English, an attractive young lady of Rieth. After a short wedding trip they will return to Helix where they will reside.

Among those attending the concert given in Pendleton on Wednesday by the Columbia Symphony Orchestra were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Penland, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ensdahl and Mrs. Beulah Rees.
