WITH A ROSE

(By Frank L. Stanton.)

Dear heart! I know not—looking to the light
That evermore your pathway blesses;
What would be one rose more, in the deep night
Of your unbraided tresses?

Take you the wit for what would be the deed?
Pity me, dear!—seeing I am but human!
Oh, may the angels of the great Lord lead
My life to such a woman!

Now in deep penitence before your feet:
Now, queen-like strike and slay!
Demand me death and death was passing sweet,
Dear, at your feet today!

$24,000,000 WASTED ANNUALLY

An engineering authority in Canada has estimated that on the Canadian railways operated by the use of coal the consumption of coal per horse power runs up as high as 50 tons a year. He estimates that from 20 to 30 tons per horse power a year will represent the average present cost in coal.

Assuming that the same figures will apply to railroads in the United States and that 25 tons per horse power a year is a fair average some very interesting observations may be made as to the economic waste in using coal on northwestern railroads when water power is available.

The continuous electric power that may be developed at Umatilla rapids, according to preliminary surveys by government engineers, is 120,000 horse power. In addition 200,000 horse power may be developed for use during the irrigation season. Therefore for purposes of discussion the continuous horse power may be regarded as available for industrial uses. Turned into terms of coal, on the basis of the Canadian engineer's estimate, this means 3,000,000 tons of coal per year. Putting a value of $8 per ton on that coal means that through failure to use the minimum power at Umatilla rapids the country is suffering an economic loss of $24,000,000 annually—a sum larger than the estimate for the construction of the power project.

Think of the such waste and think of the blunder in operating our railroads by coal instead of by hydro electric power. Think of the useless labor the railroads perform in devoting a large part of their energy to hauling coal for their own uses. Think of the needless burden the public carries in paying freight rates that will produce dividends under such conditions.

But that is not all the story. The coal supply is exhaustible and will some day be depleted. When that time comes what will happen to industries located where hydro electric power is not available? With prices of coal and oil advancing is it not time for people to give some thought to this phase of economy. Hydro electric power when developed is inexhaustible. Why not use it instead of continuously burning up coal that will some day become a matter of life or death to those living in regions not blessed with water power?

An inspiring thing about the move to hasten development of power at Umatilla rapids is that it is not only a step to increase the prosperity of this region but is also a move directly in line with a course that is being urgently recommended by the best minds in the fields of science and economics.

ADVICE FROM A CHAMPION

YOUNG men expect preachers to admonish them against evil ways of living.

They expect their teachers to instruct them that bad habits breed disease, unhappiness and death.

They expect their parents to remonstrate with them against falling into the pitfalls of vice.

They expect writers, lecturers and reformers to tell them that the road to success and happiness is the straight and narrow one.

Because they feel more or less that these advisors are trying to take all of the joy out of life, they are prone to give only partial heed to their injunctions.

Perhaps, then, they will be more impressed by the words of the champion prizefighter of the world. If so, let them lend an attentive ear to what Mr. Jack Dempsey, premier pugilist, has to say upon the subject.

In an interview with a Portland newspaperman, Mr. Dempsey declared that he did not smoke, chew, drink or associate with dissolute women. It is the clean liver who wins in any walk of life, whether he goes in for boxing or banking, said the champion. He even went further. He declared that a clean mind and a clean heart are as essential as a clean body if a man is to reach and stay at the top.

These words may have a strange sound coming from one whose vocation has ever been associated in the public mind with the under side of life. But Jack Dempsey has learned from the experience of others that a man must have something more than burly strength and brute courage to win in pugilism. The history of the fistic game is replete with examples of the downfall of champions who disregarded the fundamental laws of the game.

Any other athlete will subscribe to the same advice given by Dempsey, but, because the fighter commands an admiration from the youth such as does no other, the words of the champion ought to carry an impressive lesson.

LAND CLEARING ENGINE DEMONSTRATED AT O. A. C.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Feb. 1.—(A. P.)—A machine which is expected to revolutionize land clearing has been obtained by Professor H. D. Scudder (farmer on the college demonstration farm near Roseburg). It will be used for experimental work in a cost trial in land clearing. Experiments will be worked out to determine whether smaller clearing costs result from the use of the powder with the machine or by the use of the pulper alone. The new invention is the work of an Oregon man, is manufactured in Portland, and is practically the only one of its kind to have promise of commercial success, according to college authorities. The power is supplied by a gasoline engine.
