

Social and Club News

FW SOCIAL EVENTS

The week is opening with but few social events in the calendar. Lenten days have been passing rapidly with many informal affairs, the most important of which have been engagements which celebrated Washington's birthday. Clubs and church societies are continuing their activities. Prominent in the work of the Thursday afternoon club are the rehearsals for "The Well of the Saints," and "Spreading the News," to be presented soon by the club members.

The Current Literature Club, which is nearing the end of a year of activity, will hold its annual election of officers, and its business meeting tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the county library.

The three societies of the Church of the Redeemer, namely the Parish Aid, Sanctuary Chapter and Auxiliary, will hold their meeting on Wednesday afternoon in Parish hall.

GUESTS AT DANCE.

Among guests at the Xi Phi dental fraternity dance, a large social event in Portland on Friday evening, were Miss Anne Shea, Miss Irene Shea, Miss Grace Hoch, Miss Agnes Basler and Ned Fowler, all well known in Pendleton.

MISS HARRISON WEDS.

The following from the Portland Oregonian will be of interest to the friends of Miss Myrtle Harrison, formerly a teacher in the Pendleton high school:

Miss Alice Myrtle Harrison and Dr. Anshy G. Pates were married on Tuesday at 2:30 P. M. Rev. H. L. Bowman, of the First Presbyterian church, officiating, using the double ring ceremony. The wedding was quiet, only the immediate friends of the couple attending. Decorations were spring flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Henry C. Harrison. Her dress was crepe de chine and princess lace. Mrs. F. S. Bates of Astoria, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of figured georgette crepe. Mrs. Henry C. Harrison, mother of the bride, wore figured pussy willow taffeta.

A wedding dinner was served after the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. Pates left for Astoria where they will be at home after March 1.

RETURN FROM ASTORIA

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Harrison, prominent Pilot Rock residents and daughter, Miss Ruth Harrison, are in the city today. They have just returned from Astoria where they spent the winter.

CLUB WILL MEET.

The Pendleton Pioneer Ladies' Club will meet tomorrow afternoon in the library club rooms. The program for the afternoon promises to be of special interest. It is under the direction of Mrs. Frank Frazier.

Stanfield Study Club Gives Entertainment

(East Oregonian Special.)

STANFIELD, Feb. 25.—The funeral of Miss Lillian Hooser was held on Thursday afternoon at Hope Presbyterian church. Rev. J. E. Faucett had charge of the last sad rites. Miss Hooser was one of the most prominent young ladies in all church and Endeavor work and her demise will be sadly missed. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole community.

Mrs. C. I. Brockman and children left Friday for Portland where they will make their future home.

The regular meeting of the Study club met at the beautiful country home of Mrs. W. T. Reeves at Meadow View farm. Mrs. L. M. Hills, president, presided after the usual business was dispensed with. The following program was rendered:

Washington and His Literary friends, by Mrs. J. M. Richards.

Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of Independence, by Mrs. F. B. Stuart.

Hamilton, Leader of the Federalists and Establisher of the Constitutional Government, by Mrs. Victor Martin.

Eruptions of the Skin Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the flaming, burning itching that these diseases produce.

Skin diseases are caused by an impurity or disorder in the blood, and there is no real and genuine relief within your reach until such impurities are removed.

S.S.S. has given great satisfaction in the treatment of these disorders, because it is such a thoroughly satisfactory blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all impurities, and thus counteracts the effects of the germs that attack the skin.

AMERICAN 'MOVIE' HOLDS FIRST PLACE IN FRANCE

By JOHN O'BRIEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Feb. 28.—Americans who remember the infant days of the moving picture industry at home, when they need a scenario all worked out and everybody with a couple thousand dollars to risk was willing to take a chance on the embryo author's brain child, are watching with interest a similar period of development in the film industry in France.

Although the "movies" were born here, they are still in swaddling clothes. After more than twenty years, the cinema has not reached the stage of development represented by the movies of the United States of twelve or fifteen years ago. Here, in the very home of the "silent drama," seventy-five per cent of the pictures shown on the screen are American products.

It is only in very recent years that France took the motion pictures seriously. Just before the war there was an attempt to make better films, to put into the film business something of the artistic genius which has made the French stage supreme in the dramatic world. The war stopped this effort and gave the American producer a chance to capture the market, so that today "Charlie" and Mary and Doug and "Ze Far West" and "Ze cowboy" are the stock in trade of the film fan's conversation.

"It isn't that France lacks material for good pictures," said an American motion picture producer to the United Press. "But the French have been left miles behind in the art of making good pictures. They have learned nothing of lighting effects. They have better actors than we have in America. Their scenarios are in general as good or better. They have ideal conditions for outdoor effects, but when it is a question of a studio set, they are lost. They need a course of instruction in the elements of film making and until they get it the French film industry cannot be a serious rival to the American producers."

Before the war the film industry in France was practically in the hands of two companies—Pathe and Gaumont. These were the kings of the business. There were perhaps twelve hundred movies theatres in the country. At present there are about 1,600 theatres and several new companies have been organized. Eclipse, Select, Aubert, Harry and the Agence Generale are disputing the ground with Pathe and Gaumont and an American company, the Fox Film Company, has invaded France.

All told they produce about thirty to thirty-five pictures a year—probably 200,000 feet of film. This represents about ten per cent of the total shown in France in the course of a year. The remaining 90 per cent—seventy-five per cent being American—is split up among Italian, Swedish and English pictures. The mere fact that such an immense proportion of American pictures is purchased in spite of the unfavorable exchange rate shows their popularity.

With a total invested capital of half a billion francs, the leaders in the moving picture industry here have not yet been able to offer financial inducements to popular actresses and actors sufficient to make them abandon the legitimate stage. There are no movie stars in France. There is not a single name which stands out like any one of the scores of favorites known to every American. Pick cinema advertisements. There you will see all the familiar names blazoned forth on Broadway, once in a while an English star, but never a French name. Pictures made in the French studios are flung together in hit-or-miss style. The chief performers match a half hour now and then between rehearsals or performances as the theatre which employs them. There are scarcely any regularly organized moving picture actors.

French pictures find a ready sale in South America and, in fact, in all the Latin countries. The Balkans and Egypt buy a large part of the output of the studios, chiefly because the exchange rate of those countries is favorable to business with France, but also because the "stories" are better suited to the people of those countries than the American picture subjects. American movie experts admit that if the native producers adopt American methods to French artistic ability, their product will be able to meet American pictures on terms of equality.
