Just Folks

by Edgar A. Guest

HOW IT'S DONE

He sought for recognition, he was hungry for renown,
He wanted folks to know him as he walked about the town.
He wanted folks to point him out and whisper: "There he goes,
The man who's doing wonders and whom everybody knows."

At every public meeting he was sure to take the floor,
But all the people whispered was "Good Heavens, what a bore!"
He sought for recognition and his voice was never still,
But the people only sneered, and I think they always will.

He dressed in swagger clothing and he lined up with the freaks,
He wanted men to whisper: "Now the voice of wisdom speaks!"
But the people only chuckled when he shouted "Fellowmen!"
And all they ever whispered was: "Oh, gee, that pest again!"

Now a quiet little fellow who had not a word to say,
But kept plugging at his labors through the busy hours of day,
Woke to fame one sunny morning, with the whole world on the run,
To congratulate and cheer him for the splendid work he'd done.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

This is No. 42 of the fourth series of articles issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York City. They are appearing weekly in these columns.

LITTLE PLAYS TO ACT AT HOME

By Mary Frances Davis

A prominent educator says that no knowledge becomes a useful part of us until we have translated it into action. That is why small children love to play the thing which claims their interest at any moment. After seeing a parade, a little boy loves to assume a stiff military bearing, seize a stick for a flag, impress all available children as soldiers, and start a parade. Every mother of a little girl knows how very early baby girls begin to play at housekeeping. They love to wash clothes, iron, sweep, dust and "mother" their dolls. They should be encouraged in these activities.

This is the natural instinct of dramatization, and can be utilized in developing desirable qualities in a child. And in impressing useful knowledge for the child comes to understand through doing. Children love to fly like birds, creep softly like mice, and gallop like ponies. After a trip to the Zoo, they have many glorious afternoons of pleasure in roaring like the lions, climbing like the monkeys, and imitating the antics of the bears. A wise mother will fortify her nerves, and encourage her child in this, for in assuming the roles of various animals, the child is coming to understand them, and to make them a part of his general knowledge.

Children of kindergarten age, or even younger, love to "act" the stories they know. Mother Goose rhymes are enjoyed by all the little folks, and mothers will find that children take great delight in dramatizing them. After the children are thoroughly familiar with the incidents of Miss Muffet, Jack Horner and Jack and Jill, let them be those characters. In our own nursery, we find this a happy way to spend rainy mornings. Little Miss Muffet sits on a foot-stool, industriously eating make-believe curds and whey from a large tin plate, with a small tin spoon. We all recite the rhyme together, and at the thrilling words, "there came a great spider and sat down beside her," a little brother lowers a whisk broom. Miss Muffet, much frightened, jumps up, dropping dish and spoon with a pleasing clatter, and rushes to a far corner. Then we all laugh, and the children shout, "Play it again!"

Little Jack Horner is easily dramatized. He sits cross-legged in a corner, with a bright colored candy box, which plays the part of the Christmas pie. As we recite "he put in his thumb and pulled out a plum," the hero holds aloft a small rubber ball, and cries, "What a great boy am I!" All of the simple nursery rhymes may be played in like manner.

There is a large field of material with dramatic possibilities which may be so utilized.

$3,500,000 A Day

In his book of "Human Behavior in Relation to the Study of Educational, Social and Ethical Problems" Dr. Stewart Paton comments upon the mental peculiarity of the Anglo-Saxon which leads him to make the greatest effort to provide generously for the pauper, the insane, and the criminal, while he does little to find out and eliminate the causes which produce them.

In this country we are spending approximately $3,500,000 a day upon our criminal classes—and at the same time leaving 4,000,000 of our little ones to their own devices during their most impressionable years, when they should be receiving kindergarten training in industry, honesty, fair play and self-control.

If no kindergarten has been provided for the children of your community, write to the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York City, for information and advice about establishing one.

BOOTSTRAPS AND ELEVATORS

ACCORDING to the report of the National City Bank of New York the U. S. bureau of markets says that world production of wool is now on a 93 per cent pre war basis and wool consumption at about 70 per cent of the pre war normal. The facts bear out the theory that what the woolgrower needs is a prosperous country that will be able to buy wool and woolen products. There is now a tariff on wool but it is powerless to provide good prices for the grower because the demand is lacking. The same situation has existed before and we have also had times when our woolgrowers received high prices for their clips regardless of the fact wool was then on the free list. In other words if you are in an elevator that is going up you can appear to raise yourself by your bootstraps but you cannot do it when the elevator is going down. The moral is that it is better to pay attention to the elevator (the nation's prosperity) than to bootstraps.

THEY ARE HERE

THEY COME in Pierce-Arrows, in Packards and in Cadillacs. They come in Buicks, in Chevrolats and in Fords. They come from Maine, from Florida and from Iowa. They come from all over North America.

