PENDLETON

As usual during the Round-Up there are people here who express surprise at the extent of the town and its resources. One reason Pendleton people like the Round-Up is that it brings to the city many thousands of men and women who learn at first hand something of the business and industrial opportunities here, as well as the social aspects of our community life.

Here are some things about this region you may not know: Pendleton is headquarters for a move that looks to securing the development of a power and irrigation project, the Umatilla rapids project, that promises to be the largest enterprise of the sort ever undertaken west of the Mississippi river. Its possibilities are tremendous.

Umatilla county is not merely a cattle and sheep raising region, it is also the greatest wheat producing county in Oregon, the greatest alfalfa county, the greatest honey producing county and it has irrigated sections that this year produced 1000 carloads of apples, nearly as many cars of prunes and other fruits in proportion, including peaches, cherries and strawberries. One section of this county, the Weston region, is noted as being one of the best potato producing sections of the west.

Pendleton is known throughout the state as an educational center because of its excellent and modern equipped schools, the high grade of talent employed and the consistent support local people always give to meritorious moves in the direction of education.

Pendleton was the first city in Oregon, outside of Portland to secure paved streets and has long followed a policy of street improvement along with other civic betterments.

The Pendleton water system, whereby pure water in abundant quantities is secured from the Blue mountains, is unexcelled by the water supply of any town in the northwest.

Pendleton's social atmosphere is cordial and democratic; the city has more social and semi-social clubs, large and small, for men and women, than may usually be found in a town of its size. Practically every known church is represented here and most of the churches have large and substantial buildings. It is a matter of frequent comment on the part of strangers that Pendleton is an easy town to get acquainted in.

It might also be mentioned that Pendleton provides supervised public playground work for children during the summer months, has a beautiful public natatorium and has a city planning commission at work on an ambitious program for the city's future civic progress. In other words, Pendleton has many things, aside from the Round-Up and Happy Canyon, to feel big about and most people "feel big" about the town. This may be a virtue or a fault but whatever it is we have it and have it strong.

THE GASOLINE SUPPLY

A CONTINUATION of the decline in the production and supply of gasoline is indicated by a statistical statement just issued by the United States Bureau of Mines, in which it is shown that the nation's stock of this fuel on July 31 amounted to 684,236,695 gallons as compared with a supply of 750,644,450 gallons at the beginning of July. Statistics compiled by the bureau of mines in the late spring showed the largest stock of gasoline in the history of the country.

Gasoline was produced to the amount of 419,641,815 gallons in July by 299 petroleum refineries, having a daily capacity of 1,721,550 barrels of oil. This is a decrease from June of 11 plants and 38,225 barrels of daily capacity.

The daily average production of gasoline for July was 13,536,833 gallons, which is a decrease from June of 807,980 gallons per day. This is, however, an increase of 196,542 gallons over the daily average production for the year 1920.

Exports of gasoline for July amounted to 27,382,798 gallons; shipments to insular possessions were 2,036,398 gallons, imports were 1,127,704 gallons; and the domestic consumption amounted to 457,758,078 gallons.

Kerosene production for the month of July shows a daily average of 4,474,972 gallons, which is a decrease from June of 246,284 gallons. Stocks of kerosene at the end of July show a decrease of 22,855,039 gallons from those at the end of June.

For the month of July the daily average production of gas and fuel oils was 1,500,000 gallons smaller than the production of June. Stocks of these oils were increased during the month of June by approximately 20,000,000 gallons.

The daily average production of lubricating oils for the month of July was 28,635 gallons larger than the production for June. Stocks of lubricating oils were decreased during the month of June by 2,244,823 gallons.

LONDON ESTABLISHES HEALTH RECORD BUREAU

BY EARLE C. REEVES
 International News Service Staff Correspondent
 LONDON, Sept. 22.—The cartoonists are beginning to picture London as the nation's health resort. Already doctors are cartooned holding the pulse of a provincial patient, advising him to run up to London for a rest and cure.
 The latest health figures are the lasis of London's claims as a spa. The death rate for the last quarter recorded was 12.6, the lowest in history. The infant mortality was 6, which, the statisticians hasten to point out, compares with 85 for New York city. The birth rate rose from 18.2 to 26.4 per 1000 of population. Statisticians for England and Wales hurried their compilations, so that two days after the London figures appeared London was informed that January to March set a new record for marriages. Births were 115,764 boys and 109,552 girls, a proportion which helps toward correcting the war wastage in men.

