Try This on Your Garage!

The tired motorist doesn't have to climb out of the car and open the garage when he gets home. Not if he uses this device invented by a Brooklyn man. You drive the front wheel over a "trap door" (arrow) set in the driveway, and the weight on the plate releases a cable opening the door.

LEGIIONNAIRES SAIL FOR FRANCE AS ENVOYS OF AMERICAN GOOD WILL; TO REVISIT HISTORIC LANDMARKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(U. S. S.)—With the banner of the national commander of the American Legion fluttering at her masthead above the flags of all nations, the liner George Washington sailed from New York bearing a party of 250 Legion members, who will revisit the old landmarks at the official invitation of the French government.

The Legion party is headed by John G. Emery, national commander, and among the delegates from all states and representing every arm of the service are Franklin D'Olier and Henry D. Landsey, past national commanders.

A direct passage will be made to Cherbourg, where officials of the French government and a color guard from the American forces in Germany will greet the Legion party. President Miller and Premier Briand will receive the tourists in Paris, and Marshal Foch will join them in Flirey, where a monument will be unveiled, a token of esteem to America, given by the citizens of liberated Lorraine. Major-General Henry T. Allen and a company of Infantry from Coblenz will attend the unveiling ceremony.

Cablegrams from Legion men already in France assure the pilgrims that the French are prepared to do their utmost to entertain the representatives of their former brothers-in-arms. The official itinerary includes visits to Blois, Verdun, Rheims, Chateau-Thierry, Toulouze, Lyons, Strasbourg, Metz and Bordeaux. The tour will be made in special trains. At Blois the Legionnaires will attend the dedication of the statue of Joan of Arc, presented to the French city by the Joan of Arc committee of New York city. At Verdun the party will spend a night in the famous citadel, and at Rheims they will take part in the ceremony surrounding the presentation by President Nicholas Murray Taft, of Columbia University, of the three-million-franc gift of the Carnegie Foundation to the Rheims Municipal Library.

To Lay Cornerstone.
At Chateau-Thierry the Legion party will witness the laying of the cornerstone of the "Pont Roosevelt," which will replace the wrecked bridge across the Marne, destroyed by American machine gunners. The visit is expected to do much toward promoting the interests of the Interallied Veterans' Association, designed as a small but effective "League of Nations." This was a project initiated by the late F. W. Galbraith, Jr.

"That we are making this pilgrimage," said Mr. Emery, "is proof that the war alliance of America and France was based on righteous concepts. More than two years have passed since we fought side by side. Many friendships have been broken in that time, many agreements and associations repudiated. But the friendship of America and France persists. It endures because it rests on something more binding than the formal agreements of statesmen. It is based on a common understanding and a oneness of aspiration that live deeper people.

"This representative group of Americans, coming from every part of our country, goes to France to receive the tribute that the French pay to individuals, but as envoys representing not only the war veterans but I am assured, the whole nation. Mindful of this, we shall bring back the good wishes of the French to all Americans."

dressed in boyish garb. Her attitude toward suitors was always "Hands Off."

The felling of giant trees, shooting the rapids on log rafts, a sensational hotel fire and a grain elevator's destruction by marauders are among the sensational scenes of the picture. Pearl White is Pearl White—and what further personal description is necessary to her hundreds of thousands of admirers?

PEARL WHITE PLAY SCORES BIG SUCCESS

The first thought of the spectator after seeing Pearl White in "The Mountain Woman" at the Arcade Theatre would naturally have been to rush home and warn the rest of the family not to miss the picture. It is doubtful if Miss White has played in anything more enjoyable from the standpoint of the audience than this story of the Kentucky hills as originally told by Charles Neville Buck in his novel "A Pagan of the Hills." The picture is replete with acting of the finest type. There is spirited action aplenty, and interesting incidents which are added as a sort of good measure to the gripping plot. The subtitles, written in the droll dialect of the mountaineers are not the least star in the entertainment value of this William Fox production. Miss White plays "Alexander" McGivens, whose father reared her as if she were a boy, and whose wild beauty set men's hearts aflame and brought sneers from the women because she
