SUPREME COURT SAYS HENRY PITTOCK'S WILL IS 'VALID DOCUMENT'

SALEM, July 25.—(U. P.)—The will of Henry L. Pittock, publisher of the Oregonian, a Portland newspaper, was upheld by unanimous opinion in the state supreme court. ## SAM BROWN BELT LATELY RESTORED BY PERSHING SOARS RAPIDLY IN PRICE

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(U. P.)—As army officers began to blossom forth in Sam Brown belts in accordance with the war department's order restoring the popular article of military wearing apparel to general usage, the price of this equipment, which has been a drug on the market, immediately soared upward and many different forms of the belt made their appearance.

Officers who served with the American Expeditionary Forces, from General Pershing down to the second "loole" who grabbed his commission ten minutes before his homebound transport sailed from Brest, were ready and waiting when the Sam Brown order was issued.

But the others were required to buy belts, and Major-General H. L. Rogers, of the Quartermaster's Corps, has decided to issue a standard belt with a view to ultimately adopting one for the use of officers.

To this end Louis Heuer, leather and equipment expert of the quartermaster general's office, has gone to Jefferson, Ind., to superintend the manufacture of several different types, one of which will be adopted as the standard for all.
