PASTIME TODAY

Remember the delightfully funny vaudeville team of Crimmins and Gore—Dan Crimmins and Rosa Gore? They are playing the principal comedy character roles in support of Frank Mayo in "Colorado" which is now at the Pastime Theatre. The story gives Mayo his greatest opportunity for dramatic punch. The scenes are laid in the mining country of Colorado and a flooded gold mine furnishes one of the big thrills of the drama.

GOLD PAID FOR BY SOULS

"The Money-Changers" the all-star Benjamin B. Hampton-Pathé feature at the Arcade Theatre today is not a crook play, nor a drama of high finance, nor a Chinese play, but it is a study deftly combining all three in a powerful story of New York that takes in like the glittering splendor of the richest city's highest society and the colorful, mysterious, drug laden atmosphere of the Oriental underworld.

Written for the screen by Mr. Hampton and Upton Sinclair and based on the theme of Mr. Sinclair's famous novel "The Money-Changers," the story revolves about a man greedy for money. A respected member of society and president of a big drug company, it was not known that he was also the guiding spirit of a ring of drug traffickers. At the cost of the souls of men and women he grew rich with money that bought an illicit drug. The plot of "The Money-Changers" unmasks the hypocrite and brings about a turning point toward happiness in two romances.

ALTA TODAY

Olive Thomas has appeared in a great variety of roles during her screen career but it is doubtful if any of her preceding characterizations excel or even equal her present portrayal of Mary, in the "nobility" in "Everybody's Sweetheart," which is now appearing at the Alta theatre for a two day run.

In spite of Mary's position, or lack of it she is a constant and living emblem of optimism. No matter what happens, Mary keeps her chin up and smiles and when in the final part of the picture the dreams of this modern "Cinderella" come true, every person in the audience smiles both with and at Mary.

"Everybody's Sweetheart" is not simply a story of saccharine simper and smiles but a well balanced dramatic tale of how the spirit of youth and inherent cheerfulness conquers all obstacles in reaching its goal.

Director Laurence Trimble has surrounded the star with a cast of unusual calibre with Willie Collier, Jr., son of the famous comedian, as leading man.

TURKISH NATIONALISTS ABANDON FEZ AND USE KALPAK AS HEADRESS

Principal Argument in Favor of This Reform Was an Economical One; Kalpak Cheap.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 22.—(A. P.)—The National Assembly in Ankara, has decided that the fez is no longer to be the National headress of the Turk. By unanimous vote it was agreed that the "kalpak" should replace it, as the uniform covering for the head of all troops, officials and Turkish subjects generally.

The principal argument in favor of this reform, which eliminates one of the most characteristic and picturesque features of Turkish attire, was an economical one. The Turks have never been able to manufacture fezes that compared in price or quality with those manufactured abroad, especially in Austria, where there were several large factories which turned out millions of these articles.

The "kalpak" can be manufactured in Turkey, but it can hardly be considered an improvement on the old fez.

It is made of black cloth or felt, and is much the same shape as the fez only flatter and broader, as it does not taper. Neither is really a very practical form of head-gear, because they are warm and afford little protection against rain and none from the glare of the sun. The fez was bright and lent color to any assembly. Its successor is sombre, uninteresting and on the whole rather depressing.

FRANCE FORGETS MEN WHO STAYED AT HOME

PARIS, May 22.—(Edwin W. Hurlinger, U. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Even in France, the people "who stayed at home" forget easily the sacrifices made by the men who fought in the war, but fortunately there are ex-pollis in civilian ranks to remember and take the part of their ex-commanders who fared less happily than they.

A Regular "O. Henry" incident of this affection of a sound comrade for his crippled brother-in-arms occurred at a little open air cafe opposite the Gare du Nord.

A beggar, with one leg gone below the knee and an empty sleeve tucked into his pocket, was making the rounds of the tables. His face wore that dazed numb expression of one who has suffered so much that he has become insensible to any vicissitude of fortune. Three service ribbons were in his lapel buttonhole.

One of the guests, an ex-service man, noticed the ribbons and invited him to "have a beer."

There was a whispered consultation, inside and the waiter tugged the man's coat-sleeve and informed him the house "didn't serve beggars." The guest pointed to the cripple's service ribbons, and retorted indignantly: "Perhaps, then, the house serves its benefactors." This man lost his leg and arm for the proprietor's patrie. The proprietor may have a sense of gratitude!

The proprietor stood pat. Other guests, ex-service men, became interested and soon there was a crowd around the irate customer and the shoulder-shrugging "patron."

The beggar meanwhile sat in stupefied dazedness, listlessly fingering his crutches. He was so used to this kind of thing that it no longer surprised, hardly even seemed to hurt.

Finally another guest at a far table shouted:

"Waiter, you can serve me, anyway. Bring be a beer."

With a flourish he seized the glass from the waiter's hand, strode across and deposited it in front of the beggar. The crowd cheered. The proprietor scowled.

The second guest, also an ex-serviceman, smiled at the beggar, bowed to the beggar, and with that sense of the theatrical which is one of the charms of the French temperament, raised his own glass to the memory of the "grande guerre."

PRIZE FOR BEST STORY IS OFFERED BY DEAN

—UNIVERSITY, May 22.—An annual prize for the best constructive news story written and published during the school year is to be offered by Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism.

The prize, competition for which is open to all majors in the school of journalism, is to be given in order to stimulate student interest in the better type of journalistic work, which the school is exemplifying in its courses of study. The story must have been printed in some newspaper or magazine of general circulation, and is to be judged by the faculty of the school of journalism, excluding the dean.

As the award of $5 is to be made merely as a badge of recognition of the attainment of certain standards, no prize will be awarded unless a story is found "of sufficient distinction to merit public commendation in the name of the university."

Dean Allen describes a constructive news story as one in which "the writer has seen further into an event—has seen more in it—than is seen by the ordinary observer or ordinary reporter. It is a story where the event is conceived as of growing out of past events and as having an influence on future events. It is a story of evolution, rather than accidental sensation-value."

The Grand American Prerogative

THE right to choose is the grand American prerogative—the glory of American democracy.

And a most important part of it—the RIGHT TO CHOOSE WHAT YOU BUY—was bestowed upon you by advertising.

Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or motor traction. It is the system whereby a man who has something to sell tells about it to those who do or should use it. For no one can want anything until he knows of its existence.

Advertising is the way by which you are told why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. So the advertisements you find in this newspaper make up a CATALOG of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and pictures. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements will help you in the selection of all manner of things.

Use them for Guidance and you will be a constant gainer
