

People Here and There

Richard Sims and Claude Gillette returned yesterday after a 10 days' stay in Spokane. They were guests of Alfred Lockwood.

P. W. Beach, who was a classmate of Ed F. Averill during college days, visited with Averill here yesterday. Beach represents Colgate & Co.

Clay Rhinehart of Walla Walla, was in the city Saturday en route to Elgin, where he was called by the serious illness of his mother, well known Union county pioneer.

C. L. May, prominent potato grower of the Weston Mountain region, is in the city today. He has 20 acres of Netted Gem potatoes which are giving indications of an excellent yield. Mr. May grows alfalfa also and today made arrangements to use sulphur on 10 acres of his alfalfa crop.

EASTERNERS SWELTERED THROUGH HOT SUMMER, PENDLETON WAS COOL

While Easterners sweated through the summer heat, Pendletonians did not suffer, for weather records show that the thermometer went no higher than 102, this maximum being unusual as the average temperature was below 90. Not one heat prostration occurred, nor has a Pendleton resident ever suffered death from such cause, according to Ralph Folsom, pioneer undertaker of this city. Mr. Folsom says that his records for the past 25 years do not reveal a death from the heat. He emphasizes the fact the county has for years had the lowest death rate in Oregon. Last year but 94 burial permits were issued in Pendleton.

RAGAINS' DEATH

Where Had Ragains Been?
One angle of the mystery which so far has not been cleared up in where did Ragains spend the time that elapsed between his first visit and second visits to the cabin. When the body was found by the authorities, his repeating shotgun was lying by his side, and the story told by Shields and Brunson, who with Brunson were spending the night in the cabin, is to the effect that Ragains went home to get his shotgun. The mother and wife of Ragains declare that he had never been in the house after leaving early Saturday morning to go to work with Brunson.

Another fact that lends interest to the case is found in the report that when Ragains was there early in the evening, his dog was not with him, but that on his second trip, he was accompanied by the dog.

Bullet Not Found.

The bullet which ended Ragains' life was not located by Deputy Coroner Brady and Sheriff Spears, though they searched diligently for it. The belief is expressed that the bullet after passing through the body, went out through the opened door which was in the background and in direct line from Brunson's position when he fired.

One angle that remains difficult for the authorities to understand is how, if Ragains were standing upright at the time of the shooting, as has been reported, the course of the bullet could have been downward if Brunson fired from a sitting position on the back side of the bed.

Saw Myers Killed.
Jesse Brunson, who is better known as Jesse Roberts, which was his mother's name after her second marriage, was a witness to the death of Tom Myers not many miles from the scene of the Ragains shooting. Myers was shot by a cattleman named Rhonimus in 1906 in the Cabbage Hill district, and Brunson was with Myers when he was killed. Rhonimus was acquitted of the charges preferred against him. His plea was self defense. Brunson testified at the trial.

Another fact that has been brought out is that during the time when he was not working, Brunson usually made his home with Ragains. That he never knew Ragains to be quarrelsome is a statement that was made today by C. M. Wright to friends. Wright and Brunson were associated in running horses together on pasture, and Wright has been deeply affected by the tragedy.

Shields, one of the witnesses, is employed at the Oliver Knitts saw mill on the East fork of Birch creek. Runyon is said to have come to the cabin for a visit over Sunday when he was planning to ride some of the horses to try them out in preparation for the Round-Up.

To Assist State.
It is reported today that the law firm of Raley, Raley & Steiwer has been or will be secured to assist in the prosecution of Brunson.

WRIGHT CABIN

Years old and that he has lived in Umattila county during the past 16 years except while he was in the service. He is a former member of Troop D and has 21 months service, about five months of which was at the front. His mother lives in Montana and his father is dead.

Runyon and Shields were at his cabin during the evening, he said. Runyon was there on a visit overnight, and Shields had come to borrow a horse. Brunson is associated with C. M. Wright in pasturing horses, according to his statement.

"Do you think Ragains had been drinking when the shooting occurred?" he was asked.

"I have no statement to make about that," he replied.

Gambling Party, Authorities Believe
Officials are proceeding on the theory that the tragedy was the result of an evening devoted to gambling, though they were not able to find any cards or any trace of a deck having been burned. The story of the three survivors to the effect that Ragains returned to the house at midnight after an absence of approximately three hours is discredited by the authorities. They express the opinion that he never left the house after his arrival earlier in the evening.

A fact which they think may lend strength to this assumption is that Ragains had a considerable sum of money on him at the time of his death which might indicate that he had won in a gambling game. His pockets contained $30. Brunson had about $2.50 when he was searched at the jail.

Another feature which the authorities declare does not fit in with the statement of the three men is that the course of the bullet as disclosed by an examination of Ragains' wound by the coroner, is slightly downward. It would have been impossible for the wound to have been inflicted by a man who fired from a sitting position if Ragains was standing at the time the shot was fired, the authorities declare. If Brunson was seated when he fired, the authorities believe that it would have been impossible for the bullet to have taken the course it took unless Ragains was also seated. Otherwise the heavy bullet would in all probability have ranged upward, it is thought.

