

People Here and There

Fred Benson, county agriculture agent, left last night for Corvallis to witness the big Fordson tractor demonstration.

Robert Peacock, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Peacock, of 209 Garden street, left today for North Powder where he will visit his aunt, Mrs. J. S. Sander.

Jim Hill, well known farmer of this county, left last night for Portland. He will go from there to Seaside to join Mrs. Hill and children, who have been sojourning at the shore for some time.

Arthur Ash and Orville Wright returned home last evening from Pendleton, where they drove yesterday. The boys came back on the train and left the Ash car, which will be brought to La Grande the latter part of the week by Walter La Danere.—La Grande Observer.

When Guy Cook, court house janitor, leaving on his vacation, he is not going as any common plug citizen, but as deputy sheriff of Yamhill county. He has been sworn in as deputy by Sheriff Zooth Houser, and therefore full authority is reposed in Mr. Cook to protect the peace and dignity of the state. Since he is going to Southern Oregon on his trip it is not known whether he will hunt up Dr. Brumfield or merely protect himself against chipmunks by carrying a gun.

G. M. Bishop, legal light and prominent citizen of Freewater is a Pendleton visitor today. He has just completed a delightful motor trip to the Sound country and Portland.

NEWS NOTES OF PENDLETON

Keep Up Highways

State highways leading into Pendleton are being kept up during the summer months by small crews that have charge of the work. On the Pendleton-Walla Walla road, the surface is kept sanded during the extremely warm weather. Between Barnhart and Beth there is a stretch of about two miles of macadam which has given the state department a great deal of grief. Earth filler blows out as rapidly as it can be laid, or at least it has not been retained very satisfactorily in the past. Filler is being laid now, and the road is being sprinkled, and the use of plenty of water is expected to be of aid in holding this application of earth.

Goals to Thornholow.

Frank Hayes, city engineer, is at Thornholow today inspecting the source of Pendleton's water supply. The construction of the new extension to Chanish Springs, which joins the waters from Thornholow, is practically finished, the new addition adding over a million gallons to the daily water supply of the city.

FOOD PRICE DECLINES.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Ralph P. Couch, U. P. Staff Correspondent.—Prices are now considered between 45 and 50 per cent above those of 1913 with the exception of building materials. Food price declines during the past year in some of the country's most important cities are as follows: Thirty-nine per cent in Butte, Mont., and Portland, Ore.; 37 per cent in Salt Lake City and Seattle; 31 per cent in San Francisco and 30 per cent in Los Angeles.

STILL OWNER, HOLY STILL

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 29.—Boss Golden, Garland county mountaineer, can now attend Sunday school with his mind at rest. Following his apprehension by federal officers for alleged "moonshining," Golden gave the illuminating information that he was forced to absent himself from Sunday school in order to guard his booze-making paraphernalia.

"I towed it'd better for me to stay here and kinder watch the house," the picturesque mountaineer declares reflectively. "I was afeared the 'revenoers' would grab my family licker. Since they poured it out I guess I can go to Sunday school next Sunday."

Golden is free under bond, while awaiting action of the grand jury.

MAN MAKES TRIP

book has been signed by mayors and newspaper publishers all along the route, the bet was made as a sporting proposition. A friend declared that a man would be unable to get enough rides to make the trip in the time designated, and Lavy said he could.

In every state he has met with a "pleasant reception," except in Montana, where he was turned down for rides. He had a little more than $2 when here last night, and he wants to make Portland before his funds are exhausted.

He expects to return from Portland to Cleveland "on the cushions."

IS FAKE WAR RECORD

representation underway is the fact it has been claimed before that Rathie, whose real name is Laffenbean, or something much like that, was wounded in France. He bears the marks of a wound in his shoulder but as understood by the district attorney's office here the wound was received by Rathie while engaged in a hold up or other crime in Idaho. During the trial here it was not brought out that Rathie had a war record justifying clemency though he had been in the service. Hence there is curiosity as to how the Ped Cross and the Congress of Mothers should be interested in the case.

HE WAS UNABLE TO USE HIS RIGHT ARM

This Portland Man's Whole Body Ached from Rheumatism—Feels Fine Now.

