MARSHFIELD MAKING READY FOR B. P. O. E.

MARSHFIELD, Or., May 16.—The Annual Meeting of the State Association of Elks will be held in Marshfield, Oregon, August 13-19-20, 1921 and the preparations being made are elaborate, taking in all the natural advantages that Coos County has to entertain visitors. There is no doubt but that this Convention will be the biggest thing Coos County has ever attempted. More than 5000 are expected to attend.

Warships, hydroplanes, water sports, ocean trips, baseball, shooting matches and many other events will entertain the three days.

The Elks of Marshfield have a beautiful home that was built at a cost of about one hundred thousand dollars and it is the center of the activities of preparation for the convention.

One of the special features will be a sea food dinner at the ocean when it is expected that the entire delegation of visitors will be fed on the delicacies of the bay and sea. This dinner alone, it is estimated will cost about three thousand dollars. The Coquille valley Elks will give another dinner of dairy foods, and there will be an abundance of all the good things that are necessary to make the meeting the most successful ever held in Oregon.

MATRONLY ENGLISH CAT ADOPTS FAMILY OF NEW BORN FLUFFY CHICKENS

First Display of Motherly Interest is When 'Nellie' Decides Upon Daily Bath.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 14.—(A. P.)—While mourning the loss of her three kittens who lived but a few minutes, Nellie, a matronly English short-haired cat, turned to the incubator for consolation and now is the foster mother to a brood of chickens. The feline philanthropist has taken lodgings behind a stove in the home of Mrs. John T. Morcy of this city, and bestows constant care and affection upon her beloved but puzzling family.

A practical minded hen discovered she had been duped into completing a hatching job which an incubator had started. The fowl immediately deserted the seven newly arrived chicks.

Mrs. Morcy transferred the abandoned chickens to the tenement occupied by the cat where they came to the notice of Nellie on her first visit to the kitchen since her bereavement. After an hour of silent contemplation she decided upon the adoption.

The first display of motherly interest almost disrupted the newly acquired family. Nellie decided that the downy orphans needed a bath. While the method of washing brought no complaint the wetting that was administered caused a general retreat.

Not until the cat had stretched herself out to forget her new troubles in sleep did the chickens approach her. Then they discovered that for no reason they had been bathed. Now the cat and chickens take milk from the same saucer and at night the orphans nestle to the foster parent.

GORGOSAUSUS WHEN IN HASTE USED HIND LEGS

NEW YORK, May 14.—(A. P.)—Best minds of the American Museum of Natural History agree that the Gorgosaurus, a gigantic beast which lived only here in paleontological times, ran when in a hurry on its hind legs.

Nellie's cat saw a Gorgosaurus, but scientists disagreeing around his ancient habitats have found enlightening footprints and other evidence that he once lived in what is now the Canadian province of Alberta. They show that this carnivorous dinosaur used all fours in ordinary traveling but being spurred to high speed, the fellow got up on his hind legs. Accordingly, a Gorgosaurus skeleton recently acquired by the museum from the Lord Deer River beds of Alberta has just been mounted in his running pose.

BREAKS 99 STRAIGHT IN INLAND EMPIRE EVENT

SPOKANE, Wash., May 15.—(A. P.)—One hundred and five shooters participated in the sixth annual Inland Empire handicap shoot, and the finals of the Inland Empire telegraphic trapshooting tournament on the Fort Wright range Sunday.

Frank M. Troch of Vancouver, Wash., was high man of the day, breaking 99 straight in the five 20-target events. He missed the first target.

L. H. Reed of Portland broke 97 targets. The Dr. J. A. Resomer trophy was won by Lew Drim of Lewiston with 25 straight.

Troch won the Galax hotel trophy with 25 straight. The shoot will continue today and Thursday.

Desiring to improve the health and the life chances of children, Portland is planning to observe a "well babies' week."

A Picture Romance—"The Greater Claim"—Off for a Vacation—Two Comedy Stars—Tom Moore's Marriage—"Made in Heaven"—Real Cowboy.

It was the quintessence of romance that culminated in the marriage at Greenwich, Conn., on the day after Christmas, of Dorothy Gish, favorite comedienne of the films, and James Rennie, her leading man in her current picture, "Flying Pal."

Miss Gish arrived in New York from California about a year ago to make a series of pictures in the East and a few evenings later went to the Henry Miller Theatre to see Ruth Chatterton in "Moonlight and Magnolias." Mr. Rennie was playing opposite Miss Chatterton and Miss Gish was duly and truly impressed. "It has a wonderful type for pictures," it is related she whispered to her sister Lillian, "I'd like him for my leading man."

Accordingly, an interview was arranged and Mr. Rennie was engaged as Miss Gish's leading man in "Modeling Her Husband." Lillian Gish acted, she now admits, in the dual capacity of director and chaperone for her younger sister. The picture was a big success and the acting he it now known, was not only most acceptable to the public but most agreeable to the principals.

When the plans for "Flying Pal" were being laid, Mr. Rennie was again engaged as leading man, being most appropriately cast, as he is a veteran of the Royal Flying Corps. In the picture Miss Gish takes several trips among the clouds in an airplane and although the story called for another aviator to pilot the star, it was Mr. Rennie who kindly volunteered to take her up for the picture's sake. Mr. Rennie is playing a leading part in "Spanish Love."

The unrequitable maternal instinct proves the means of losing a plot of schemes, and a hero as seen in "The Greater Claim." Miss Gish takes the part of Mary, a beauty of the Falls, who when through an exciting series of adventures during which her husband is kidnapped by the rain father and his child made the subject of a Salomon's choice. The role of the real hero is played by Lillian Gish, three years old and known to his screen friends as "Dickie." Besides his accomplishments as an actor, "Dickie" is the world's champion child swimmer and diver, having won two cups and two medals.

Marie Mosquini, are looking for something funny. "Snub" has it but Marie seems to have missed the point. "Hoot" Gibson

There are scores of motion picture cowboys who never saw a ranch until they went on location and who do not know the difference between breaking a broncho and breaking the Eighteenth Amendment. But one of the few Algonquin pure, blown-in-the-bottle cowboys who have won fame on the silver sheet is Ed (Hoot) Gibson.

"Hoot" was born on his father's ranch near Tekamah, Nebraska, and rode horseback ever since he can remember. When ranch life became monotonous he joined Bud Adkins' Circus and Carnival of Rough Riders, appearing with that organization in America, Mexico, South America and Australia. In most of the foreign countries riding contests were arranged with all the local experts, and Gibson walked off with the palm on every occasion. In 1912 Hoot returned to America and became a contestant in the Round-up at Pendleton, Oregon, the classic of the rodeos. Here he won all the honors for riding, roping, bull-dogging and all the arts of the cowboy.

Virginia Caldwell, whose dazzling beauty, dancing and bubbling merriment made her one of the most popular members of the Ziegfeld chorus a few years ago has one of the leading roles in "What's A Wife Worth?" She made her debut in pictures supporting Bert Lytell in "The Right of Way," and since that time has distinguished herself in "The Desperate Hero," with Owen Moore, "The U. P. Trail" and other productions.