Ragains Had Family
Ragains was married, and besides the widow, he is survived by two daughters. His mother, who is more than 80 years old, is still living. Levi and James Eldridge, half-brothers, and three sisters are also living.

Mrs. Ragains is seriously ill, a doctor having been in attendance on her Saturday, and her condition was sufficiently serious to cause friends to delay informing her of the death of her husband until she is better.

Ragains has lived in the county practically all of his life. He has followed several different lines of work and was not very successful in a business way, acquaintances declare. At one time he is said to have been employed by Brunson, and the story told the officers by the witnesses of the tragedy is that a disagreement during Ragains' employment led to the shooting.

GETS RID OF FORTY YEARS OF TROUBLE

Portland Man Feeling Better and Weighs More Now Than Ever Before.

"I feel better and weigh more than I ever did in my life, that's why I'm strong for this Tanlac," said J. C. Doenska 1241 1/2 Macadam Road, Portland.
"For the first time in forty years I'm free from stomach trouble, and the change in my condition has been so remarkable I can hardly realize it. When I began taking Tanlac I had no appetite and even the little I ate seemed to give me no nourishment, and I was almost as weak as a kitten. I didn't rest well at night and would get up in the morning feeling tired and worn out and hardly had energy enough to put on my clothes."
"While I expected some good from Tanlac I certainly was surprised when it took hold of me, gave me a ravenous appetite, put my stomach in apple order and actually built me up twenty pounds in weight. I sleep good and sound every night and feel fine all the time. I don't believe there is a man in Portland that I can't beat in a foot-race today. I'm like a new man, and if anybody wants to know what Tanlac will do send them to me."
Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson's Drug Store and by all leading druggists everywhere.

FOUR CARS OF BALED HAY TO BE SENT HERE

Four cars of baled hay will be shipped to Pendleton for the Northwest Grain and Hay Show, September 13 to 24, according to plans made Saturday by the joint sales agencies of the Oregon and Washington Hay Growers' Association.
One car will be shipped from the Yakima valley, one from Boardman one from Stanfield and one from Hermiston. Included in the shipments which will reach here September 12, will be the 65 tons to be used in constructing the ends for the big tent which will house the show, and also the 80 or 100 exhibits of baled alfalfa hay which will be shown here.

Members of the two associations are being urged to send exhibits. The first prize is 40, equal at the present time to the price of four tons of hay. There are additional prizes totalling $150 offered, down to the tenth prize. Gallatin Valley, Montana, for which the county seat is Bozeman, will send a display of grain and hay, says word received by Fred Bennion, secretary of the association. This section has for many years been the prize grain and hay section of Montana. R. E. Hodley, county agent, will be in charge.
Individual members of the Portland Merchants' Exchange, will respond to a request for premiums and the various members are now being solicited. The Chicago Board of Trade declined because the board each year donates $19,000 in prizes to the National Grain Show.

ONE-TENTH OF MOTORS IN U. S. ARE TRUCKS

The number of motor trucks now in use in the United States totals 961,635, as compared with the total motor vehicle registration of 9,295,252, according to compilations made by statisticians of the H. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

The compilations are based on the actual truck registration figures of 20 states and estimates of motor vehicle registrars of the 18 other states which do not segregate motor truck and passenger car registrations. They are conservative, possibly somewhat below the actual number of trucks in use.

Many states which have not segregated motor truck and passenger car licenses in the past have arranged to do so this year. Consequently future estimates can be made with a greater degree of exactness.

According to the Goodrich figures, New York led all other states by a substantial margin with 132,524. Ohio came second with 83,300. Pennsylvania, which ranked third in the number of motor vehicles of all kinds, dropped to fourth place in the truck list, Illinois taking third place with 64,995. Pennsylvania trucks totaled 52,665.

The next six states in the list were: Massachusetts, fifth, 51,386; Michigan, sixth, 45,773; California, seventh, 35,857; Indiana, eighth, 32,482; Texas, ninth, 30,000, and Washington, tenth, 25,570.

It is interesting to note that 27 states, more than half the total number, had 10,000 or more trucks. Of this number, the large majority were states where considerable manufacturing is done. The agricultural states however, were well represented, and it is safe to predict that in a few years they will be in the majority.

CAMPAIGNS AGAINST DISEASE
HONOLULU, Aug. 22.—(I. N. S.)—The first offensive in the campaign against social diseases in Hawaii was launched on August 1 with the opening of the newly established venereal clinic in Honolulu, according to an announcement from the office of the Territorial Board of Health. At its last session the Territorial Legislature appropriated the sum of $15,000 toward the maintenance of such a clinic, which is now being operated under the direction of the Board of Health, the United States Public Health Service co-operating. An especial effort will be made to check the spread of venereal diseases among children, the prevalence of which has alarmed health authorities of late.
