SPRING BLOUSES SHOW PEASANT INFLUENCE

BY "MARJORIE"
(Written for the United Press.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Spring blouses show less variations from the past season's offerings than any other branch of the feminine garment world. The main difference is in coloring and material, which is only the natural change from winter to summer wear. Colors are very gay. Practically all the manufacturers are turning out vast quantities of porcelain blue, tangerine, honeydew and rattan models.

Materials are swerving from the heavy satins, brocades and taffetas of midwinter to the georgettes, nets and lace of early spring. Georgette combined with silk or tricot is much in evidence. The leading color combination is gray georgette, with coral or rose silk. Gray is the winning color in hats, shoes, hose and wrap trimmings, and it is for this reason that blouses favor it in dress models.

One house is showing a model of tie-back gray georgette with black and front panel of coral metallic silk. These panels are covered with an all-over pattern of black floss stitching. The sleeves are three-quarter length and have the loose, flowing peasant cut.

The peasant influence, by the way, is strongly developed in spring blouses. The Roumanian cut and coloring is especially emphasized. Peasant material is used or a kid belt in contrasting color. These narrow kid belts of white, tan, scarlet or brown are lavishly used on all blouses and are a big feature of dress georgette blouses as well.

The cross-stitch is used for embroidering cotton blouses and the pattern is generally applied about the yoke, collar, neck, and down the front, where a large square of round design is placed.

The peasant cut is effected by the loose sleeves, loose armholes and puffed bell at the waist. The old time flowing Russian overblouse is almost entirely supplanted by this belted effect. Either a belt of self material is used or a kid belt in contrasting color. These narrow kid belts of white, tan, scarlet or brown are lavishly used on all blouses and are a big feature of dress georgette blouses as well.

Basque blouses are not returning to any extent in the spring lines. But the high choker collar which was a part of the basque is retained in many lingerie and silk models. It is quite the vogue to have a very high collar and very short sleeves, as in the Grand Opera gowns of this season.

Lingerie blouses are not very conspicuous, mainly because of the impossibility of getting this handwork done. However, a very few very select shops are displaying their price-less hand-made blouses, volles and organdies. They are embellished with more cutwork, scalloping and solid embroidery than was considered good taste a few years ago but the fortunate women who can afford them affect to find them very beautiful. Narrow colored ribbon slashes or girdles are run through hand-wrought eyelets and tie at the side.

Loose cotton sports blouses in a variety of gay colors, such as jade, emerald, topaz, canary, porcelain blue, rose and scarlet, are shown to be worn with the sleeveless ribbon or wool jackets are upon the market.

DIVISION OF STATE OF IDAHO IS REQUESTED

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 15.—The session movement took definite form today when a resolution was introduced into the senate of the Idaho legislature virtually asking permission for North Idaho to secede from the state. The resolution calls for the holding of a convention at the University of Idaho, June 29, 1921, of delegates from the various counties of the proposed new state. At this time a constitution would be adopted to be submitted to the electors of the new state for their rejection or adoption.

The proposed state would include 10 North Idaho counties, embracing an area of 25,000 square miles and including a population of approximately 150,000.

LAST WAR VETERAN DIES

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(U. P.)—Soren Peter Sorenson, Chicago's last veteran of the war between Germany and Denmark in 1849, is dead. He was born in Denmark in 1825.

DEBUTANTE FROCK

What could be more girlish and lovely than this beruffled and ribboned advance summer frock? The dress is white, with baby blue bodice and blue curled ribbon trimming. The drop shoulder effect is a revival from our grand-mother's day, and promises to be very fashionable, as well as becoming, for summer afternoon and evening wear.

The Woman God Changed!

COLDLY—in a moment of drunken pique—a chorus girl had shot and killed a gentleman. But is this prisoner at the dock, Anna Janssen, the woman of Broadway? This superb beauty cast in the form and figure of a Norse goddess? Impossible! In the heart of every-one rose the cry, "This is not the same woman." But on went the sordid trial of Anna Janssen for murder. . . . Donn Byrne, in the most dramatic story he has ever written, proves a woman can come back!
