

T. P. W., THE PLACE WHERE THE SATURDAY SHOPPERS WILL FIND MANY SPECIAL SALES

EDITORIAL

This big store is a composite of all that's good. You've noticed that where a store is good in one thing it falls far short of perfection in other respects.

The People's Warehouse

EDITORIAL

This store keeps before itself the necessity of constantly working for the realization of its ideals. Sometimes we fail. But each failure to live up to the platform of principles we have set for ourselves is busy more clearly marking the shoals in our channel of progress.

IMMIGRATION LAW BARS TITLED WOMEN, WIVES OF EUROPEAN NOBLES, FROM RETURN TO U. S.

Former American Girls are Liable to Deportation When Quotas Become Filled.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(U. S. S.)—One effect of the drastic enforcement of the new immigration law here and at other ports will be to provide a serious obstacle to the "homecoming" plans of several American women who have sacrificed their American citizenship for foreign titles.

Under the law only 3 per cent of the nationalities residing here when the 1910 census was taken may be admitted in any one year hereafter. Immigration officials say the provision will be enforced against the rich and poor immigrants alike, cabin attendants being compelled to remain aboard ship along with their brethren in the steerage until Washington can rule on their admissibility under the quota clause of the law.

Quotas Already Filled. Arrivals reaching New York or other ports after the quota is filled will be turned back. Several nationalities are already nearing their quotas for the year, some having been practically filled already for this month.

One of the women with cause to worry under Uncle Sam's tightening restrictions is the Countess Anton Sigray who before her marriage was Miss Harriot Daly, daughter of the late Marcus Daly and heiress to a large part of the fortune which he made in copper.

Another possible victim of the law's operation is the Duchess of Croix, formerly Miss Nancy Latham, of Pittsburgh, daughter of a former Ambassador to Berlin.

Truly any of these women would be permitted merely to visit their home country at any time they chose. They might even prolong the "visit" indefinitely. If the immigration authorities have reason to suspect any of these "visitors" however, they are authorized to require the "visitor" to put up a bond which would be liable to forfeiture and the giver subject to deportation at the expiration of six months.

The Count served in the war as a Lieutenant of the Third Hussars of Germany and was at one time reported to have been taken prisoner by the Russians. In view of severe economic conditions in Germany since the war friends of the Countess would not be surprised to hear of her decision to return home any time.

Many Possible Victims. Another possible victim of the law's operation is the Duchess of Croix, formerly Miss Nancy Latham, of Pittsburgh, daughter of a former Ambassador to Berlin.

Still another feminine title holder reported to be casting longing eyes toward her native American shores is the Countess Marie di Zoppola, formerly Miss Edith Mortimer, daughter of the Stanley Mortimers and one of the best known beauties of New York.

PORTABLE GROCERY STORES IN DAYTON

DAYTON, Ohio, July 23.—(U. S. S.)—Groceries on wheels! This innovation is to be launched here.

Arrangements have been made by a Dayton company to operate one hundred of these portable stores. The trucks are to be twenty-two feet long and six feet wide, each with two and one-half ton capacity. The grocery store bodies are now being built.

It is planned that each portable store shall carry a full line of provisions, with a clerk in charge. In order that housewives may know when to expect the grocery-on-wheels to stop in front of her door the trucks will be run on schedule.

Similar portable stores, also, are to be used in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin as soon as they can be built.

ERBERTON, Mass., July 23.—(U. S. S.)—Living up to her promise made to her sweetheart when he was sentenced to the Plymouth House of Correction several months ago for manslaughter, Miss Bernice Holland, formerly of Brockton, went to Great Bay, Nova Scotia, last week and was married to John A. Donnell, restaurant owner.

Donnell was liberated from Plymouth jail several weeks ago, his sentence being cut short in order to enable him to go to Nova Scotia to see his father, who was critically ill. He was convicted of having caused the death of a tumbler by running him down with his automobile last fall. At that time Miss Holland made the promise that she would wait for him and would marry him when he was given his freedom.
