Fishing Too Early
Local sportsmen are complaining that all are not observing the law which prohibits fishing until April 15. It is said some parties have been fishing already and this is arousing resentment of the part of those who are waiting for the legal opening of the season.

Now on East Court
Carter & Swythe are now getting established in the firm's new offices on East Court street, in the room occupied by the Cunningham Sheep & Land company. A building permit for improvements in the new office was taken out today. The firm's former location in the American National Bank building will be remodelled for use by the bank force.

Tell The Police About It
Under the rule adopted by the city administration complaints about street lights being out are to be made to the police department either by night or day. The police are instructed to keep a record when lights are reported out. Payment for such lights will then be stopped until the city is notified by the light company that the trouble has been remedied. The city pays nine cents a night for each small street light and a deduction is to be made each month for lights out of commission.

Visits Stanfield.
Fred Henion, county agent, is in Stanfield today on business connected with his work.

Weather Is Warmer.
The weather is warm today, the maximum being 72. The minimum last night was 49. The barometer registers 29.60.

Power Committee to Meet
Secretary C. E. Barr of the Umatilla Rapids Power sit Association is sending out a call for a meeting of executive committee members in Pendleton on Friday April 8. Some important business in connection with the preparation of data for the federal power commission will come before the committee.

Ralph Hassell Employed.
Ralph Hassell, one of the experienced grocermen of the city, has accepted a position at Alexander's in the grocery department. He will assist Ed Nolf, manager.

Secretary Begins Work.
Ernest Crockett, new secretary of the Pendleton Automobile Association, began his duties today. He has been employed as city editor for the Pendleton Tribune. The association has quarters in the Elks' club.

Thomas Murphy Returns.
Thomas Murphy, who has been attending University of Oregon, has returned to Pendleton. He will not resume his studies at college. Young Murphy has been active in student affairs and was president of the sophomore class.

Club Meeting Postponed
Owing to the fact the Elks will be using their lodge room for a big dance on Tuesday evening, the regular monthly meeting of the Commercial Association will be postponed for one week. The reason for this as explained by President J. H. Sturges is that the association wishes to use the lodge room for the monthly club meeting in order to provide a fitting home coming for new and old members of the association. Consequently it is necessary to wait a week.

accounted for. We are picking up life boats and proceeding to Seattle."

It was found, however, since the message was sent that 10 of the passengers and crew are missing. Captain E. P. Bartlett, in command of the Governor, is one of the best known deep sea mariners on the west coast. He had planned to leave for the east in a few days and assume command of the Keystone State and bring her to the coast.

Loose Ship on First Trip.
PORTLAND, April 1.—(U. P.)—That Captain Bartlett lost his ship on his first trip is the statement of port officials and the shipping board men here. He is said to have substituted for Captain H. C. Thomas on the present ill-fated trip of the Governor. Captain Thomas had commanded the ship for many years, representatives of the Pacific Steamship company said. The freighter, West Hartland, registered from this port. She was due to leave Vancouver, B. C. for Bombay, last night. The West Hartland weighs 8500 tons and was built by the Columbia River shipbuilding company of Portland.

All Are Believed Lost.
SEATTLE, April 1.—(U. P.)—The steamer West Hartland, with the survivors of the Governor disaster, docked at 10 a. m. A careful check shows the following missing:
Mrs. W. N. Washburn and daughters, Sadie and Oleene.
H. Webster, a waiter.
Grant Christensen, assistant engineer.
C. M. Aubritton, seaman, and J. Clancy, seaman. All are believed to be lost.

Passenger Describes Crash
SEATTLE, April 1.—(A. P.)—That there was not a greater loss of life in the accident is attributed to the vigilance of W. G. Thomas, the lighthouse keeper at Point Wilson, a mile from the scene. Thomas heard the crash of the vessel and was able by a strong glare from his light through the thin veil of fog to ascertain its nature. He immediately signalled Port Townsend for aid and the revenue cutter Arcata, the coast guard, Snohomish and two private launches responded.
Lifeboats were lowered from both the governor and the West Hartland immediately. The transfer of passengers from the doomed ship began, the government cutters and launches aiding materially. One of the few passengers on deck at the time of the collision was Miss Jessie Fox, of Seattle, who described the ramming of the Governor. "It was a little after midnight," she said. "I was out on the deck for a last breath of air before turning in. The light of Point Wilson off the starboard bow was plainly discernible. The crash came unexpectedly. I had not noticed the approach of the West Hartland and the jar almost shook me from my feet. Instantly the news was flashed over the vessel and passengers scantily clad, poured up the hatchways and deck doors. Officers acted ably and quickly and undoubtedly prevented a panic."
