

People Here and There

GRANT COUNTY

A. R. Bodner, Joseph merchant, who has been here for several days on business has returned home.

J. T. Brown, of the Brown & Brady undertaking parlors, has retired from La Grande where he has been since the Fourth of July.

Tom Skehill, Australian poet-soldier who spoke last night at Chautauqua, was blind for two years as the result of a shell which struck him while he was fighting at Gallipoli. His sight was restored by an osteopathic adjustment. Skehill, who is one of three brothers all of whom saw service during the war, was a personal friend of the late Rupert Brooke, the young English poet who met his death during the war, and wrote a sonnet which marks the grave of Brooke. Skehill, besides lecturing, writes magazine articles and books and has just completed a drama which will be presented on the American stage. It is a psychic plot, Mr. Skehill states. He plans to return to Russia next June.

WORLD NO PLACE FOR HOMELY GIRL SAYS

BALTIMORE, July 14.—She isn't pretty, but in spite of a retreating nose and a heavy sprinkling of freckles, Virginia Hicks is attractive, even though her face is drawn with pain and the hope for death. She is hoping against recovery at the Maryland general hospital here, having taken bichloride of mercury tablets. It was because of a man—a man who promised her a home and marriage, a man who didn't make good, she said, "It's because I'm homely," she said, "Men look only for beauty. They're all alike. I never want to see one again. I want to die. The only man I want to see is God."

In spite of herself she is getting well. Virginia is only twenty. She is one of those girls who dream of a home and baby—and keep on dreaming, in their trustfulness. She will not tell the name of her betrayer.

The Tennis Player says—
"Three sets are nothing!"

"With Klaykorts I can play a half dozen sets, and feel it less than I used to feel three, because my feet don't hurt in them. I play a faster game. There isn't a better tennis shoe made."

Hood Klaykorts combine lightness with strength, and the patented Kexend insole and thick felt cushion keep the hard court from tiring or burning the feet. No other shoe of any kind combines equal wearing qualities with the ease and the sense of quick, sure action of the Hood Klaykort. Many also prefer Klaykorts for general outdoor summer wear.

nese section of that historic mining town. The old houses are still huddled in a group as they were built nearly a half century ago. At one time there were 500 Chinamen at John Day and there are about 20 there yet. Kain Wah Chung is the patriarch of the crew. He told us he is a cousin of Ung Goy of Pendleton. His joint is in a stone building and his sign says Kain Wah Chung & Co., medical herbs and general merchandise. Inside his store is a Chinese shrine with light burning. Kain Wah Chung has been at John Day for 34 years.

John Day is a prosperous looking small town of several hundred people. There is a state bank there with a capitalization of $10,000.

Historic Canyon City
Canyon City is also a live looking town with an historic past. That region, because of its gold, was one of the first settled portions of Eastern Oregon. Joaquin Miller, famed "Poet of the Sierras," once lived in the valley and tried his luck in the lure of the golden metal.

At Canyon City we met Judge Oren Patterson, county judge and also the third member of the county court. Mr. Patterson took lunch with us and corroborated statements previously made by Commissioner Caverhill regarding the court's intentions as to the north and south road work. Judge Patterson is an energetic, intelligent official and a brother of Otis Patterson, attorney. In talking of the John Day grade Judge Patterson told a story about our John Day grade.

The Cowboy Was Puzzled.
The story is that some years ago a cattleman told one of his men to drive some cattle out over the road to Pendleton. The man reached the north fork ahead of his employer and looking up the hill ahead saw roads in three different places. Thinking there were three roads he decided to camp and wait until the boss arrived. When the cattleman arrived he asked his herder why he had not gone on. "I was waiting to find out which road to take," was the reply.

Canyon City is blessed with a live and successful newspaper, the Hot Mountain Eagle, conducted by C. P. Haight and Perry Chandler. The Eagle is one of the best country weeklies in Oregon and its owners are awake to the need of transportation for their county. One of the owners had just returned from Burns and told of interest at Burns in the subject of a north and south road to Pendleton and thence to Portland or Spokane. It is 72 miles from Canyon City to Burns and the road is said to be good. Both Chandler and Haight were students at Portland University at the time Roy Raley, Roland Oliver and Grace Gilliam attended that institution of learning. A chautauqua troupe was also in evidence at Canyon City.

At Prairie, 14 miles east of Canyon, we sought gas and were waited on by Jack Litzer who formerly worked for the Pendleton Auto company here. Prairie has a national bank with a $25,000 capital. The national bank at Canyon City has a $40,000 capitalization.

Baker Also Disgraced.
We left Prairie at 3 p. m. Monday bound for Baker. We were told by some we could make the trip in four hours. Others said it would take six or more. We made it in four and a half hours by hard driving and practically no stopping. There is no farming between Prairie and the valley below Sumpter. The roads are rough and if we are disgraced by the John Day grade Baker is equally disgraced by road conditions between Prairie and Baker. No sane man would make that trip except through necessity. It is 15 miles from Prairie to Austin but it seemed like 160 miles. The only pleasing travel we found on the route was for some miles down the valley after leaving Sumpter.

