MENDER OF SHOES WATCHES FOR NEWS OF VICE PRESIDENT

James Lucy Pegs Away in his Shop But Watches Newspapers for News of Coolidge.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 16.—(A. P.)—James Lucy, mender of shoes, is pegging away in his shop here with one eye on the newspapers for word of how the national capital treats Calvin Coolidge, his one-time associate in local politics and now vice-president.

When Vice-President Coolidge, just before departing for Washington recently, grasped the cobbler's hand as the photographers snapped their cameras he gave him a distinction that he was asked to explain. "Put Mr. Lucy down as my guide, philosopher and friend," he said. And so the cobbler is now nationally known.

What the vice-president meant was more or less well known to Northampton folk. The story goes back to the days when Calvin Coolidge was a sophomore at Amherst College. With shoes to be repaired he sought Lucy's shop on Gothic street in this city and then remained to listen to the cobbler's homely comments on topics of the day.

The student found the shoe maker's philosophy so engaging that during the remainder of his college course he went frequently to see him. As a lawyer later young Coolidge opened offices here and while he waited for clients, continued his acquaintance with the cobbler. Throughout his career in the politics of the city and state, Mr. Coolidge dropped in at the shoe shop from time to time to exchange ideas with his friend and have the benefit of the latter's pointed political observations.

The youthful Coolidge took away lessons from the cobbler counselor. Coolidge the candidate received the benefit of his influence which was considerable in city politics, and when he rose to a position of state and national prominence he still received the loyal support of the shoemaker. Mr. Lucy modestly explaining that Mr. Coolidge long since passed out of his range of influence, admits that he may have been of some help when the vice-president was on the first rungs of the political ladder.

The cobbler says that the only time he ever crossed Calvin Coolidge seemed to make firmer the friendship between them. Mr. Coolidge had sought the election of a friend as mayor and asked Mr. Lucy as a delegate to the party caucus to stand in his behalf but the cobbler, already bound to the opposing candidate, refused. This evidence of loyalty to a prior allegiance served to heighten their mutual respect.

The shoe maker, a native of Ireland, came to Northampton, 19 years ago at the age of 22. He has been at his last in the same shop for 39 years. A family of eight children, seven of whom are now living has made demands on his earning ability. Five are girls; one is a stenographer, two are teachers, a fourth who was formerly a teacher is now married and one is a clerk. Of the two boys one is a graduate of Holy Cross college, and the other is a student in the Northampton commercial college.

IDLE MILLION MENACE AND PROBLEM TO BRITAIN, SPEND MILLIONS BUT SOLUTION NOT IN SIGHT

LONDON, March 16.—(Austin West, U. P. Staff Correspondent.)—According to figures issued by the ministry of labor today there are 1,143,300 registered unemployed in Britain—and they are still climbing.

The unemployed barometer has taken several big jumps during the last months. At the middle of October the number of men and women registered at the employment exchanges was 350,000; by the middle of November it was 473,000; by the middle of December 542,000, and now they are well over the million mark.

These figures do not take into account the thousands of unemployed who have not registered at the government bureau. If these were included, it is estimated that the number would be swelled to a million and a quarter. Nor are they inclusive of the people working on systematic short time, estimated at 600,000. The latter are chiefly made up of cotton operatives and government employees at dockyards, etc.

Optimistic officials of the ministry of labor believe the peak has been reached, but the labor members of parliament lean to the belief that the situation will be decidedly worse before the turn is reached. Realizing this the government is grappling with the problem with the primary object of stemming the tide.

So far the government has been chiefly concerned in efforts to absorb tens of thousands of ex-service men into the industrial fabric by propaganda and appeals to employers. The unexpected avalanche of unemployment of all classes, however, has made it imperative to create state-aided schemes. These were explained by the minister of labor, Dr. MacNamara.

According to MacNamara, at least 70,000 men have been found employment on public works. The expenditures authorized for these schemes is practically 100,000,000.

In addition to that, and in the direction of mitigating hardship, an amendment to the Unemployment Insurance act has added 8,000,000 to the 4,000,000 persons insured. A further extension of the out of work grant, involving an additional expenditure of $25,000,000, making in all, since the armistice, $200,000,000 to ex-service men, and $110,000,000 out-of-work donation for civilians during the first year after the armistice.

One of the chief bones of contention between the government and the trades unions is the persistent refusal of the builders to permit dilution of skilled labor by employment of unskilled ex-servicemen. There is not an unemployed bricklayer in the country and work could immediately be found for 100,000 men, resulting in employment being provided for painters, plumbers, laborers, etc. In the face of these facts the 50,000 ex-service men are forced to remain idle. The tendency here for some time has been to regard every trade as a close preserve and in a restricted market to force up wages by means of strikes. Last year alone 27,000,000 days of work were lost owing to strikes.

The labor party so far has failed to suggest a cure for unemployment. Leader Clynes of the party declares it is up to the government, to devise means for maintenance of work, and that some steps should be taken to restore international trade. Whatever they cause the present crisis is causing widespread misery in the country, and the out-of-work donations and other government doles are generally looked upon as being merely palliatives.
