HOME DEMONSTRATION IDEAS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Thumb Sucking

- Thumb sucking is a menace to the child's welfare. If this habit is taken early it is by no means difficult to control, but allowed to run on for months it becomes a serious problem. Do not permit its development.
- Several methods are advised to break the habit. When used early a piece of adhesive around the thumb or fingers is all that is necessary. In others, pinning the sleeves to the side, thus preventing the child raising its hands to the mouth, or the aluminum ball nut, which can be purchased at the drug store, is advisable. Under all circumstances break the habit no matter what measure or how long it takes.—E. V. D.

A floating exposition of American industries will be housed on a great ship specially constructed, in which anything from dredges to silk handkerchiefs can be demonstrated. At sea the decks close in and it is an ordinary ship. In port the decks slide outward, providing an area equal to the space of ten city blocks. The first cruise will be to the Far East.

Yellowstone National Park provides a hay ranch solely to feed the park buffaloes when winter snows cover the pastures. The park herd has grown so rapidly that this ranch provides insufficient food. For the benefit of the assistant secretary of the interior a "buffalo run" was staged recently in which more than five hundred animals were driven down from hill and plateau and out across the plains.
