BUILDING BURNED WHEN SUSPECTS OF I. W. W. REFUSED

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 21.—Forty-eight hours after officials of the Long Beach post of the American Legion publicly announced that several applications for membership had been denied men suspected of being members of the I. W. W., fire of a mysterious origin destroyed the community service building here, the home of the Legion, Red Cross and other patriotic organizations.

Fifteen former service men, sleeping in the Legion quarters, narrowly escaped being burned to death; three were overcome by smoke and carried out unconscious, and three Legionnaires were injured in rescuing disabled soldiers. The building and contents, valued by Legion officials at about $150,000, were destroyed. The fire was discovered at 5:30 o'clock in the morning.

John Brandon, former Covey Island life guard and one of the fifteen ex-service men in the structure, risked his life and sustained serious cuts and bruises when he ran back into the burning building and carried two of his companions to safety. One of the men was unable to walk because of injuries received in the service and the other had recently left the hospital.

The building contained headquarters of fourteen welfare organizations and the executive offices of the Legion, Red Cross, Boy Scouts and Community Service Inc.

It's Not Brown

Jack Dempsey wore a black derby and a bright colored coat when he went to New York to prepare for the scrap with Carpenter that will decide who's to wear the world's heavyweight brown derby.
