nots; F. N. Lanning of Havre, Montana; Arthur Craft of Spokane and Ray Thompson of Prosser, Washington, are here for the Round-Up and are registered at the Hotel Golden Rule.

Dudley Knapp is here for the Round-Up from Forest Grove. He is visiting at the home of N. P. McLean.

Clement Sloan, a former student of the Pendleton schools, and now living in Bend, is another out of town visitor for the Round-Up.

Good roads and Jersey cattle are two things in which Frank Waugaman of Hermiston is vitally interested in. He was a visitor in Pendleton today.

James West, assistant attorney general of Oregon, with headquarters in Salem, is visiting his uncle Thomas stood around until their squaws had put up the tepees.

Young of the Economy Drug Company during Round-Up week.

STAGE FOR SECOND SHOW

Rattlesnake Strikes.
A lot of the thrills which the audience secured were due to the fact that they were not on the program. One of these unexpected things was the misbehavior of the wild rattlesnake which Chief Tall Pine used in his wild snake dance. The snake struck the chief, and only the thickness of the leather gloves worn by the veteran performer saved him from serious injury.

The first real thrill of the 1921 shows came when Slim Chambers, who was riding the Yellow Kid was thrown when the tricky horse fell back on him. Chambers was carried from the arena, but within five minutes he had recovered from the shock and was lounging on Main street with the rest of the "hard-bolled" crew.

Wesler Kid Does Unexpected.
The feat of Yellow Kid was almost duplicated by Wesler Kid when it came his time to try odds with a rider Wild John Day drew the job of riding the Kid, or trying it, and the wily horse, falling to unseat John Day, ran into the blacksmith shop. The rider was in a precarious position, but he saved himself from injury by grabbing hold of the flooring just above his head and swung out of the saddle to the accompaniment of sighs of relief on the part of breathless spectators.

Hotfoot, old favorite with Round-Up crowds, let Charles Everson stay on the first jump just for fun, but when he went up the second time the rider came down and Hotfoot used some of his pep in trying to get rid of the galling saddle. Two colored boys mounted old Laramie Bill and held on while the sorrel weaved through the ring. Then Ben Jory's and Charley Irwin's mules were the source of much merriment.

One steer was bulldozged by Frank McCarroll and two Brahms steers from Eddie McCarty's string furnished thrills when they were turned loose in the ring with three matadors. Ike Armstrong, Dave Campbell and Chyenne Kaiser. A diversion from the expected came when the ranger of the animals accepted the invitation of Dan McGrew's dance hall front and decided to "shake a leg" over the polished floor. He had some difficulty in maintaining his equilibrium, and the population of the hall decreased to almost nothing within the wink of an eye. The wanderer was finally pressed back into service in the arena.

Many Dance and Gamble.
The program of the show itself was completed shortly before nine o'clock, and immediately afterward the huge crowd made a run for the dance hall and the gambling where they held forth until a late hour.

The atmosphere of the old frontier was evident in the tables and stands where for paper bucks, the crowd gambled. Then drinks, all of them of soft vintage, however, were served at the bar. The dance proved much more available for those in attendance due to the changes which have been made in arrangements.

wheat but experiments are now being made to cross the wheat with winter varieties, to make it suitable for winter seed.

A close second to the entry from The Dalles was a bushel of Marquis entered by Walter C. Kraft, of Bozeman, Montana, and testing 63.2. George R. Hyslop, of the O. A. C. farm crops department, who is judging the exhibits, declared it was most difficult to decide between the two.
