

People Here and There

Mike and Pat Doherty, shopmen of near Gardiner, were business visitors in Pendleton today. They are owners of the ranch formerly owned by Andy Rust.

W. E. Knotts, who has served as janitor of the Elks building has returned to his former home at Denver, Colo. He will resume his former work as a brakeman on a railroad.

Conditions in Eastern Oregon are improving right along, according to Elmer E. Cleaver of Pendleton, Umatilla county farmer, are converting the immense wheat crop into cash and are preparing for next year's crop by summer following. In Union county they are in the midst of harvest and gathering fruit. Baker county has one of the largest hay crops in its history, but occasionally the demand for hay is not very great, owing to the uncertainties of the livestock industry. "I heard of one sale of hay," he said, "at $2 a ton. A few are not cutting their hay at all but are turning the stock in on it."—Oregon Journal.

After several weeks spent on a ranch in the hills near Ukiah, Charles Sturdivant has returned to Pendleton. He is back at Penlands.

Hunters Out After Game

Most everyone in Pendleton who stayed at home has the promise of a nice tender venison steak when the hunters return from their quest. Many offices are minus the services of the "boss" today, because the "boss" in company with good friends is out looking for a good place to be where he can expect to find a buck deer when the season opens tomorrow. It is estimated that there will be no less than 75 or 100 men from Pendleton and vicinity who will be on the trail of the elusive deer, and a great many more will make an effort to get the hunt on grouse.

MERCHANT TELLS A REMARKABLE STORY

Really Sounds Incredible But Well Known Man Testifies To Truth Of It.

Writing from Maxey, Ga., A. J. Gillet, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her up. One bottle of Tanlac got her up, on the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and housework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes unsolicited from a highly creditable source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson's Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere.

A total of sixteen boys and five girls passed the Junior lifesaving tests which closed here this afternoon after three days of instruction by Joseph Hedres, Red Cross water first aid director, under the auspices of the local Red Cross. Two girls and one older boy passed the senior tests.

Horace Boyden made the highest score in the junior tests with 83 out of a possible 100, where 75 was necessary to pass the contest. Others who passed were Francis Greulich, Bob Fletcher, Jack Hartness, Louis Harthrong, Jack Nelson, Allen Boyden, James Raley, Raley Peterson, James Rice, Ben Griggs, Cecil Barnett, Verne Dale, Loren Booth, Urban Schwartz and Robert Miller.

Girls who passed the Junior tests were Dorothy Barthell, Thelma McClintock, Edna Cook, Elizabeth Simpson and June School.

Alberta McMonies and May Fan Vuzpitt were the two girls who passed the senior test, which is much more difficult than that given the juniors. Donald Whitman has received a certificate as a life-saver.

The tests given the juniors includes three methods of carrying a person ten yards, three ways of releasing themselves from people when in peril of drowning, the surface dive and recovery and resuscitation by the Schaefer method. The senior tests include the carrying tests at twice the distance, disrobing for speed, supporting a person fully clothed for a minute, and several others.
