U. S. MINT WOULD PICK UP ALL 'BAD COINS'

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(E. N. S.)—The collecting of "bad money" coins which have been imperfectly minted is the peculiar hobby of Douglas N. Starr, sergeant of the guard at the War Department. Starr's collection is thought to be the only one of its kind in the world.

The National Museum has received one collection of 200 perfect coins gathered together by Sergeant Starr, and now he has completed a small private collection, containing twenty-three perfect coins, ranging from a silver dollar, minted in 1867, to dimes and pennies of 1920.

Ray Baker, director of the mint, has asked Starr to sell this collection to the Treasury Department, either for exhibition or for the coins to be cancelled as worthless. Starr has refused to comply with this request, and Mr. Baker will ask the passage of a law to compel the return to the Government of imperfect coins.

The old half dollar, two dimes with the dates 1875 and 1899, six Buffalo nickels, four of the new dimes, one Indian penny and nine Lincoln Pennies comprise Starr's latest collection.

A portion of the disk is unstamped on each of these coins, this having occurred when the die which stamped the coins was not properly centered. A portion of the coin was stamped twice in two cases. On one of the Lincoln pennies a part of the die had struck over an already imperfect coin, leaving two separate impressions, neither of which was properly centered.

Starr devotes more than 2,500,000 acres of land to olive culture.

Throwing an old shoe after the bride was originally a sign that her father relinquished all dominion over her.
