FRANK FRISCH IS FAST AS WIND AT SECOND BASE NOW

McGraw Pleased With Work of His Infield; Dave Bancroft Condition Has Improved.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 15.—John J. McGraw, Hugh Jennings and Jess Burkett held a short session of praise, thanksgiving and jollification after the Giants had put through another double-ended session of intensive practice in red hot mid-July weather the other day.

The occasion for the rejoicing was the continued improvement in the physical condition of Dave Bancroft, resulting in quite a bit of work in the inner defense, the sensational way in which Frisch has adapted himself to conditions at second base, and the quickness with which "Goldie" Rapp is picking up big league ways.

If this infield trio shows the improvement in the next nine days they have in the last three, McGraw feels that he can leave here on the trip South afraid of nothing the National or American Leagues can produce. That takes in the Cleveland champions too, for the Giants will meet them on March 19 and 20 at Dallas in the first two games after breaking camp.

Bancroft is getting stronger, although he still goes easily in his fielding work. He does a good deal of hitting practice in order to find his eye, as the players say, but doesn't exert himself in throwing. It is just the other way with Rapp and Frisch. They are tireless, and are lining the ball across to Kelly just as they will have to do in April and May.

"Frisch will cover more ground at second base than anyone playing the bag," said Hugh Jennings. "It's uncanny the way he gets around and breaks down hard hit balls. He is so fast on the recovery that many an apparent safety will be knocked down by him even when the ball is too hard hit to be handled cleanly."

Something in a lesser degree can be said about Rapp. This kid is quick on the rebound. You can drive them at him with force enough to knock him over, but he always stays in grabbing distance, and when he throws he's just as liable to do it with both feet in the air.

The idea of getting "set" on the ground isn't part of the baseball learned by the new third baseman of the Giants.

HUMORIST WAS LOST WHEN THOMAS QUIT

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(United Press)—When Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado left the senate on March 4, that august body lost much of the comic relief that occasionally punctuates debate on wholly prosaic legislation.

The senate was considering an amendment of the agricultural bill providing $15,000 "for the study of processes and methods of home tanning of lace and other leathers used on the farm."

"I should like to inquire," said Thomas, "what lace leather is. I know there was a species of 'horse tanning' in vogue when I was a small boy, but that was some time ago. Since then horse tanning seems to need recognition. What is it?"

Thomas was told that the amendment did not refer to the punitive exertions of vexed parents, but that lace leather was used in sewing of belts and the mending of harness.

The trouble with farming today, according to Thomas, is that it has become an "appropriation industry."

"Long ago," he explained, "we reached the point where any activity upon a farm, no matter where it may occur, or what the activity is, at once proceeds with lightning speed to Washington for an appropriation and for paternal investigation at so much per year. In the good old days when farming was farming, when farmers were not farmers as they are nowadays, the farmers secured for themselves needed articles of both production and manufacture.

Then Thomas took a crack at Senator Ashurst of Arizona, who had obtained a $10,000 increase on the appropriation for studying the physiology of plants by serving the senators with choice varieties of western dates. "I am particularly struck," Thomas said, "by the new method of securing appropriations—that of producing some samples of the subject that is sought to be sweetened by an appropriation and passing it around to the senators. We ate figs and dates yesterday, which cost the people of the United States $10,000."

FAY TINCHER

Fay Tincher, educated to be a Mary Garden or a Tetrazzini, is the feminine Charlie Chaplin of the screen.

When Fay lived at Tynoka, Kan., she wanted to go on the stage. Her parents compromised on grand opera. Fay "finished" in Europe and, arriving in New York, flopped right into a Broadway chorus.

She must have been so bad that she was funny, for Griffith signed her up to do two-reel comedies. Now she is leading funny woman in Christie comedies.
