NEWS OF THE COUNTY OFFICES AND OFFICERS

Inspect County Bridges. Members of the county court yesterday where they made an inspection of bridges. Among other structures, they inspected the Elmilla bridge across the river and formed an idea of the repairs that will be necessary to put the bridge in fair condition. The condition of bridges generally is very good, members of the court report.

Mistreatment is Charged. That he has been compelled by his father to milk ten cows both morning and evening besides working in the hay harvest and doing other heavy work in the testimony that was offered this morning in a hearing held before County Judge I. M. Schanney by 13-year-old Charles Marshall Jr. The hearing is brought for the purpose of securing the appointment of another guardian for Varina and Charles Marshall. The father, Charles Marshall was appointed guardian following the death of the mother.

Are Contesting Will. Claiming that Ella Stodfire was an irresponsible girl and an adventuress and that she practiced blandishments on George Lyell which resulted in him making his will in her favor are claims made in a will contest which has been filed in the office of the county clerk. The contestants are William Brube and Luther Lyell and Mary Taylor and Martha Almes, half-sister and half-sisters of the deceased. The will which was admitted to probate is said to have been made in 1913, and according to the claims of the contestants a second will was drawn in 1921 which was afterwards destroyed. During his life-time, George Lyell was a resident of the Freewater district. The estate is valued at $20,000. Raley, Raley and Stelwer and H. J. Warner represent the contestants.

JUST WONDERFUL! IS WHAT SHE SAYS

Never Dreamed Medicine Could Do As Much, Declares This Portland Woman.

"I'm willing to testify that Tanlac does all that is claimed for it," said Mrs. Anna Schultz, 625 Claybourne Ave., Portland, Ore. "I think it's nothing less than wonderful the way this medicine has built me up. While I managed to keep on my feet most of the time, for several years I had been in a fairly rundown condition. I lost my appetite and the little I ate seemed to do me more harm than good. I was so nervous I scarcely ever got any restful sleep at night and in the morning felt so miserable that I could hardly get up. Finally 'Tanlac' got me in its clutches and was especially kind in my left shoulder and arm and in my back. 'I had taken only a few doses of Tanlac when I began to have a good appetite, and it wasn't long before my digestion was absolutely perfect. My nerves soon quieted down and I sleep all night long without waking once. In fact I'm in perfect health now. I never dreamed that any medicine ever would help me as much as 'Tanlac' has."

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson's Drug store and by leading druggists everywhere.

WHEAT PRICES SUFFER DECLINE IN MARKET

The price of wheat suffered a decline today, September wheat closing at $1.25 3/4 and December wheat at $1.25 1/4. Yesterday the closing prices were $1.24 1/4 and $1.27 1/4 respectively.

Following are the quotations received by Overbeck & Cooke, local brokers:

Table with columns: Wheat, Open, High, Low, Close. Sept. $1.24 1/4, $1.25 1/4, $1.23 1/4, $1.22 3/4. Dec. 1.27 1/4, 1.28, 1.25 1/4, 1.25 1/4.

Wheat—Buying by seaboard interests took the surplus out of the market early in the day but the ensuing rally brought out sufficient selling by longs and cash losses to satisfy the demand. At the close the market had a heavy appearance. Cash prices were firm with good demand reported for choice grades. The Canadian government estimated the wheat crop of that country at 23,000,000 bushels against 24,000,000 last year. A cable from abroad placed the French wheat crop at 23,000,000 bushels against 23,000,000 last year. These estimates received a bearish construction. A substantial part of the selling at the present is the nature of hedging, and as this class of pressure will undoubtedly increase coincident with the movement of the northwestern crops, we believe the logical policy will be to sell on futures with the idea of replacing on moderate declines as exporters are likely to absorb surplus offerings at such time.

HISTORIC PAINTING OF WASHINGTON ON IVORY—CAUSE OF MAN'S MURDER AND WOMAN'S INSANITY—WILL BE SOLD

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A miniature of George Washington painted on a bit of ivory—the cause of a man's murder and a lonely woman's insanity—is for sale.

The painting, which was Exhibit "A" in the murder trial of Mrs. Vera Trepagnier, later sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary for from one year to life for the murder of Paul F. Volland, a wealthy art publisher, here in 1919, is to be sold by court order. It must bring $5000, the order stipulates, but it will easily do that, according to art critics.

When Mrs. Trepagnier, a sweet-faced old lady, who had about her an air of dignity befitting even an aristocrat, took the stand during the trial she made the following statement:

"I had an heirloom, all that was left of the family fortunes. It was a miniature of General George Washington. I asked Mr. Volland to sell it for me. He kept it. I went into his office time after time to get it back. When the last of my money gave out I went again. I had a revolver with me. Just to scare him, you know. I—I don't understand how it was discharged."

"My only regret is about the picture," was her sole remark when the sentence was read to her. Later she was taken to the asylum at Danning, where she lived until her death last year. The loss of her heirloom had affected her mind. To everyone who would listen she talked about the George Washington miniature.

And now Exhibit "A"—the Washington miniature which has wrought so much sadness—is going to be sold.

"It's a beautiful thing," said Michael F. Looby, a Chicago attorney, who has been commissioned to dispose of the bit of art. "It was painted by John Trumbull, who died in 1843. He was a soldier as well as a great portrait painter. This was his painting of a bit of ivory of his idol—George Washington. Trumbull sent the miniature as a wedding gift to a Virginia bride. When the family moved westward the miniature was carried along. It changed hands again and again and finally vanishing. Mrs. Trepagnier's folks must have unearthed it somewhere."

It will easily bring $5000, but the money will not do Vera Trepagnier much good.

COUPLE FIGHT FOR CHILD. WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 12.—O. L. Kell of Billings, Mont., who last night took possession of his daughter, Roberta Kell, and fled to Milton, Ore., announced today that he would start court action to obtain legal possession of the child. The mother, Mrs. E. G. Shaw, went to Milton late last night and got the child after Kell was located. Kell returned to Walla Walla and announced that he would fight, declaring that a Wyoming court in 1916 had given him possession of the child. Mrs. Shaw declared the Walla Walla court had awarded her the daughter and that she intended to keep her.
