

People Here and There

W. W. Hale was in the city from the Pedro ranch at Echus on Saturday.

Thomas Shellen, of Canyon, was among the Pendleton visitors on Saturday afternoon.

James Mose, Ukiah stockman is in the city today to confer with the Emmet forest officials.

G. A. McCutcheon, of Nollu, was among the west end visitors to Pendleton on Saturday.

Jean P. Kirkpatrick, publisher of the Pilot Rock Record, was a Saturday afternoon business visitor in Pendleton.

Robb Gay, of Spokane, was among the arrivals in Pendleton on No. 24 this morning. He is spending the day here on business.

Rev. James Hayes, Indian pastor of the First church, at Kamiah, Idaho, was a visitor at the Tutuilla Mission on the reservation on Sunday. He had been in this vicinity for a few days on business.

W. P. Mahoney, cashier of the First National Bank of Heppner, motored over to Pendleton on Sunday. He is spending today in Pendleton on business matters. Mr. Mahoney's brother, who is interested in the livestock bank at North Portland, is recovering from an operation performed two weeks ago. Both are well known in this vicinity.

M. A. Todd is in Pendleton from Portland today.

C. Higgerstaff was in Pendleton Saturday from his home at Elsie.

M. Freiberg, of Spokane, a traveling salesman, is in the city on business.

C. H. Wagner, Ukiah merchant, is in Pendleton today and is registered at the Pendleton hotel.

C. E. Wallis returned from Portland this morning after spending a few days in the city on business.

J. W. Maloney, president of the Inland Empire bank, is to remain over for an important committee meeting in Portland which will be held on Wednesday and he is not expected to return to Pendleton until Thursday. He went to the city Friday to attend the Shrine ceremonial there.

Rudy Hoffner came back from Portland this morning after a three days' visit at his former home there. The local bank teller said that the only thing Pendletonians find in the hold-up thrill which many Portlanders are experiencing. Otherwise Pendleton is just as much alive as the metropolis.

City newspaper publishers in the county today include S. D. Sanderson, owner and editor of the Freewater Times, and M. A. Cleveland, publisher of the Stanfield Standard. Mr. Sanderson came here to make a bid for designation of his paper as one of the official county papers. Mr. Cleveland was here on legal business. Both are among the progressive editors of the county and their papers serve a large clientele in their respective communities.

J. W. King, a clerk in Freewater, came to Pendleton today on business.

G. L. Dunning came up from his Stanfield farm today to sit with his fellow county commissioners.

M. N. Betts, a fruit grower from Freewater, is among the well known men from the east end of the county attending to business matters in the county seat today.

J. D. Zurcher, attorney from Stanfield, is in the city today trying a divorce case in which he is one of the attorneys. He reports Stanfield lively but not producing news out of the ordinary.

County Commissioner R. E. Bean came down from Imphigette today to attend the session of the commissioners. He found the roads in good shape despite the recent cold and today's snow.

County Judge I. M. Schanney is still trying to find a space in Pendleton to make a home for himself and his family. Meanwhile they are residing as of yore in Pilot Rock. The judge motored in from the south today.

Snow today is knee deep at Kamela says Dave Lavender, deputy sheriff who went to the mountain community on No. 24 to serve papers. Inasmuch as Mr. Lavender stands six feet and better, the snow height is taken to be between two and a half and three feet.

Chief of Police A. A. Roberts is off duty for a few days. He was called Sunday to Portland to testify today and tomorrow in the federal grand jury there. Every time that this body meets, most of Pendleton's officers are called in for this city furnishes a large number of cases for the federal courts each term.

High Set Psyche Knot Latest

The day of smoothly dressed, neatly netted hair is past in Paris. Waves and short curls about the face, and the high set Psyche knot made of finger puffs, as shown in the illustration, comprise the latest thing in hair-dressing, especially for evening wear. In many instances a large circular comb is thrust into the hair as a support of the Psyche knot, which is dressed so softly that without other security than ordinary hairpins it would be in danger of falling.

Parkes for preliminary examination.

PENDLETON FAVORED FOR G. A. R. CONVENTION

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, department of Oregon, desire to hold their annual convention in Pendleton on June 7, 8, and 9. A letter from C. A. Williams, assistant adjutant general for Oregon, was received by the Pendleton Commercial Association today, suggesting these dates for the convention. The matter will be referred to the proper committee for decision.