ECHO TO HAVE STREET CARNIVAL THIS WEEK

(East Oregonian Special.)

ECHO, Sept. 22.—A meeting of the Commercial club was held Monday evening at the city hall. It was in the nature of a "booster" meeting to try to improve the Pine City-Echo road, the George Coppinger road, and other things in the line of improvement. Also to send representatives to the county meeting to be held in Pendleton next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hale are the proud parents of a 5-1-2 pound daughter born Monday morning.

It is reported that Edward Collier of Westlawn has sold his orchard tract to Mr. and Mrs. Winer.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Spaulding of Salem arrived in Echo Friday and are domiciled in the M. E. parsonage. One of their sons came Sunday morning and will attend high school.

J. T. Hinkle and daughter Miss Frances of Hermiston were in town Friday.

Mr. Richardson of Canyon City is here and expects to open a jewelry shop in the F. T. George building on Bridge Street in the near future.

Mrs. E. M. McElroy has leased the store building on Bridge street from Elmer Spiko and intends to open a restaurant as soon as the building is remodeled.

Miss Edith Waddell, of Hermiston, is here at the L. B. Well's home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parrish and children of Nolin were here on business Saturday.

Rudolph Klingler, of Lexington was in town Saturday.

Horner Coppinger left on No. 17 Sunday for Seattle. He will again attend the University this year.

Thomas Kerr, Chas. Masey, Chas. Adams and John Riley, all of Nolin were business visitors in town Saturday.

Miss Jena Houser, of Stanfield, was here on business Saturday. Miss Houser is one of the teachers of Stanfield.

Mrs. Harry Peters was in Pendleton Saturday.

Fred Krump, a prominent stockman of the Hopewell country, was in this vicinity several days trying to rent pasture which seems to be scarce.

Joseph Jackarias, of Nolin, was in Echo Saturday.

The Misses Beryl Jarome and Violet Corrigal left Saturday for Corvallis where they will again enter O. A. C.

Mrs. M. E. Esselstyn left on No. 17 Sunday for her home in The Dalles, after a short visit with relatives here.

The rains of Sunday and Monday caused the J. L. Hofnagle threshing crew to suspend operations and they decided to not resume until after the Round-Up.

C. H. Esselstyn of Lexington, spent the week end here with his wife and his parents.

Mr. Denny, a farmer of Sand Hollow, was in town Saturday. His daughter is teacher of the third and fourth grades in the school here.

H. I. Drew attended the meeting of the principals of the schools of the county in Pendleton Saturday.

Mrs. Ray T. Johnson entertained the members of the Gaiety Club at her apartment Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hofnagle received a message stating that the burial of their son Don who was killed in action in France, in October 1918, would be held Thursday, Sept. 22 at 2:30 p. m. in the Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia.

Thomas Ross, one of Echo's merchants is in Portland this week.

J. I. Howard, Jim Coppinger and Roy Hale returned Sunday from a hunting trip in the mountains.

The Boucher-French street carnival company will be in Echo September 21-24.

HARD LUCK LANDS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—(I. N. S.)—The captain and crew of the Canadian fishing schooner Helen McLain have decided they are on the champion hard-luck ship of the North Atlantic.

The ship, commanded by Captain Fred McLain, reached Boston and docked at the fishing pier, with seventy-seven big swordfish in her hold, valued at well over $4000.

Then it was discovered that the privilege given in war times, which allowed Canadian fishing vessels to land their catches direct at United States ports, had been revoked on July 15. The men were informed they could not sell their haul in this country, and it will spoil before they can reach a British or Canadian port.

Collector of the Port Luffkin telegraphed to Washington asking special permission for the ship, since it has been at sea for over a month and had
