Most Appropriate Wear for the Fall Season

Copyright 1921 Hart Schaffner & Marx

"IS THIS GOOD BUSINESS" WE'RE ASKING BUSINESS MEN

Right now the stocks we bought for fall are worth a lot more than we paid for them. Market prices have gone up. Should we take advantage of that and charge more? We think not.

We haven't raised prices; we're selling at old figures; we're giving you the benefit. It's good business for you anyway.

Why We Say to You—"Hart Schaffner & Marx"

One of the reasons for our making so frequent and so emphatic an argument about Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes is that they represent the quality idea in merchandise which business men everywhere recognize as the thing people want.

Good quality in all-wool fabrics, good tailoring, good style, right fit; what more does a man want in clothes? The only point to be particular about is that when you pay for these things you get them.

As for that, Hart Schaffner & Marx guarantee it; we guarantee it; we promise more than quality, material and work; we guarantee your satisfaction.

You ought to think of them as your clothes.

Your New Dress is Here.

Dress styles were never so charming as the ones we are now showing. They are graceful in line and what a variety of styles—each one perfect in its own way. A frock that may be worn with equal appropriateness on many varying occasions.

$22.50 to $85.00

The New Hats

Strikingly becoming and dashing affairs are the large hats this season for those who are fortunate enough to wear larger hats in good style. The poke and smaller hats, though, are by no means obsolete—to the contrary, they will have first choice with the best dressers.

The New Coats and Dresses for Children

This is an appropriate time to start outfitting the children in their new Coats and Dresses for Fall, because styles are now pretty well defined.

Coats are cut in two sections using different panel and pleasing effects; while the large and medium sized collars, novelty cuffs, odd cut sleeves, belts and high waisted effects are the popular new features.

The simple one-piece dress will be favored for school wear. They are charming creations with their dainty trimmings and will make instant appeal to the heart of every young girl.

When may we expect you to come and see these?

LEAVES JOB TO GET DRINK; RETURNS LATER WITH MIND A BLANK

Workman Leaves House and Returns Many Months Later and Starts on Work

DENVER, Sept. 12.—Henry Turner, fifty-five, has recovered his memory after suffering from what is believed to be the strangest case of amnesia ever brought to the attention of local physicians.

Turner, while working at the home of Dr. Lillian Pollack, prominent Denver physician, on December 5, 1920, laid down his tools to secure a drink of water and disappeared. On August 16, more than eight months later, he returned to Dr. Pollack's residence, ready to resume the day's work that he had begun the previous December. The few minutes supposed by Turner to have elapsed had extended into months and he was unable to explain his absence.

"At 7:45 o'clock on the morning of December 6, 1920," Dr. Pollack declares, "Turner came to my house to perform a number of 'odd jobs,' bringing his kit of tools with him. "Setting the tools against the kitchen wall, he said he was going for a drink of water and would return in a few moments.

"Promptly at 8 o'clock on the morning of August 16 Turner came to my kitchen door and said he would start on his task and looked quite surprised and hurt when I told him he had been gone almost a year.

"When Turner finished some work which I had for him he said to me, in a puzzled tone, 'I have been away a long time, haven't I?' It's all becoming clear to me now. I remember I left your house and said I would be back in fifteen minutes. The next thing I recalled I was in a hospital, and the nurse told me it was Syracuse, N. Y. How I got there I don't know, and how I got back to Denver I don't know, except that some kind people said they would take me West if I would help them with their baggage. And here I am."

During Turner's absence Dr. Pollack instituted a search for him and learned that he was missing from his rooming house, but could find no trace of his whereabouts.

It is believed that worry over numerous misfortunes during his life was the cause of Turner's temporarily losing his memory. He was born in Oberlin, Ohio, and after being orphaned he was brought West by people who adopted him. Through a legacy from Allison Wright, a wealthy Stillwater, Mich., resident, Turner acquired a farm in the state of Washington, where he lived for some years. A fire that destroyed his property and resulted in the death of his wife and two sons left the man penniless about fifteen years ago, and he has been eking out a precarious existence since that time by performing light work around gardens and homes.

"I have suffered greatly during the past few months," he told inquirers here today. "I have a vague recollection of being struck and knocked down by an automobile when I left Dr. Pollack's house last winter, and after that I knew nothing for a long time."

COFFINS CALLED LUXURY IN GERMAN TAX BILL

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—(L. N. S.)—Drastic decisions as to what constitutes luxuries are taken by the German Government in their new taxation programme to meet the operations bill. The Government has decided that coffins and caskets are "luxuries" and must pay the tax. Plain pine board coffins are tax free.

A premium is put on short skirts by the inclusion of long or wide skirts in the "luxury" category.

ALLEGED MURDERER DENIES HE CONFESSED TO NEWS REPORTER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—(L. N. S.)—"It is an interval from the beginning to the end," said Arthur Burch in his cell, in the jail, referring to the statement of Chandler Sprague, reporter for the Examiner, that Burch confessed to the murder of J. Belton Kennedy. "There is not a word of truth in it," said Burch of Sprague's copyrighted article in which Sprague claimed Burch confessed he slew Kennedy with the knowledge of Mrs. Obenchain, who is jointly charged with Burch for Kennedy's murder. Mrs. Obenchain later denied Burch's reported statement insofar as she was concerned.
