BILL HAYWARD TELLS HOW TO RUN THE 880

BY WILLIAM L. HAYWARD (Track Coach University of Oregon) The 880-Yard Run

What has been said of the quarter-mile I might say of the shortest of the distance runs; the requirements are speed, endurance and judgment. I will also discuss the stride and form. It was not necessary to remind the sprinter that it was important that he should run up on his toes; he acquires that habit naturally in an effort to make speed, but men who run longer distances may occasionally be seen running flat-footed. By running on the toes I do not mean to keep on the ball of the foot, nor do I mean to keep that position. The best half-milers in the country run flat-footed at times, generally when reading. No harm comes from this unless he runs this way all the time. The object of running on the balls of the feet is to lessen the shock to the nervous system. More spring into the stride eliminates the shock to muscles and legs and feet.

I wish to warn against pounding and striking the track unnecessarily hard. This develops what is known as "skin splints" and lame hips, which are difficult to cure. The runner should by all means develop a foot, easy style and not try to run on the toes too quickly. The arms should be carried in an easy swinging position and not held high as in the sprints. The breathing should be natural, practically all distance men breathe through the nose and mouth together. Care should be taken of the feet and never allow them to become raw and sore. Be sure that the shoes fit. A great deal of the trouble is caused by ill-fitting shoes. Always wear chamois putchers and keep them clean.

The ones that are most successful at this distance are the quarter-milers that have the strength to go farther. A man must be able to run a fast quarter to be a good half-miler. For instance, supposing a two-minute half mile to be run, the first quarter should be between 57 and 69 seconds, and in order to do this the runner should be able to do 22 or 23 seconds so when the fairly stiff workout, with no ill effects and with plenty of strength left to finish. A great deal of 650-yard work should be taken; occasionally a mile at three-quarter speed for endurance, and a lot of pace work at the quarter. A half-mile must be a good judge of pace so as to know at any part of the race just how fast he is running. Careful attention must be paid to stride and arm motion. Try to develop an easy style.

BOY KIDNAPED BY LEOPARD; RECAPTURED 3 YEARS AFTERWARD

Father is Keeping Sharp Eye on Him to See That He Does Not Run Away to Woods.

LONDON, March 23.—(A. P.)—A wild boy resembling in some respects Kipling's character, "Mowgli," who was suckled by a she-wolf and grew up to be leader of the pack, has been found in a remote section of India, according to a story told in the Times. In this case, however, the boy is reputed to have been kidnaped by a leopard. He has been recaptured and his father is now keeping a sharp eye on him to see that he does not run away to the woods.

28 YEARS AGO

(From the East Oregonian, March 23, 1893.) The outlook is very favorable for a successful meeting of the state encampment of the G. A. R. in Pendleton. Will Atchinson has returned from a visit to New York. J. M. Bentley is in Portland on business. Representative Douglas Belts and Mrs. Belts are here from Birch creek today. The Church of the Redeemer is to have a new church which will be attractive and comfortable. It will cost less than $5000. Most of the windows will be memorials. The building calls for a pleasing combination of wood and stone and the seating capacity will be 400.

NEW SHOES

The child's father told him that five years before the villagers of Cachari had killed two leopard cubs. The mother leopard had prowled about the jungle bordering on the village. A few days later the mother of the child left it lying on a cloth while she went away to reap rice. In her absence the mother leopard carried the child off. The villagers searched for it but could find no trace of it. Some three years later a sportsman killed a leopard in the jungle. He told the villagers that the leopard had two cubs. They searched the jungle and found the two cubs and with them the missing child. It ran on all fours quite fast, dodged and hid in bushes with great agility and skill and bit and fought with everyone who tried to lay hold of it. It tore to pieces and ate with extraordinary quickness any village fowl that came its way.
