HOME DEMONSTRATION SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR BUSY HOUSEWIVES

In purchasing a new hat insist upon standing before a full length mirror. A hat may be becoming to a person when only the face is seen, but may make one look too short or too tall when the entire figure is seen. A hat should be large enough to cover the head. The silhouette of the crown should be a continuation of the line of the face. The base of the crown should be in almost every instance be horizontal. Few hats are becoming when tipped forward or backward. Beware of head sizes that are too small or that are rounded in shape rather than oval. A person who wears spectacles must wear a hat that extends beyond the spectacles.—E. V. D.

Knit capes in stunning color tones are exceedingly smart for outing, touring or seashore wear. Some girls like them so well that they insist upon wearing them in the heart of the city. This is, indeed, a mistake. Sport suits for the country—and street clothes for the town.

To wear at the seashore we are offered new types of thin rubberized material in soft, unusual shades, pale green, gray green, orchid and a lovely "lilac" (lemon), which seems to be the favorite color. These wraps are cut wide, straight, and suggest a mandarin's coat.

Wheat—Rains northwest and the predictions of cooler weather for the entire grain belt induced some liquidations early in the session, but in the end, served to make the trade realize that there has already been sufficient damage to make a bullish situation, no doubt the change in the weather will do some good in many parts of the spring wheat belt, but if fifty percent of the reports from that territory are authentic they would aggregate materially lower than the July 1st statements, and perhaps would be below last year's total. The cash position is showing more strength despite heavy receipts at all terminals reflected fully in the advances in futures. Exporters were active buyers in the southwest and bids on the bulk and in the interior were advanced one cent. Wheat is a world proposition, and the condition of European crops must come in for proper consideration. Seven countries in Europe, including England, France, Belgium and Germany, have suffered from lack of moisture. The announcement that substantial credits were being arranged in this country for Germany to buy grain was another bullish factor. A higher level of prices is very apt to be recorded in the near future.

The latest imported hats seem proud of their unusually high, round or square crowns, and in order to offer us something really new, place all their trimming not above, but under the brim.

CHINA WAR TACTICS PROVIDES LUNCH TRUCE

SEATTLE, July 14.—(U. N. S.)—China should lead the way toward disarmament. For chivalrous warfare the Chinese evidently deserve a Nobel prize.

At Lo Wu, where Chinese of North and South are waging war against one another, the battle is postponed each day at noon to allow the soldiers to eat according to W. B. Priestly, who recently returned from a trip to China. Asked if this particular hour wouldn't be a good time to attack the enemy, a general representing Sun Yat Sen, president of the southern Chinese republic, told Priestly such tactics would be unfair.

Priestly entertained the China Club of Seattle with accounts of this most modern war.

"When the Chinese don't know where to shoot at their earthly enemies," said Priestly, "they fire bullets into the air, because they think the devil is up there and if they kill the demon they believe they will get the cause of the war."

Priestly interviewed Dr. Sun Yat Sen while in China. He declared Sun Yat Sen to be the greatest politician China ever produced, but doubts if he will ever be president of the entire republic because he is true to his principles and will not cater to foreign powers.

In 1919 the United States imported 1,390,324 cords of pulp wood.
