Meat and other foods are being cooked as a means of investigating the advisability of pressure cookers for the coming season. Have Scheme for More Space

There is a plan under consideration for enlarging the floor space at Happy Canyon pavilion by making use of the arena for entertainment features following the show each night. Details of the plan will be explained at a meeting of Happy Canyon officials and workers in the club rooms this evening. In issuing the call J. V. Tallman, chairman suggests that all who have had any connection with the show in the past be present.

Leave Here Tomorrow

Judge R. S. Lovett, chief of the Union Pacific system who is now touring the Northwest with a party of railroad officials, is to be back here tomorrow afternoon, according to the schedule as understood here. It is the presumption that the party will go from here to Spokane.

Two Cars Collide

A front wheel of a Ford coupe driven by Mrs. B. F. Trombley was smashed and a fender bent yesterday morning in a collision of the machine with a touring car on Jackson street, near the Christian church. The driver of each machine was unable to see the other car because of the long line of machines parked at the curb in front of the church and the collision was unavoidable. The touring car suffered a bent fender. Neither Mrs. Trombley, her little daughter, Jane, nor Miss Pauline Moore, were injured and driver and passengers in the touring car were unhurt also.

'BROAX KING' BUYS NEVADA MOUNTAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—(A. P.)—Francis Marion Smith, picturesque western financial leader, one time known as the "Borax King" is back on his throne, his San Francisco friends say, having recently purchased a newly-discovered Nevada mountain of borax.

At the age of seventy-two, his associates assert, the man who put Death valley on the map has "come back," after suffering financial reverses in railroads and real estate, and again controls the greater part of the earth's borax production.

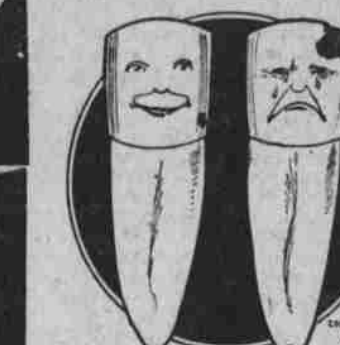

Smith's new mountain contains, according to experts, one of the largest deposits of borax known. It is some 3,000 feet in length and lies from three to five hundred feet above the surrounding Nevada hill country. The deposits is in the wild "Muddy Mountain" country of Clark County, Nevada, a little more than eighteen miles from the main line of a railroad running between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. A spur track will be built to the mine.

Smith was told of the mountain by two prospectors, George D. Hartman and Francis Marion Lovel, who discovered the deposits January 23, 1921 after searching for minerals for several months. They estimated there were 500,000 tons of the ore in sight. Knowing of Smith's experience in handling borax claims, the prospectors induced him to make a trip to the find. A short personal investigation convinced Smith that the borax was there, so without further delay, he drew a contract on a rough piece of paper and arranged for payment of $50,000 to close the deal.

Smith has turned the property over to a chemical company of which he is president and will begin shipments at once. The ore will be trucked to the railroad for a time.

Smith's first discovery of borax was made forty-nine years ago at Teel's Marsh, Nevada. Since then he has developed it into a great commercial industry. It is said that borax is put to more than 250 uses.

Pyorrhea

It's not painful as a rule and that fact makes it all the more dangerous. The signal lights on this road to this incurable disease are almost always very dim to the average person.

I'LL TELL YOU

Let me see your mouth and I'll tell you just how bad I think it is and how Pyorrhea should be treated. You may have it and don't know it. Most people have it.