Some stop at hotels and inns along the way for meals and rest. Some cook along the road and rest at night in improvised beds in or out of their machines. Some look as if their cars were their homes, as if they were just traveling to stop when and where the fancy strikes them, perhaps to purchase homes and become residents. Sometimes it is just a man and wife; sometimes a family of five.

They are all tourists, all inspecting the country, and they are all impressed by what they see. Some will be impressed enough to settle in Oregon immediately. Some will come here later. All will remember the state and tell their Southern friends, their Eastern friends or their Canadian friends what they saw.

Tourists made California rich. They came and saw. They stayed. And they went home to return. And they told their friends of California. Now California is the tourists' mecca and, because of it, she reaps a rich reward.

The tourists come every year. They are coming to Oregon in increasing numbers. Will Oregon fail to grasp her opportunity?

If we will build the roads, the tourists will pay for them. If we will improve our resources, the tourists will pay for them, too. If we will invite them and provide for them here, they will pay all the bills and leave a considerable sum in Oregon besides.—Oregon Journal.

THE CANAL'S BEST YEAR

THE Panama Canal handled 381,000 tons of cargo from the Atlantic to the Pacific in May. Sixty-four per cent originated on the eastern coast of the United States, 23 per cent (all petroleum) came from Mexico, 7 per cent from the United Kingdom and 5 per cent from continental Europe.

Of this westward traffic, 36 per cent went to our own western states, 24 per cent to the Far East, 20 per cent to the west coast of South America and 15 per cent to Australia.

The traffic moving eastward was heavier, totalling 411,000 tons of cargo. Our western coast led in the proportion of shipments, having 44 per cent. The west coast of South America followed, with 26 per cent. Australia was third, with 12 per cent, and Hawaii fourth, with practically 10 per cent (all sugar).

Of this eastward traffic 36 per cent moved to the eastern coast of the United States, 28 per cent to the United Kingdom and 26 per cent to continental Europe.

The year which has closed was the best the Panama canal has yet had. Even so, receipts from tolls, $12,280,000, lacked $1,200,000 of meeting the government's expenditures for the canal.

State Superintendent Churchill says that in the event he should be offered the presidency of the Oregon normal school he would decline; Mr. Churchill is a splendid man in his present position and many will be glad to learn he does not seek a change.

Since Umatilla county people became interested in a road to Grant county the Baker newspapers are urging a better road between Baker and Grant county; go ahead, gentlemen, but the county that competes with Old Umatilla will have to step on it.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION

SELL 5 1-2 PER CT. BONDS

PORTLAND, July 30.—(A. P.)—The state highway commission sold $2,000,000 of the five and a half per cent bonds to John E. Price and H. Robbins and Sons for a premium of $2,240. They selected the Brockway route for the Roseburg-Cross Bay highway. The commission deferred action on the Elsie-Halsey section of the Pacific highway. They awarded a contract for $57,704 and unit number two from Pauline Prairie to the Klamath line nine miles to the Deschutes county for $11,545. A number of bids will be considered today.

RECOMMENDS JAIL SENTENCE

CHICAGO, July 30.—(U. P.)—The prosecution demanded jail sentences for the "Black Sox" as a penalty for besmirching the national game. Edward Prindle, special prosecutor, opening the state's argument to the jury, urged to find the players guilty of conspiracy and recommended prison sentences.

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS SPOILING A VACATION.

BY ALLMAN

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian, July 30, 1893.)

Herbert Boylen is in the city from Butter Creek.

T. B. Wells and George Adams, wishing to rusticate in approved style, as far as possible from the "Madding Crowd," started this morning for Fly Valley. They will camp out a fortnight at least, and if bear are plenty may prolong their stay.

T. C. Taylor, who has been absent three days on a business visit to Spokane and Sprague, returned Sunday. All along the Union Pacific branch he found the harvest outlook encouraging, with the exception of a region about Farmington, where grain is very backward, not having headed out as yet.

Col. John W. Lane, who has been visiting his reservation as U. S. Special Agent, is very much pleased with our country and climate, barring a few hot days. His family may remove from Roseburg to this locality to reside for a time.

Six members of the United States Coast and Geodetic survey will cut themselves off from civilization for four months to complete a survey of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river never before attempted. Specially constructed boats containing sufficient supplies will be used.

Tire Retreading

We use the DRI-CURE method of retreading old casings. This is a process wherein the tire is rebuilt by using the same methods used in its manufacture in the factory. The tire is cut down to its carcass (the cord or fibre base) reinforced in all weak spots then a new tread is cured on from virgin rubber in our steam moulds. This gives you a new wearing surface for less than half the cost of a new tire. Come in and let us show you tires now undergoing this process and the finished product.
