KEARNS WILL DIRECT DEMPSEY'S PLAN OF BATTLE IN THE RING

BY SID MERCER
(Written for International News Service.)

ATLANTA CITY, June 17.—A few words with Jack Kearns, managing director of Dempsey & Co., may not be amiss at this time.

Dempsey himself is not given to discussion of his chances with Mons. Georges Carpentier, the leaping frog. He will talk about anything else, but only Kearns knows what the champion really thinks of the vaunted punches his opponent is supposed to be perfecting.

Kearns knows, but he isn't telling. However, he has made a study of every angle of this fight. Make no mistake about it, Dempsey has a smart, foresighted manager. It is Kearns who will direct the plan of battle for Dempsey after the men enter the ring.

Thoughtful in many subjects, Kearns is not given to lengthy public discussions of the fight. But once in a while when he gets in the mood and is surrounded by a few friends he cuts loose, and then you realize that he has given the matter deeper thought than any of the high-browed experts.

Seated in a group of congenial companions in one of the cafes here, Dempsey's manager expounded some of his views, and they carry weight. The discussion started when Fred Perry brought Colonel James McAuliffe over to the table and introduced him to Kearns.

Colonel McAuliffe has been a globe trotter for many years. He knows the capitals of Europe as well as the American cities; he is as much at home in Paris as in New York.

"I am very pleased to meet you, Mr. Kearns," said the colonel, "because I feel that I have a greater interest in next month's affair than the average boxing fans. I have seen Car-pont-SHAY in nearly every one of his ring battles—both in France and England—and after looking at Dempsey to-day I honestly don't believe the Frenchman stands a ghost of a show."

"What must be looked out for?" queried Kearns, who is keen for such information.

"Dempsey Not a Still Target

"Nothing but that leap and a left," replied the colonel.

"I saw Car-pont-SHAY fight Klaus, Smith, Jeannette, Beckett, Wells, Papke and others, and I must say that I never saw him adopt the same opening tactics in any fight. Yet while I admire him as a man, I honestly think he has never whipped a real good man. Of course he can hit, but Dempsey is not going to stand still and offer himself as a target, is he?"

"I should say not," replied Kearns. "All we want is for this fellow to come tearing in. If he does I don't think the fight will last a round. And yet I

Home Runs Can't Help Connie

Home runs haven't been doing Connie Mack much good. His Athletics are second to the New York Yankees in home runs. Yet the Mack men are in the cellar, while New York is fighting for first place. All of which proves that home runs don't always win ball games.

kind of hope it will go three or four rounds so that people can see how Dempsey has improved since he topped Willard. I claim he is the hardest hitting heavyweight of modern times. I don't believe that Fitzsimmons or Jack Johnson could have stood long before him. If we only had Jeffries back where he was twenty years ago! Boy what a fight he and Dempsey would make.

The colonel rambled on. "Car-pont-SHAY is fast," he said, "and you know he can hit by the way he stopped Beckett. But that fight was over before it began. Beckett, a slow-moving fellow, was out maneuvered. He thought the first round would be devoted to sparring, was slow in getting his dukes up, utterly unprepared for a rush and went out on two blows."

"Papke was going down hill rapidly when he met the French champion. Joe Jeannotte was a veteran. Wells a glass-eyed fighter and an on down the line. The Frenchman has not tested himself out on a real fighter since the war and I'm afraid his admirers are going to be horribly disappointed in him."

The Champ's Weighty Punch
Kearns sat a moment in deep thought. He appeared to be visualizing that first round on July 2. Then he spoke.

"There isn't a man living to-day," he began, "who can begin to hit as hard as Dempsey. Why, he can hardly pull his punches when he spurs. Did you see him knocking that sixty-pound bag around today with Teddy Hayes riding it? I tell you he is as strong as a bull, loose and fast. If we had an apparatus for testing the weight of blows I would bet my interest in the fight that Dempsey, on his toes and without rushing, can hit as hard with his right as Carpentier can after one of his rushes and springs."

"I understand from some of the newspaper boys that the Frenchman spends a lot of time hopping across the ring and hitting the ring posts as he lands. They say he is very accurate. But Dempsey won't be standing there like a ring post, take it from me."

"We will be prepared for anything in the first round. Jack would like nothing better than to have his man come tearing in. If he shoots a right, watch Dempsey get inside and hook with his left. And if he comes with a left, watch Dempsey's straight right. You know what he can put behind it."

"Jack may not be as limber-legged and he isn't as flashy a rope skipper or bag puncher as Carpentier, but he will be faster and stronger on July 2 than he ever was before. I always was a great admirer of Jeffries, but I honestly think Dempsey is as strong as Jeff ever was, and much faster."

"What about him 'taking it'?" spoke up one of the party.

"I'm glad you asked me about that," replied Kearns. "Aside from his early fights Dempsey hasn't had to take many hard blows. He claims that the Darby punch was the one that Gimboot Smith landed on him. The Gunner could sock in those days. He planted that right on Dempsey, but couldn't floor him. Carl Morris also hit him hard, and Morris was a giant."

"Bill Brennan? Well, throw out that fight. Even so, Brennan landed some good blows but never had the champ in distress."

Nothing Like Experience

One truth learned by actual experience does more good than ten experiences one hears about. Tell a man that Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure pain in the stomach and he will most likely forget it before the end of the day. Let him have a severe attack of that disease, feel that he is about to die, use this remedy and learn from his own experience how quickly it gives relief and he will remember it all the rest of his life.

Good Advice to Travelers

Whether going to the mountains or sea shore, taking a journey on business or pleasure, never leave home without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is worth many times its cost when needed and may save a life.

It Troubled With Indigestion This Will Interest You

"Some months ago when I was troubled with indigestion, I used Chamberlain's Tablets and am only too pleased to give this medicine my endorsement, for it not only cured me of stomach trouble, but invigorated my whole system. I like these tablets better than anything of the nature I have ever used," writes Mrs. Albert Horner, Haverhill, N. Y.

For the Stomach and Liver

"About two years ago I took two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets for the stomach and liver and can praise this remedy highly for the great good it did me," writes Mrs. Mary Haven, Sandy Creek, N. Y. "I have since recommended this remedy to some of my friends who have also used it with good results." If troubled with indigestion or constipation, Chamberlain's Tablets will do you good.
