

News Notes of Pendleton

CALENDAR OF EVENTS
 June 27-August 5—Summer Normal School.
 July 10 to 16—Ellaon-White Chautauqua.
 September 22, 23, 24—Annual Pendleton Round-Up.

Glad to Be Home
 Mr. and Mrs. Doug Belts and grandson, Elbert Belts, returned home Saturday after an absence of a year and one day. They are pioneers of Umatilla county and they started for Seattle a year ago Friday. The rest was taken for the benefit of Mr. Belts' health and he declares that he is feeling fine. That neither Seattle nor Long Beach, Calif., nor any of the country he saw during the course of the year appeals to him like Umatilla county, was a statement he made yesterday. He came to Umatilla county in 1876 and for many years was prominent among the men of the county interested in the sheep industry.

Highway Trucks Wrecked.
 Two of the trucks used by the highway department in the work near Deadman's Pass were somewhat wrecked yesterday and the accident caused suspension of work for a time. One of the trucks turned over while the other truck had a collision with an auto. No one was injured. The work near Deadman's Pass has reached such a stage that it is believed the contract will be finished within two weeks.

James Cornfield Buried.
 James Cornfield, well known local citizen and resident of Pendleton for 18 years, was buried this forenoon, the funeral being held from St. Mary's Catholic church at 10 o'clock. The pall bearers were James Devlin, Henry Schultz, Frank McNally, James Brink, G. W. Fisher and Henry Scholten. In the list of children published Saturday the name of Frank (Bill) Cornfield was omitted. The other children are Mrs. E. T. Riepe, Heriberto, Mrs. O. T. Hanavan, Pendleton, and Mrs. Forrest Leroy Baker, Pendleton. Mr. Cornfield was a native of Scotland and came to the United States 54 years ago. During his residence in Pendleton he was in the contracting business.

Rowman a Good Student.
 Robert Lester Rowman of Pendleton is one of the boys from Eastern Oregon who is making a good record at Hill Military Academy in Portland. He was commended by the principal and officers for his diligence and attention to studies and drill. Rowman has been attending the academy but a short time but has made good. Homer Hayden, another Pendleton boy, was graduated in June from the academy and his brother, Adolph, will be the football captain when the fall semester opens.

Police Have Quiet Life.
 Quiet conditions in Pendleton today were reflected in the atmosphere of calm about the police station. Neither Chief Roberts nor Officer William Shoen found their duties heavy inasmuch as thousands of people have left the city and those remaining seem bent on entirely lawful pursuits. "The bootleggers have all gone to Ukiah," says the chief.

Buy's Brownsville Times.
 J. R. Hinman, former telegraph editor of the East Oregonian and who has been a resident of Astoria for some years past, has purchased the Brownsville Times from William Wheeler who had published that paper for 25 years. Hinman is now in charge of the paper.

Headquarters in Portland.
 It has been announced that the Co-operative Graingrowers' Association, which has previously had headquarters in The Dalles will move its offices to Portland this week. Edgar L. Ludwick, organization director, thinks the association will handle one-third of the Oregon grain crop this year.

Hendricks Funeral Tuesday.
 The funeral of the late Mrs. F. C. Hendricks will be held from the Christian church at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The service will be conducted by ministers of the Lutheran church.

Here and There
 C. D. Putman of the Putman Drug company of La Grande, is a business visitor in Pendleton.

MINISTER'S WORD FOR IT
 CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 4.—"Everyone has the right to brew a little bit of beer in his own home. This is his personal freedom and nothing should take this right away from him," declared Rev. Dr. L. G. Landenberg, of St. Louis, speaking before the annual convention of the New charge of the paper.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT CABINET MEMBERS.

SECRETARY OF STATE.
 (By United Press.)
 It is now the "affable Mr. Hughes." Up to a few months ago it was the "icy Mr. Hughes."
 So far none has attempted to explain the sudden change of temperature in Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state, formerly justice of the U. S. supreme court and republican candidate for president in 1916.
 That the Hughes temperature, however, can drop quickly to the stiff freezing point when the occasion demands it was demonstrated a short time ago when a bureau chief in the state department sought to brush aside the rules of the office and see his chief in spite of the "busy signal." He opened Hughes' door after being warned away by a secretary. Hughes measured the intruder with one of his famous glacial glances and the chilled bureau chief staggered from the doorway.
 Hughes, however, does not spend his time showing a warm exterior to the world. He is working as hard as any man who ever held the office. Observers credit him with an exceptional capacity for work, a keen grasp of international affairs and being a master of diplomacy. His handling of several delicate international situations, including the Yap mandate, our participation in the reparations question and the Panama-Cost Rican squabble, stamps him as man of keen vision, quick decision and firm determination his admirers say.
 Hughes works hard and his example has instilled the philosophy of labor into his subordinates. He usually takes a half-hour for lunch and is in his office hard at work when the average business man is taking his shower.
