GIRL ATTORNEY CLAIMS CAREER OF A WOMAN SHOULD NOT AFFECT MARRIAGE— 'IF IT DOES, THEN GIVE UP CAREER'

By H. C. HAMILTON.
 International News Service Staff Correspondent.
 ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 5.—When Miss Johanna Stollberg, eighteen, recently admitted here that she probably held a record in being the youngest law student ever to graduate from a law school—anyhow the youngest woman ever to receive a diploma entitling her to practice law, she started something.
 Johanna had a classmate, also rather youthful and also of the "more deadly" species. She made herself known a few days later. She is Merrie Dorothy Feldman, also of Atlanta, also a graduate of the Atlanta law school, and who modestly has claimed a record in being the youngest woman to receive a diploma entitling her to practice law, she started something.
 Johanna wasn't much on talking about things legal. Not so Merrie Dorothy. Johanna works in an office where motion picture films are distributed and again Merrie Dorothy claims

SIX HUNDREDTH DANTE ANNIVERSARY TO BE OBSERVED BY HARDING AND NOTED DIPLOMATS AND PRELATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(By H. K. Reynolds, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)—President Harding, Vice-President Coolidge, cabinet members, diplomats and distinguished citizens will join here on October 2 in observing the six hundredth anniversary of the death of the great Italian poet, Dante Alighieri.
 The exercises will be held in the auditorium of the National Museum, and addresses will be delivered by the Italian and French ambassadors, Professor Charles H. Grandgent of Harvard University will read a paper on the significance of the works of Dante.
 The committee in charge of arrangements for the observance consists of Waldo G. Leland, of the department of historical research of the Carnegie Institution; Monsignor Aligi Cossio, J. E. D. of the Apostolic Delegation in Washington; Henry G. Doyle, of George Washington University; and Constantine E. McGuire, of the inter-American high commission.  The average production per acre in hop growing is officially reported as follows: England, 300 pounds; Germany, 500 pounds; United States, 350 pounds; California, 1,500 pounds.
 The counties which lead in California's hop production are Sacramento, Yuba, and Placer in the north central part of the state.

ANTI INVESTIGATION BLOCS WOULD SEE END OF CONGRESS PROBE

Official Inquiries are Expensive to Government; Hearings Often Conducted at Distance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(By H. K. Reynolds, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)—As congress continues to display a willingness to investigate anything from the price of tin-horns to the transportation puzzle, there is talk on Capitol Hill that "anti-investigation blocs" may be formed in both houses to combat further inquiry unless they seem to be of extreme importance and it is showing that some benefit may be derived from them.
 Congressional investigations, leading often to nothing more than voluminous reports filed away in the archives of the Capitol, have been the subject of serious criticism for many years, but congress goes merrily along, plunging into this and that, as it has done for more than a century.
 These official inquiries are expensive, the cost of a single investigation sometimes running into several thousand dollars. In many cases it has been necessary for members of investigating committees to conduct hearings in various parts of the country, and it is a usual thing to make provisions for such trips when resolutions authorizing inquiries are presented in the senate or house. Statistic reports of all testimony heard by the investigators are always printed for the use of congress and are of interest in the results of its labors, but in most cases the printed documents succeed in accomplishing nothing more than gathering dust and turning yellow with age.
 It is true that many of these investigations have proved to be worth while, especially when they were followed up by legislation designed to correct or lessen the evils which they sought to uncover.
 Dozen Probes Now On.
 A considerable number of senators and representatives have surveyed the situation, however, and have come to the conclusion that it might be well to put a damper on superfluous investigations in order that the attention of congress might not be diverted from the serious business of making the country's laws.
 Despite this growing feeling it is regarded as unlikely that any reduction in the number of senatorial or congressional probes can be expected in the near future, because it is nearly always possible to assemble enough votes in either branch of congress to get an affirmative decision on the question "to probe or not to probe" when it comes to a showdown.
 During the present session of congress, called for the purpose of revising the internal revenue laws and passing a new tariff bill, the senate and house have investigated or are now in the midst of inquiring into the railroad problem, the agricultural situation, the mine war in West Virginia, the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the needs of ex-service men and the bureau organized for their relief, the Federal Reserve Board and a host of lesser subjects incident to routine legislation.

CALIFORNIA LEADS LIST IN HOP PRODUCTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—(I. N. S.)—Despite the fact that prohibition was supposed to put an end to the chief use of hops, California's hop ranches, which have the highest yield of any in the world, last year produced about 21,000,000 pounds of hops, which sold for approximately $5,000,000.
 This was revealed in a statement here by J. C. Clemens Horns, hop and barley expert, who has been studying the industry.
 California is the greatest hop-producing state of the Union in point of tonnage and the greatest in the world in average harvest per acre and modern methods of cultivation, said Horns.
 "In the harvesting of hops California has made the greatest advance in that it has developed the hop-picking machine, which is now used on many of the large hop ranches not only in California but in other parts of the world.
 "When hops are picked the vines are cut from the trellis and hauled in wagons to the hop-picking machine, where they are fed into machines at the rate of about 12,000 vines per ten hour day which means the picking of about 500 pounds of undried hops per day. The hop saving by the machine figures roughly about 10 per cent of what would be required to do the work less successfully by hand.
 "After the hops are picked they are laid on the kiln floors or drying floors where they are kept from twelve to twenty-four hours for drying. They are then moved into cooling houses, where they are kept for one or two weeks until, and put into bales weighing 200 pounds each. For export business these bales are very frequently recompressed into bales of one-half to one-third their original size. This recompressing not only better preserves the hops, but also effects a very substantial saving in freight rates.
 "Regarding the range among the four states which grow hops on a commercial basis, California is first, Oregon second, Washington third and New York fourth.
 "The average production per acre in hop growing is officially reported as follows: England, 300 pounds; Germany, 500 pounds; United States, 350 pounds; California, 1,500 pounds.
 The counties which lead in California's hop production are Sacramento, Yuba, and Placer in the north central part of the state.