Leaving Baker Tuesday morning we inspected the auto camp ground and the municipal natatorium and auditorium. The camp ground is small, lacks shade and is inferior to the Pendleton camp ground, though they do have electric stoves in a cook house. The municipal natatorium which adjoins the camp grounds is wonderful but as an auditorium the building leaves much to be desired. The building however will have office and club rooms and be a real asset to Baker. The camp ground at Union, visited en route home, is very pretty but is small. Neither the Baker camp nor the camp at Union could make a start towards halting the number of campers who sojourn in Pendleton. We did not get to visit the auto camp at La Grande.

"Little Pals" are perfectly foot-formed sensibly shaped and flexible, but at the same time embody all the strength and sturdiness of an army shoe. OBJECT IS TO GIVE GROWERS BEST PRICE

PORTLAND, July 14.—(A. P.)—Definite plans were formulated for the establishment of a central marketing organization for handling the fruit crop of the six Pacific coast states represented at the conference here. The appointment of a committee of three members of each of the marketing organizations in the six states was provided for in a resolution adopted. The resolution declared the object is to eliminate the middleman and give the growers the best price and make the price to consumers the lowest possible.

IDENTIFY 'UNCLE JOE' CANNON'S DOUBLE BY HIS MISSING STOGIE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 14.—The spotlight was "turned" up on John T. Heard, congressman, recently in one of Kansas City's leading hotel lobbies. Mr. Heard is a human duplication of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, former speaker of the house. Mr. Heard has been gazed upon, pointed out, talked about, trailed and interviewed hundreds of times, simply because someone had been mistaking him for "Uncle Joe." His facial features have the same contour as Mr. Cannon's. He also wears the stubby rounded beard. The girl at the cigar counter was not as easily fooled as several of the guests were. "That can't be 'Uncle Joe' Cannon, for he ain't bought a cigar all morning," she declared positively. Commenting further upon the resemblance between himself and Mr. Cannon, Mr. Heard said: "I frequently have met Mr. Cannon in Washington and we are very good friends. I am sure that neither of us is offended at the similarity of our make-up. Any argument over 'Who's Who' can be settled at the cigar counter, for I never smoke."

AT THIS SEASON LOSS OF APPETITE

Is very common. In many cases it is due to impure blood, which cannot give the digestive organs the stimulus necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

Thousands know by experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla restores appetite and would advise you to give it a trial this season. It originated in the successful prescription of a famous physician. Get it today. Take Hood's Pills if you happen to need a laxative—they don't gripe.

NOTED EQUESTRIENNE WINS DIVORCE SPEEDILY

OMAHA, July 14.—(I. N. S.)—Justice wore the sandals of Mercury here in circuit court when Mrs. E. John Brandeis, noted Chicago horsewoman, was granted a divorce from E. J. Brandeis, Omaha merchant prince, within twenty-four hours. Mrs. Brandeis arrived here from San Francisco one Sunday evening and the very next evening left here for the coast—a divorcee.

Cruelty was the cause of action. It served to win Mrs. Brandeis' $400,000 alimony and custody of her nine-month old baby. There was no salacious testimony, no cross-examination of witnesses and no "hard feelings." This was justice enacted.

"Ernie has been cruel and negligent to me," the young wife testified. "He has spent little time at home. He has spoken harshly and gruffly to me."

A maid corroborated her. That ended the testimony. Brandeis, who is twenty-three, did not contest. The entire proceeding took only half an hour. Judge Wakeley signed the decree.

A certified check for $50,000 was handed the newly divorced wife. She left the courtroom with her lawyers. Several hours later attorneys for Brandeis brought $50,000 in securities to her hotel room. Just at dusk that night she began her trip back to the coast.

Meanwhile Brandeis, who has never seen his child, announced through his attorney he would take a year's hunting trip to Africa.

EXPOSED

BOSTON, July 14.—(U. N. S.)—Because his nightshirt looked like a young tent, Jacob Sladkewich was searched, and beneath the robe was found some illegal liquor. The public had entered the house searching for contraband "hooh." They were about to depart empty handed, when they noticed that Jacob's "nightie" looked extra large. Jacob pleaded guilty in East Boston Court and was fined $50.

MODERN CRANKCASE CLEANING SERVICE

How often should your crankcase be CLEANED?

Automobile manufacturers carefully recommend, in their Books of Instruction, regular draining and cleaning of the crankcase.

This is necessary because engine operation causes road dust, carbon, fine metal particles and other impurities to accumulate in your crankcase oil. This gritty oil circulates through your engine, impairs its performance and ultimately leads to rapid depreciation and repairs.

To meet this need, Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service has been established by first-class garages and other dealers, co-operating with the Standard Oil Company. These garages and dealers use Calol Flushing Oil, the scientific agent that cleans out old oil, dirt, grit and other impurities, and does not impair the lubricating efficiency of fresh oil used. The cleaned crankcase is refilled with the correct grade of Zerolene.

Look for the garage or dealer displaying the sign shown above,—it means "Better operation and longer engine life."
