HUMANITY CREEPS INTO MEXICAN BULL FIGHTS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—(A. P.)—There is a slight agitation here against the use of horses in bull-fighting. One contributor writing to a local paper objects on the ground that the bulls will kill so many horses that the supply of them for transportation in the city will be depleted.

Protest on behalf of the horses is confined to those who are not keen followers of the sport. A true bull-fight fan will tell you that a horse, even though he is sore and mutilated by an angry bull, is a necessary adjunct to the fight and plays a part in keeping with a picador who mounts him.

However, the sight of a gored animal running frantically around the arena fleeing, because of his blindness, from he knows not what, has sent many hundreds home from the games before they were completed. This was especially noticeable when the United States excursionists were here for President Obregon's inauguration ceremonies.

President Obregon has given his sanction of the sport by appearing one Sunday when Rodolfo Gama and Ernesto Pastor fought jointly. He occupied a ringside seat. When Pastor, playing the last bull, made what appeared to be a death thrust the President arose to leave and the band immediately struck up the national anthem. The bull, however, was not dead and started to charge. At the sound of the anthem he stopped in his tracks, lowered his head and with Pastor standing at rigid attention not three feet from the bull's horns, the hymn was completed. A second later the bull tumbled over dead. Veteran fight-goers asserted the spectacle was the strangest ever seen in the local arena.

 The E. W. Rose Co., Cleveland, O.

the present scale, according to announcement by John Gillie, general manager of the Anaconda Copper Company's mines here. An effort will be made at all mines, he said, to keep married men and the older employees at work.

Copper is piling up and there is no immediate probability of any greatly increased market, mine officials state. The view is taken by the majority of the majority of the mine men here that until conditions become stabilized no full operation of mines can be looked for. Since the ending of the war, it is said, the demand for copper has steadily fallen off. Germany, it is believed here, will in the near future be a big buyer of copper.

Over 10,000 men are normally employed in the mines here belonging to the Anaconda Copper company. With these running on a 40 per cent basis, the number of men required to operate them is, however, greater than that figured because of the necessity of keeping the mines, even when they are idle.
