

People Here and There

Frank Kenney of Trempealeau, Wyo., has arrived in Pendleton to take care of business affairs. He will be here several weeks.

Mrs. Jess Bailey, accompanied by Mrs. A. Hafer left Wednesday evening for Ontario where they took Mrs. R. G. Durst, Mrs. Salling's daughter to Soap Lake for treatment.

R. F. Walsh, formerly foreman of The Times at Twin Falls, Idaho, passed through Pendleton this morning on his way to his old home at Duxton, Washington. He reports that members of the typographical union and newspaper owners are having difficulties over hours and wages.

Fourteen eggs, (scratched) a pound of bacon, two quarts of fried potatoes and a half gallon of coffee, a loaf of bread or so and a few other sundries comprised the breakfast ration of three Pendleton men who went on a fishing trip recently. One of the members of the party says that the three anglers had planned to add trout to the menu but because of poor luck were forced to content themselves with the modest meal.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ross of Portland are visiting friends here. Mr. Ross was with Lee Teutsch here about fifteen years ago. He is still strong for Pendleton and expects to locate here again within the near future.

Stanley G. Jewett, predatory animal inspector of the Oregon-Washington district of the U. S. bureau of biological survey, arrived yesterday from points in Washington. He left this morning for Heppner.

S. A. Barnes, a prominent grain dealer of Weston, was here today. He is making arrangements for an extended trip to points on the coast.

F. S. Le Grow, cashier of the First National Bank of Athena and one of the prominent citizens of the neighboring town, is here today on business.

George Stanger has returned from Portland where he went recently on a business mission.

Achie McIntyre, a big farmer of the Helix district, was in Pendleton today.

He was actively engaged in the ministry for a great many years, but for several years past he has been rated in the superannuated class, and only preached occasionally. The family has lived in their home on north Water street in Weston for several years past.

BRITISH FOOD MINISTRY HAD PROFIT BALANCE LONDON, April 21.—(A. P.)—The Ministry of Food ceased to exist March 21st, but although many attacks have been made on the government for the continuance of control so long after the war, the critics have not been slow to praise the excellent work done by this department.

Due largely to the energy of the late Lord Rhondda, the Food Ministry proved to be the greatest trading organization which had ever existed in any country. In its five years existence, the ministry handled goods to the enormous value of 1,299,000,000 pounds sterling, exclusive of wheat and sugar which, although nominally under the ministry's control, operated under separate Royal Commissions. The working expenses amounted to but thirteen shillings and four pence per hundred pounds worth of food bought and sold, and a clear profit of roughly one million pounds was made for the nation.

The retiring Food Minister, Charles A. McCurdy, gave the United Press the following figures on commodities handled during the whole period of control in pounds sterling:

Butter, cheese and milk products	125,856,000
Cattle, feeding-stuffs, oils, oil-seeds, fats	193,488,000
Tea, dried fruit, sundries	80,189,000
Bacon, hams, and lard	292,448,000
Vegetables, fruits and preservation	32,148,000
Total	1,299,000,000

To this total must be added the purchases made by the Royal Wheat Commission, which amounted to another 1,200 millions for the United Kingdom and 250 millions for Allies and neutral countries.

Credentials

Dr. Solf, former German foreign minister, was snapped as he left the imperial palace in Tokyo after presenting his credentials (carried under his arm) as new ambassador.

Juvenile Shoes that are stronger than Dad's

We have come to the conclusion that it is false economy for our customers to buy cheaply priced shoes for the child. "Little Pals" cost a few cents more, but that is because they are made of the finest leather—the kind that will positively outwear two ordinary pairs. Also built as strongly as a man's shoe, they still retain the playfulness necessary and are adapted to the child's natural foot lines. They are WINNERS!

They're built there way by the way they're made
