WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED.

At a charming church wedding yesterday, Miss Elma Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Thomson of Echo, became the bride of Ray Johnson, of Echo, the ceremony taking place at ten o'clock in the church of the Redeemer with Rev. Alfred Lockwood, pastor, officiating.

Miss Thomson, who was given in marriage by her father, was a lovely bride in her wedding gown of white tulle with overdrapes of real lace. She wore a full length veil, arranged in cap effect and wreathed by orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding. The bride's bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Maxine Stanfield, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, while the bridesmaids were Miss Ruby Johnson, sister of the groom, Miss Mary Bartholomew and Miss Beryl Jarmon, both cousins of the bride. They made an attractive picture in their frocks of pastel shades, veiled by white organdy. Little Miss Katherine Mitchell was a dainty little flower girl wearing peach colored organdy and carrying a basket of flowers decked by a bow of peacock blue chiffon. Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. Carl Helm sang most pleasingly, "I Love You Truly." Mrs. W. C. E. Pruitt of this city played Mendelssohn's wedding march for the entrance of the bride and her attendants, who were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, George Mitchell. Ushers were Norton Johnson, of Stanfield, cousin of the groom, Harry Andrews, of Echo and Jack Stanfield, of Echo, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party and guests motored to Echo where an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left last evening for a three weeks' tour of the Oregon and Washington beaches and will motor to Canada before they return to Echo where they will be domiciled at the George Apartments.

Mrs. Johnson, who is a girl of winning personality, attended high school in Echo and also at St. Helens hall in Portland. She attended University of Oregon and was prominent in student affairs. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson and is associated with his father in the Echo Mercantile Co. He received his education in the Echo high school and at the University of Washington. The wedding union two prominent Echo families.

HONORED BY PARTY.

Complimenting her two house guests, the Misses Kathryn Froome and Hazel Sanders of Athena, Miss Dorothy Meyers entertained a number of friends on Thursday evening. Five tables were arranged for five hundred, at which Mrs. Harry Turner won high honors.

Following the card games, a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess. Miss Froome, Miss Sanders and Miss Meyers are sorority sisters at the Oregon Agricultural college, all being members of Chi Omega—La Grande Observer.

VISITOR IS HONORED.

Honoring Vilhelm Stefansson, noted explorer who will speak this evening at Chautauqua, Colonel Charles Wellington Furlong, an old friend of Mr. Stefansson's, will entertain this evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. David H. Hill. Guests have been asked to spend a few hours most informally following the Chautauqua.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often, a few cents properly invested like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on.

It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.

The Same Everywhere.

The editor of Pains Akbar, a native newspaper of Lahore, India, says, "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy many times among my children and servants, for colic and diarrhoea and always found it effective."

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Peppin preparations and cathartics only made me worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.

A Splendid Medicine for the Stomach and Liver.

"Chamberlain's tablets for the stomach and liver are splendid. I never tire of telling my friends and neighbors of their qualities," writes Mrs. William Volmer, Eastwood, N. Y. When bilious, constipated or troubled with indigestion, give them a trial. They will do you good.

HOME DEMONSTRATION

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

FOR BUSY HOUSEWIVES

Never are salads more delicious than in summer. Salads are now made in an endless variety of ways and are composed of meat, fish, vegetables or fruits with addition of a dressing. The salad plants, lettuce, water cress, chicory, cucumbers, contain but little nutrient but they are cooling and refreshing and stimulate the appetite.

Here are a few points to be remembered:

A salad must be served cold. It should be prepared daintily and arranged attractively. Lettuce and other salad plants should be fresh, crisp and clean.

A fork should be used in mixing ingredients. A meat, fish or egg salad served with a cooked or mayonnaise dressing contains a great deal of nourishment and when served should be one of the chief foods of the meal.

A vegetable or fruit salad should be served with a hearty meal.

EX-CROWN PRINCE TURNS

VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

WEERINGEN, July 11.—(Robert Poulson, Staff Correspondent, N. Y. and Post Journal)—The former crown prince of Germany has taken to blacksmithing to while away the idle hours in bad weather, and it was in the blacksmith shop of his boon companion that I found him when I visited him.

Besides Mr. Luit, the blacksmith, Frederick William has no better friend than Mr. Arrindell, who is especially attached to his person by the Dutch government to guard him against annoyances. As proof of this friendship I may cite the fact that when the ex-crown prince wishes to give some small remembrance to a visitor to Weeringen he hands him a horseshoe, which he has made himself, and accompanying it is a letter, stating that he is actually the smithy who made the horseshoe. The letter being sealed with the seal of Mr. Arrindell.

Though he likes to give out the impression that the Hohenzollerns will never return to power, I believe that the former crown prince has not abandoned hope or ambition. He receives numerous visits at Weeringen from former officers and during the last six months his mail has increased greatly. For instance, while in 1919, he received hardly a hundred letters on his birthday this year the Weeringen postman brought him thousands of letters, with the well wishes of German monarchists.

Loss of Appetite is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside. It is one of the first indications that the system is running down, and there is nothing else so good for it as Hood's Sarsaparilla—the best of all tonics.

Weeringen.

He was standing before the anvil, his face illuminated by the glowing coals, sleeves rolled up, in sport knickerbockers, with heavy wool stockings. My visit did not seem to surprise him in the least.

"One minute," he said, "and I will be with you."

The iron was now red hot, and he had to take advantage of it. He brought down the hammer a few times; there was a shower of sparks, a hissing sound in the tub of water, and the job was done.

Frederick William rubbed his hands with a satisfied air, removed his oil-skin jacket and a cyclist's cap pulled down upon his hair, which still remains blond.

The blacksmith himself, greatly embarrassed, consulted with his wife over the best way to receive me and the photographer who accompanied me. But the ex-crown prince solved the difficulty himself, and five minutes later we were seated in the dining room of Mr. Luit, the blacksmith, around an imposing pitcher of beer.

"Mr. Hohenzollern" didn't change his attitude a bit when I learned that I was a Frenchman and that I was a newspaperman.

"So you are from Paris?" he said. "Well, give me the latest gossip from the French capital. Are the women still pretty and stylishly dressed? That's a nicely tailored suit you are wearing. What are the popular prices playing in the Paris theatres today?"

Is Popular With Village.

The ex-crown prince is in the very best of health and doesn't seem to suffer much from his exile. He complains about the high cost of living, like any other citizen, but seems to enjoy life in a simple little house, with a cook and a valet, one other domestic and a former Brandenburg gendarme. Though at Doorn the inhabitants are almost hostile to the ex-kaiser, the former crown prince enjoys such a popularity here that the municipality would bestow high honors upon him if the Dutch government would permit it.

SALESMEN WANTED

We want you if you are of legal age and willing to hustle.

We want you if you are willing to fight for business and then fight to keep that business.

We want you if you are ambitious for a business of your own, no clocks to punch, no whistles to blow, no docked wages, no lay-offs, no dull seasons.

Would you be interested if we can show you that the income of some of our salesmen is more than that of many professions, if we could show you that ten salesmen in this department had incomes in excess of $3500.00 in 1920?

Our salesmen have no investment outside of a light car for delivery, no losses on receding prices, yet have an opportunity for a larger earning than the average merchant.

If you are a clerk, a laundry driver, a milk wagon driver or have any other position that is not just all you want, this proposition should interest you.

We require bond and references.
