CALENDAR OF EVENTS
 September 19-24—Northwest Grain and Hay Show.
 September 23, 24—Annual Pendleton Round-Up.

Rifle Club To Meet

The Pendleton National Rifle club will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the office of Conitt and Averill. The meeting has been called for the purpose of making arrangements of speeding up the program of the organization so shooting may be enjoyed this fall. Orders may be taken for a requisition of Springfield rifles.

Funeral is Held

The funeral of Elaine Dyer, aged 6, daughter of Ure Dyer and the late Mrs. Dyer, who lost her life on the steamer Alaska, was held today in La Grande. Mr. Dyer, who was injured in the wreck, has not yet recovered sufficiently to return. Little Arva Dyer, four year old daughter of the Dyers, who was saved, was brought home by her aunt, Mrs. F. S. Barnes, of La Grande. The body of Mrs. Dyer has not been recovered nor has the body of Duane, Elaine's twin, been found. Mrs. Dyer was a sister of Mrs. Blackburn of this city and the daughter of Mrs. Minnie Chelf.

Mrs. Still Dies

The funeral of the late Mrs. R. G. Still, of Milton, was held this afternoon in Milton at 2:30. Mrs. Still, who died after a short illness, was well known in Pendleton.

Gas Victim Out of Danger

C. H. Wheeler, who became very ill more than a week ago from the effects of gas after he had started distillate to flow through a hose by sucking the liquid through the hose, is out of danger and apparently little the worse for his experience. His illness was similar to that suffered by soldiers who were gassed while in France. For a time it was feared that Wheeler might contract pneumonia. He lives at 1396 West Railroad street.

To Do Aerial Stunts

With the arrival this evening of Capt. Charles Parmelee in a French built standard airplane Pendleton people will have an opportunity to see some thrilling stunts. Word of the coming of the aviator was brought this morning by Douglas Clark, an aerial scout who is a companion of Parmelee. The men have been working in California, Clark reports, and they are on their way to Wyoming and Montana where they will do stunts at the state fairs. They have been in The Dalles for about a week and plan to stay in Pendleton tonight and tomorrow night. They will also take passengers on flights besides furnishing thrills. The stunts will be performed over the landing field east of here.

Display Attracts Attention

A roll of zincum apparently thrust through the plate glass window of the Crawford Furniture Co. is attracting attention. The illusion is convincing and is a part of a clever window display.

Funeral Tomorrow

The funeral of the late E. O. McCabe will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Folsom undertaking parlors. Mr. McCabe, who was 40 years of age is survived by his widow and their two small children, William and Marjion.

Harvest Resumed

After a half a day's delay, caused by rain, harvesting was resumed yesterday afternoon in Umatilla county wheat fields. The weather has been sufficiently warm to make it dry enough to continue. The maximum today is 88, the minimum 49 while the barometer registers 29.49.

Stage Driver Fined

Fancho Stubbsfield, a driver on the Pilot Rock-Pendleton stage, was fined $100 Monday afternoon in the city court when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. The liquor was found by the city police Saturday afternoon. He paid the fine.

Visit Pilot Rock

A delegation of boosters for the Northwest Grain and Hay show went to Pilot Rock this afternoon to see how many entries of hay and grain will be made from the south end of the county. Those making the trip were Dave Nelson, Lowell Rogers, Jim Sturgis and L. C. Scharpf.

Will See Round-Up

J. D. Peterson, an employe of the American Express Company, in Cooperstown, North Dakota, wants to see the Round-Up and in a letter to T. P. O'Brien, local agent for the O. W. R. & N., Mr. Peterson asks the dates. He says North Dakota has a round-up but that it is a "small affair."

Jepson Funeral Today

The funeral services for Matt Jepson, aged recluse, who was found dead Saturday was held today at Milton where interment was made. Efforts on the part of the authorities to get in touch with relatives thought to be in the east were unavailing. Jepson was a native of Germany, but he had been naturalized.

Hay Grower Visits

Enthusiasm over the possibilities of the Northwest Grain and Hay Show is expressed by Lee Savely of Echo, who with Mrs. Savely was a Pendleton visitor today. The baled hay necessary to build the big structure in which the exhibits will be housed will be furnished by Mr. Savely. He will also have some exhibits entered and declares that the hay growers of the west end of the county will be looking out to take a share of the prizes.