W. A. Ketchum, of Indianapolis, national commander of the G. A. R., has notified the state department that he can be in Oregon for the week of June 6. It is the desire of the veterans to have Mr. Ketchum at the convention and the dates to the convention are being sought accordingly.

In addition to the veterans, several allied organizations will hold their conventions here. The Auxiliary, Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R. and Daughters of Veterans are among those who will convene here at the same time as the veterans assemble.

AMERICAN LION CUB NOW MELANCHOLY SPECTACLE

PARIS, Dec. 24.—(A. P.)—The lion cub which was adopted as a mascot by the Lafayette Squadron of soldiers, the first of the Americans to come to fight and die for France in the war, now is a melancholy spectacle in the Paris zoological gardens but the keepers refuse to kill him because of the sentiment resulting from his connection with the American fighters. One eye is missing, much of his hair is gone, he seems decrepit with age and, if met in the desert, his appearance would inspire nothing but pity. The indignation of some members of a society for prevention of cruelty to animals has been aroused by his mournful appearance.

"Why don't you chloroform the poor old fellow?" a visitor asked of the headkeeper, the other day.

"What do you mean by old fellow?" retorted the keeper. "That lion is only four years old. He is a victim of the war. If that lion is lame it is because he got rheumatism in the flat hip trenches. One of his legs was broken when he fell out of an airplane 40 feet from the ground. He lost his eyes from a well directed hand swing of one of the mechanics whose fur coat he had stolen and played with a bit behind the sheds."

"Kill that lion!" he exclaimed. "Why he is the symbol of those tall heroic lads in khaki whose bodies now lie along the Vesle and Meuse. I will take him home as a pet first."

OLSEN HAD GIVEN UP HOPE OF RELIEF

Now Well and Strong Again He Says Tanlac Has Made a New Man of Him.

"I simply cannot fully describe what I suffered for five years from indigestion, but I now feel like a new man and give Tanlac all the credit for my relief," said Carl Olsen, a well-known mechanic of Woodburn, Oregon.

"My stomach was in such a disordered condition that nothing I ate agreed with me, and if I ventured to eat certain vegetables or anything sour or highly seasoned, gas formed and floated me up until I nearly suffocated, and I had such pains in my stomach I could hardly stand it. I got to where I didn't know what to do, for if I ate I suffered and it didn't eat I suffered and I felt perfectly miserable all the time. I was habitually constipated and constantly taking something for that as well as for indigestion, but nothing gave me any relief. I was a yellow as a pumpkin, my tongue was always thickly coated and I woke up in the mornings with a mean, sickening taste in my mouth."

"I had tried so many things without getting any help that I almost despaired of ever being well again, but after taking Tanlac I was soon on the road to health. So I just kept on taking it and kept on improving until now I am entirely free from indigestion and can eat just anything I want. My complexion has cleared up and I no longer have a bad taste in my mouth; I have gained ten pounds and feel fine all the time. I just can't say enough in praise of Tanlac, for it has given me back my health, which I thought was gone for good."

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson Brothers.

Flavor and food value the same

The flavor of Troco Nut Butter, put in by a butter expert, is as delicious as that of creamery butter. The food value is the same.

The principal difference is the 15 to 40 cents a pound you save in the price.

If you use some other brand of margarin all the more reason to try Troco. You make the acquaintance of a new table luxury—sweet, dainty, appetizing nut butter, the super-brand.

The white meat of coconuts churned with fat-free milk

The milk used in churning Troco is fat-free and then twice pasteurized for safety's sake.

It is churned with snowy nut fat extracted from the white meat of coconuts. It is flavored with scientifically ripened milk just as butter is.

Could any food combination be more appetizing? Mail the coupon today for your free acquaintance pound!

A butter expert makes Troco

A. E. Hoffman, famous for over 30 years as butter maker, butter judge and teacher of butter making, supervises the production of every pound of Troco Nut Butter.

He has been distinguished for the peculiarly sweet and delicate flavor of his butter. He develops this same butter sweetness and delicacy in Troco Nut Butter.

The Troco Company has built a new plant. It provides Mr. Hoffman with every facility for making Troco the finest pure food product of its kind—nut butter brought to perfection.
