MOONLIGHT CAUSED THIS SCANDAL

Take a pretty, romantic young woman whose husband is too busy to love her and an attractive man who is worried of his wife. Place them together under the spell of the full moon at midnight. And what happens?

"Midsummer Madness" will tell you in a manner that will please and startle. This is the new William De Mille production which has taken its place beside the really fine pictures of the current season. It will be shown at the Alta Theatre for two days commencing today.

The story, adapted from Cosmo Hamilton's society novel, "His Friend and His Wife," centers around two young married couples who are close friends. One of the husbands imagines himself in love with his friend's wife, and she, neglected by her husband and starving for romance, yields to a temporary infatuation. The results are highly interesting and lead to a climax that for sheer dramatic intensity has seldom been equalled on the screen.

A notable cast was chosen to play the chief roles in "Midsummer Madness," including such favorites as Lila Lee, Lois Wilson, Jack Holt and Conrad Nagel.

ADVENTURE IN RUGGED WEST

The Arcade Theatre presents today and tomorrow the long anticipated Edgar Lewis-Pathe feature, "Lahoma." Mr. Lewis' specialty is the outdoor picture, because he is a lover of Nature and believes that the greatest adventures, the greatest romances, are those enacted in the vast open spaces where God's work is most magnificent.

"Lahoma" is a story of the West—of those early days when men left their comfortable homes in the East and took their wives and their children across thousands of miles of rough, hard roads to a young and new land filled with dangers and hardships—adventure and romance.

The action of the story revolves around Lahoma and a tender-hearted outlaw who adopts her after rescuing her from death by the outlaws, of whose band he was a member.

The cast, a large one, was picked with the care that characterizes all Edgar Lewis casts. Peaches Jackson plays the baby Lahoma and Louise Burnham is Lahoma, the young woman. Jack Ferrin, Russel Simpson, Wade Boteler, Will Jeffries, Yvette Mitchell, H. M. Lindley are among those playing important roles.

I'd walk a mile for a Camel

The pleasure is worth it. There's no substitute for Camel quality and that mild, fragrant Camel blend.

The fellow who smokes Camels, wants Camels. That's because Camels have a smoothness, a fragrance and a mildness you can't get in another cigarette.

Don't let anyone tell you that any other cigarette at any price is so good as Camels.

Let your own taste be the judge. Try Camels for yourself. A few smooth, refreshing puffs and you'd walk a mile for a Camel, too.

A DRAMA THAT RELIVES THE PIONEER WEST
ADAPTED FROM THE NOVEL BY JOHN BRECKENRIDGE ELLIS

LAHOMA
The prairie rose who knew no friends but the outlaw and the cynic.

Will Compton
Bred and educated in the east; his cowboy life had lost its charm.

"BILL" ATKINS
The big-hearted cynic who lived alone and passed the greater part of his life keeping one step ahead of civilization.

"Brick" Willock
An outlaw whose spirit craved adventure, not crime. They called him "Great Heart."

THESE PEOPLE KNEW THE WEST

With simple sincerity they unfold to you the human drama that flowered in the pioneer days of Oklahoma. You'll thrill at the immense open spaces, the beauty of a sweeping of a blinding sand storm. You'll hold your breath at the lightning swoop of the riding outlaws.

You'll thrill at the immense open spaces, the beauty and wondrous charm of primal nature. And you'll laugh a bit, weep a bit, with the rose of the rancho, the lonesome cowboy, the cynic, the outlaw and the schemer.

BRITISH AUTHORITIES IN IRELAND FIND MANY CONCEALED MAGAZINES

After Months of Almost Fruitless Search, Important Finds Are Being Made.

DUBLIN, May 24.—(A. P.)—A new feature of military administration in Dublin is the success of the authorities in discovering concealed arms and ammunition. Most active in this work has been the F. Company of the Auxiliaries to the Constabulary, which, as communications regarding it are always based by General Headquarters, and not by the castle, must be supposed to be operating by military orders.

After months of almost fruitless searches important finds are being made. Search is not confined to the poorer districts and the most fashionable houses are exhaustively examined. Suspicion is not directed so much against the owners of such houses as against their servants, while in some cases it is probable that neither master nor servants were cognizant of all that the premises contained. Dublin has numerous streets of houses each with a stable at the back, relics of the time when the occupants kept carriages. In many cases these stables are let to car drivers, or to anybody willing to rent them, and several of these stables have been found to contain supplies of revolvers, rifles and bombs. Some houses in the suburbs have long gardens to the end of which owners do not often penetrate, and in some of these, bombs have been discovered.

Despite all this activity the official summary of outrages record each week with no diminution in the number or character of the attacks made in the city, which have grown in excess of all anticipations. Apart from the bomb attacks on the military lorries, which have wounded more bystanders civilians than members of the crown forces, the audacity of the Republican Army in manifested every day in exploits, each of them perhaps trifling but in combination showing careful organization and reckless boldness. Postmen, telegraph messengers and dispatch riders are help up, and their messages captured. It is quite common for the average citizen to receive his letters after some days delay marked "censored by the Irish Republic," and this is often the case when letters containing valuables have been registered. Nobody can drive an automobile without a permit, but this interferes little with the activities of those against whom the regulation is aimed. When the republicans want a motor they go and take it. They give in most cases a receipt for it and when it has served their purposes they return it. Even military lorries have not escaped seizure and use by the Republican agent.

Food stores intended for the military have been captured and destroyed, and even the laundry vans have been made a prey and their contents burned within a couple of miles of Dublin castle. The same story comes from many parts of the country and every province can show numerous instances of the same kind of activity as in Dublin. Imprisonment apparently has been ineffectual.

Besides over 2,000 persons in jail under the sentences of the court-martial, there are interned in the various internment camps over 2,400 men, held on suspicion that they would be likely to commit offenses. There seems to be always somebody to take the place of the man in jail.

RED CROWN GASOLINE
The Gasoline of Quality

WORDS cannot adequately describe the beauties of Crater Lake. Its sapphire-blue coloring, its picturesque island and its gorgeous setting combine to make it one of nature's wonder spots.

Crater Lake is in the southern part of Oregon and is accessible by automobile from the Pacific Highway.

And motorists may plan a trip to Crater Lake with assurance because Red Crown Gasoline may be obtained all along the route—from north or south.

Make your trip with "Red Crown"—the gasoline of quality—the gasoline with a continuous chain of boiling points.

Look for the Red Crown sign on service stations and garages.