Working on Happy Canyon

A thorough reclaiming of Happy Canyon is under progress in preparation for the activities of the night show of the Round-Up. Exhibitors among the merchants and manufacturers who had booths in the carnival held during May are having their fixtures removed, and this material will be salvaged. Repairs will be made on the seats, and C. M. Griswold will make a test of the supporting strength of the stands where the crowds are seated. Work on the scenic effects will be started soon by Sam Wright.

Ask Pendleton Assistance

In a communication from the Ad Club of La Grande, the assistance of the Pendleton Commercial Association is sought to make the Labor Day celebration to be held in La Grande a success. It is expected that Baker, La Grande and Pendleton will cooperate in the program. A request is made that Pendleton have a large delegation in attendance and that the city be represented by a float. The possibility of getting Pendleton talent interested in a baseball game is also mentioned. A. W. Nelson, formerly on the La Grande Observer, is the new manager of the Ad Club. For the Labor Day celebration J. A. Gjerme is officer of the day.

Visits Weston

Child welfare work called Mrs. Edith G. Van Deusen, home demonstration agent, to Weston yesterday. She will go to Umatilla on the same mission tomorrow.

Goals to Helmiston

Fred Bennion, county agent, is in Helmiston today in the interests of the coming Dairy and Hog Show.

Dates Are Announced

August 26 to 29 are the dates for the instruction in life saving and first aid, to be given in Pendleton by Joseph Hedges, assistant director of the Red Cross first aid department, Northwest Division. Mr. Hedges was here last year and conducted very successful classes. They will be held this year, as last year, at the Pendleton Natatorium. Rex Ellis, of this city, is in charge of the arrangements.

PRIZE FOR BEST DEER HEAD WON BY LOVELL

In the contest staged by Sol Baum to determine the best deer head in Pendleton, the judges awarded the prizes to Bert Lovell, Dan Bowman and H. E. Cook. Mrs. William Goedecke received favorable mention for a large head, and it is probable that she might have got in on the prize award if it had not been for the fact that the head owned by her is 35 years old and the deer was killed in the east. The first and second prizes were loving cups, and the third prize was a merchandise offering. The judges of the contest were L. C. Scharpf, John Vaughan and E. F. Averill. Size, beam and mounting were the factors given consideration in making the awards. The contest will be an annual affair and beginning next year, the contest will be for heads secured during the hunting season. In addition to this contest, Baum will offer a cash prize of $25 for the largest deer head displayed in his window killed with ammunition purchased from his place of business.

RIVER OF MOONSHINE DEMORALIZES POULTRY

BY CHARLES E. HUGHES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Many are the trials and tribulations of prohibition as enforced in Southern California.

But the residents of a fashionable Los Angeles district that was recently "raided" by federal authorities believe they have a new brand of prohibition grievance.

When the officers charged upon the foes of Amendment 18, occupants of a beautiful home, they obtained several hundred gallons of moonshine whiskey with a kick like a government mule, several hundreds of an ambrosial compound known as mash, a huge still and odds and ends of other things that give the boot to bootlegger.

Either in an effort to get rid of the contraband, or through accident, some of the mash was poured from the windows of the house of guilt, ran into the yard and penetrated even into the sacred precinct of the neighborhood chicken runs.

When the early risers among the barnyard denizens awoke next morning and went foraging they made a discovery and gave the high sign to the rest of the flock. After which the following events happened.

A scouting pigeon saw the chickens from afar and after wigwagging home to his family proceeded to fall off the water wagon.

An erstwhile modest and retiring splinter-hen insulted the family cat and pursued him until Tom took refuge in a tree and refused to come down for hours.

A respectable pullet staggered about in public places and flapped her wings and attempted to crow.

The upper ten of a choice and snobbish breed of Leghorns refused to seek the privacy of their perches at night, but slept on their backs with the ho! polloi, their feet extended to the heavens.

A mocking bird which for many nights had been serenading neighborhood spooners suddenly forgot his dulcet strains for a squawk that some said sounded like a basso-tenor of an adolescent.

Pigeons for miles around swooped down and quarreled with the chickens as they partook of the mash, then the sacred precinct of the neighborhood went off to a cool corner and slept it off, regardless of small boys and dogs.

Flies in that part of the city awarmed down in that one particular spot, retiring therefrom in an aerial shimmy or clustering in bunches on bedroom and kitchen screens and sleeping so thoroughly one authority believes he heard them snore.

Now the neighbors believe they have a legitimate cause for complaint and want to know if there is not some less drastic measure of disposing of, to misquote old Omar, "the corn that can with logic absolute, amendment 18 utterly confute."