"I've been praising Tanlac for about a year now, and I'll bet I've caused hundreds of people to take it and get relief just like it gave me," was the characteristic statement made by Fred W. Bendush, 147 1/2 Broadway South, Portland, Oregon, well-known employee of the Oregon, Washington Railroad and Navigation Co.

"Besides relieving me of a terrible case of indigestion and rheumatism Tanlac built me up ten pounds in weight and I actually feel like a brand-new man. For several years I had about everything that usually comes to a person suffering from indigestion. I had no appetite, and everything hurt my stomach so bad I scarcely had an easy minute. I was badly constipated and had headache nearly all the time. I could hardly sleep any, and mornings when I got up my back was often in such a bad fix I could hardly stoop over to put on my shoes. The rheumatism in my arms and shoulders was so bad I could hardly raise my hands to my face, often couldn't use my right arm at all and my whole body was just full of aches and pains.

"Well, I finally made up my mind to try Tanlac and before long my appetite commenced to pick up, and when I had finished my fifth bottle I was eating like a horse. I felt perfectly well in every way, not a sign of any of my troubles left, and from then until now I've never passed up a chance to say a good word for Tanlac. I still take it now and then every time I feel the least bit out of sorts and it keeps me in the best of trim in every way. It's the greatest medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson's Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere.

Per cent production in the United States for 1920 was 72,204 short tons.

BUCK JONES MAKES BIG HIT IN HIS NEW PLAY

As a whirlwind horseman and a man who rides into a tense scene at the proper time, Buck Jones, the popular Fox star, is one of the most thrilling figures on the screen. He does some lively work in "Sunset Sprague," which was shown for the first time yesterday at the Pastime Theatre—work which more than once causes the spectators to gasp in astonishment.

The story of "Sunset Sprague" had some work out of for Jones. It required a superb horseman—a man with nerve and a man who never gives up in a fight, even though wounded—to make the picture convincing. But Jones sails through it in fine fashion, aided by Miss Patsy De Forest—who is both clever and plucky. Henry J. Hebert makes a good villain, as usual, and Edwin Booth Tilton and Noble Johnson contribute some fine character work.

Buck Jones, it is perhaps needless to say, made a big hit with yesterday's audience.

ALTA TODAY

When a valuable blue pearl was passed from a man to a woman in the seclusion of a famous road-house near New York, the trouble began; when the woman's husband saw the pearl in possession of his wife, complications ensued, but when the pearl disappeared from the neck of the woman as she was about to be put under hypnotic influence in a crowded room, the suspense becomes so acute as to hold the audience almost breathless. That is the way "The Blue Pearl," the big-super-feature, which comes to the Alta Theatre today starts.

Lawrence Weber has made the play, which was first shown on the speaking stage in New York by the Messers. Schubert, into a thrilling, gripping motion picture. No mystery play in recent years has held an audience as has "The Blue Pearl," and Mr. Weber has succeeded in maintaining all of the thrills and interest shown in the stage play in his screen version.

FINE GUN-PLAY PROVES A DELIGHT IN NEW WILLIAM FARNUM PLAY

A good old Western story, in which the hero can draw his gun just a little ahead of all comers opened last night at the Arcade Theatre. This is "Drag Harlan," a William Fox production, starring William Farnum.

"Drag Harlan" has departed clear out of the category of the stereotyped "Western." It contains all the elements that admirers of Western drama demand in this kind of picture, but it is blessed beyond others of its kind by the personality of William Farnum. The only old stuff, so called in the picture is the thing that simply cannot be excluded from any picture, play or story—that is romance.

The story concerns a mysterious personage, whose name is uttered with trembling lips by every man, woman and child in the west—"Drag" Harlan, whose strange "handle" was won by a peculiar trick in drawing his gun in a fight. There is enough gun-play to satisfy the most exacting spectator, yet there is none of that tawdry cheapness or luridness which so often creeps into this sort of picture.

Jackie Saunders is the leading woman. Others in the cast are Arthur Nelson Miller, G. Raymond Nye, Herschel Mayall, Frank Thurwald, "Kewpie" Morgan, Al Fremont and Eric Crane. J. Gordon Edwards directed the production from a story by Charles Alden Selzer.
