

MORE PEOPLE DIE FROM IDLING THAN HUSTLING

LONDON, June 10.—(A. P.)—Lord Leverhulme, one of Great Britain's largest manufacturers, asserts that more people shorten their lives by dawdling in England than by hustling. He is a living proof that hustling promotes hale old age. He has always led the strenuous life and at 70 is still going strong. He presided at the annual meeting of the British Industrial Safety First Association the other day. In his address he drew largely upon his American experience. Steps had been taken there, he said, to ascertain whether it was the hustling, hustling man who was supposed to shorten his days, or the man who dawdled and dawdled through life. He declared there were men in the United States today of 80, 90 and between 90 and 100 years of age who were still in good health and actively engaged in business, whereas men who had retired early from business had shortened their lives thereby. He thought the crawl of the dawdler was largely instrumental in shortening the lives of individuals in Great Britain—that the more a man worked, whether professionally or in other vocations, the more he would conserve his life and strength and the life and commerce of the country.

LENINE'S TRADE PLAN IS VOTED FAILURE

RIGA, June 10.—(A. P.)—Newspapers now appearing in Moscow give some inkling of the struggle in Russia during the first two months of the attempt to restore something like normal civilization, along the line of Lenin's new policy of freedom of trade, and at the same time retain power in the hands of the Communists. Reform after reform has been announced but the Moscow papers say that difficulties are arising at every turn. Lenin, hopeful of success, is keeping his pen busy day and night writing articles after articles explaining why the reforms were necessary and urging the peasants to support him. Sacklow and other more radical writers, however, are filling the Pravda and Izvestia with arguments in which they attempt to show that free trade already has proved an utter failure. They are also adopting the "I told you so" attitude and suggesting a return to ironclad Communism. During the period of transition to American or other foreign news correspondents were admitted into Russia and only occasional news admissions or editorial controversy is printed in the Moscow press. The Moscow Economic Life of May 5 displays hopefully an account of a peasants' conference which agreed on the necessity of the non-partisan working with the Communists to restore Russia; but other papers editorially bemoan the fact that "the peasants are not interested and won't do anything at all." Information from independent sources, however, indicates that Lenin has no real opposition that he could not sweep away quickly and that the situation is now entirely up to him. He is being guarded more closely than ever in view of the rumors in Moscow of a new plot to assassinate him and other commissaries.

COMPANIES HELD RESPONSIBLE

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(A. P.)—Responsibility for keeping check on the number of immigrants who enter the United States under the percentage immigration law, and avoiding bringing to American ports more than the quota of each nationality allowed will be placed on steamship companies, W. W. Hubbard, commissioner general of immigration, said yesterday.

USED THREE TWIRLERS

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(A. P.)—Three Oakland pitchers failed to stop a Vernon onslaught today and the Tigers took the game, 8 to 2. Vernon made four runs in the first inning on three doubles and a single. Arlett was retiring in that inning on three doubles and a single. Steloid replaced him, but later gave way to Hilton.

Star Fielding

These hands made only 116 errors out of 4755 chances in the field. They belong to Everett Scott, shortstop for the Boston Red Sox. In the last five years Scott, in 700 consecutive games, has made a fielding average of .974.
