Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE REAL CURE

When a fellow's knocked out and he can't get about
 And the doctor says, "stay there in bed,"
 When he's all aches and pains and the blood in his veins
 Seems to flow like a fluid of lead,
 You may dose him with pills and with tinctures and squills,
 But the cure for a man, after all,
 Are the roses of love and the glad voices of
 The good friends who drop in to call.
 Shot him up all alone, and he'll lie there and groan
 In the dusk of his dark, curtained room,
 And his cheeks will grow pale, and his spirits will fall,
 And his face reflect only the gloom;

"THE LAST GREAT STAND"

PRESIDENT HARDING'S proclamation setting aside the period of May 22 to 28 as Forest Protection Week bids the American people to look to the protection and care of their remaining forest resources.
 That there is need for such admonition is fully warranted when one faces squarely the facts of timber depletion.
 The Pacific northwest is now the nation's woodlot—how long will it remain such if forest fires are not kept out of our timber?
 Unless each man, woman and child that goes into our forests realizes a personal responsibility regarding fire, the "last great stand" of timber of the northwest will go, just as the white pine of New England and the lake states went, and like the yellow pine of the South is going now.
 Timber depletion has now reached a point in this country where three-fifths of the primeval forests are gone and where 61 per cent of the timber that is left is west of the great plains.
 Many substitutes have been devised for wood, and yet the great demands of the country for timber continues to grow. More wood is used in construction today than before the discovery of concrete, and more wood is used in building railway cars than before the steel or part steel car was developed. This is apparently true in nearly every industry.
 The idleness of 81,000,000 acres of forest land, an area increased by 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres annually, destructive logging and still more destructive forest fires are the factors at work to increase the timber shortage.
 The exhaustion of American timber has not come about because the forests have been used so freely, but because of the failure to keep down forest fires and to use forest growing land. In a nutshell, the problem is that the United States is cutting wood out of its forests three or four times as fast as it is being grown. Much of the land on which timber stands or has been cut will always be forest land. It is ample to grow all the wood needed for the use of the people of this country and for export trade in lumber, and products manufactured from lumber, if the land can be kept at work growing trees. Timber for the future is simply a matter of putting idle land to work.

PROTECTING CHILDHOOD

THE legal standards adopted by the various states to protect children from the hazards of too early employment are shown by a chart recently issued by the U. S. department of Labor through the Children's Bureau.
 In all except four states the minimum age for work at least in factories and often in many other employments is placed as high as 14 years, and seven states have an age minimum of 15 to 16 years. Exemptions exist in most of these states, but they apply in many cases to children employed outside school hours or during vacations.
 Twenty-nine states have recognized the 8-hour day standard for children under 16 by prohibiting them from working longer hours in certain occupations, or by extending this prohibition to all gainful employments, usually, however, exempting housework and work on farms. Of the other states, nearly half limit the working hours in the regulated occupations to 54 or less a week. The 11-hour day still exists in two states, with a weekly maximum of 6 hours. Forty-one states have some prohibition of night work applying to children under 16, and of these 17 prohibit such work without exemptions, except in some cases for agricultural pursuits and domestic service.
 Eighteen states, including some of the principal industrial states, require a child under 16 to have a physician's certificate of physical fitness before he can obtain an employment certificate, and 10 others permit the certificate-issuing officer to impose this requirement in his discretion.
 For work in mines the general minimum age standard is 16, but 10 states still permit the employment of boys 14 years of age, and six have no minimum age for such work.
 To take proper care of the coming G. A. R. convention we will all have to act with our hearts as well as our heads and hands. Here will be a splendid opportunity for people old and young to join in showing courtesy to men who faced peril when the life of the republic was at stake.
 When we join an association of nations pledged to stop warfare we can afford to let up on navy building; until then we cannot do so in safety.
 If you want to see something classy and interesting keep your eye on Happy Canyon during the next three days.
 Senator McNary voted with the navy economists; does he think we should hold back until Japan catches up with us?
 "They say" there are signs indicating a hot summer and we may need that new ice plant.

THE OLD HOME TOWN By Stanley

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian, May 25, 1892.)
 Rainy weather has interfered somewhat with sheep shearing. Tuesday of last week a crew of 12 men commenced work on a band of 1500 yearlings for J. B. Ray and have not yet been able to finish.
 Members of the Congregational Church will hold Union prayer meeting tomorrow night.
 The slide near Meacham was cleared up by Tuesday evening and the delayed west bound trains reached Pendleton about 10 o'clock. All is now serene.
 John Grants has sold to Mike Grants his saloon on the corner of Main and Webb streets.
 Joseph Vey is in the city from Butter Creek. He expects to start all his sheep to the mountains within a few days. Three hands go to John Day and three to the Grande Ronde.

 The Roller Mills are still running day and night grinding lots of good flour. There is a steady market and a shipment of three or four carloads leaves daily for Portland.

For Graduates

Margarites give a fitting festive touch to the graduate's frock. They are effective embroidered in a delicate color against a white organdy background. Width of the backs adds a pleasing touch.

Chronic Constipation
 This condition is usually brought on by neglect. Neglect to drink as much water as a healthy person requires, which is three pints each day. Neglect to take enough exercise to keep the body in a healthy condition. Neglect to establish a regular habit of having the bowels move once each day, whether there is an inclination or not. It is obvious that to cure chronic constipation, you must first correct your habits. Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent but will not cure you permanently, when these neglects are persisted in. Begin now. Get well and stay well.

Stomach Troubles
 "I have never found anything so good for stomach troubles and constipation as Chamberlain's Tablets. I have used them off and on for the past two years. They not only regulate the bowels but invigorate the liver and keep one's body in a healthy condition," writes Mrs. Benjamin Hoffer, Auburn, N. Y.

Dislocated Her Shoulder
 Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Liniment advertised for sprains and soreness and she asked him to buy a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved the pain and soreness and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. If you are troubled with rheumatism, give Chamberlain's Liniment a trial. It is excellent.

For a Bad Cough
 When you can not sleep for coughing, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will allay the irritation of the throat and make sleep possible. It contains no opiate.

THE U. S. ROYAL CORD

A famous tire—and a famous tread. Acknowledged among motorists and dealers alike as the world's foremost example of Cord tire building. Always delivering the same repeated economy, tire after tire, and season after season.
 The stripe around the sidewall is registered as a trade-mark in the U. S. Patent Office.

How you can measure tire value in 1921

OFTEN it's surprising the number of different tire views that come out in a chance talk at the curb or in the leisure of a friend's garage.

Almost every day you come across the man human enough to believe he can outguess the cut-price tag on "job-lots," "discontinued lines" and "surplus stocks."

His opposite is the hard-pan car owner who sticks year in and year out to a standard brand as the only rational economy.

Many will remember the scarcity of U. S. Tires last year.

A hardship at the time, but a benefit now. There are no U. S. Tires to be worked off—no accumulations—no forced selling of any U. S. brand—no shipping of tires from one part of the country to another to "find a market."

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches. Each one gets its share of U. S. Tires. There is a broad, constant, even distribution of U. S. Tires always going on from these Branches to the dealer.

Buy a U. S. Tire anywhere—in a community of 500 people or even less—and you get a fresh, live tire of current production—with all the original service and mileage the factory put into it.

The owner of a medium or light-weight car stands on equal ground with every other car owner.

Any United States Tire is a universal full money's worth—backed up with a leadership policy of equal quality, buying convenience and price for everybody.
