IDEAS FOR HOUSEWIVES HOME DEMONSTRATION

The telephone and automobile have done much to free the people who live in the country from isolation. Yet there are many farm women in this county who have not the opportunity to enjoy wholesome and inspiring contact with the outside world. There is something wrong with the management of a farm when the housework is too heavy to permit the farm women to take part in some form of community work.

Statistics show that more young women than young men leave the rural districts for the city. A survey of the conditions under which some farm women are working would bring a realization of the hardships endured. Running water, a sink and a bath tub should be in every farm home. There are several practical and quite inexpensive arrangements that farm men have installed to save their wives water. Not only will labor and time be saved by installing the home as carefully as the barn but also the homemaker will gain in health and happiness.—E. V. D.

MODERNIST ART BRANDED DEGENERATE BY CRITICS

By K. M. ELISH

(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Greenwich Village is rubbing its eyes.

Also the little Latin quarter over on the "left bank" of the East River—that is to say the artistic colony on Brooklyn Heights—is also pinching itself to make sure it's awake.

They have all been set by the ears. The artistic sanctuary of New York—the Metropolitan Museum of Art—has been denounced as a hotbed of Bolshevism.

Printed circulars denouncing as "degenerate and pathological" the exhibition of modernistic art now on view at the metropolitan have been going through the mail to a selected list of connoisseurs. Addressed by typewriter, and without return addresses, the pamphlets bear the printed signature, "A Committee of Citizens and Supporters of the Museum."

Condemning the exhibition as "entirely unworthy of the Museum," the "committee" characterizes in detail the pictures it deems offensive.

Vulgar in subject, "corrupt in drawing," "childish in conception" are the labels affixed to one group. "Simply pathological in conception, drawing, perspective and color," is another characterization.

According to the circular the Metropolitan is being made the tool of art dealers who want to "unload this rubbish on the public."

The trouble with modernism in general, and the Metropolitan's exhibition in particular, according to the pamphlet, is a combination of Bolshevism, commercialism and just plain insanity.

Dedication of Ugliness

"The world-wide Bolshevik propaganda," declares the brochure, "aims to overthrow and destroy all existing social systems, including that of the arts. This modernistic degenerate cult is simply the Bolshevik philosophy applied in art. The triumph of Bolshevism, therefore, means the destruction of the present aesthetic system, the transportation of all aesthetic values and the dedication of ugliness. The philosophy of Bolshevism as applied to all channels of human action is the gospel of mental impotence. Hence the Bolsheviks would open the gates of the temple of art to the mentally lame, halt and blind of the human race."

Human Greed Factor

The circular declares that the second force back of the modernistic movement in art is greed. The whole propaganda of this movement, it declares, was organized by European art dealers who had flooded the American market with French and Dutch pot holders. But the real cult of modernism, the circular declares, began with a small group of neurotic egomaniacs in Paris who styled themselves worshippers of Satan, the God of Ugliness.

"The third moving force of modernistic art is a well-known form of insanity," declares the committee.

TIRED OF CRIME CAREER DOCTOR SEEKS DEATH

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CANON CITY, Col., Sept. 27.—That Dr. William F. Warner, seventy, who has spent twenty years of his life behind prison walls, will end his career by dying in jail is the belief of officials at the state penitentiary here, who have been warned that the elderly "con man" may attempt suicide.

Warner started this week on a five to ten year term, his eighth penitentiary sentence following his plea of guilty in Denver criminal court to a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses.

In a written confession presented to Judge Warren A. Haggott, in the Denver west side court, just before he was sentenced, Warner wrote:

"I have found a solution of all my troubles and worry."

Then followed a Latin quotation that was translated to mean "there is one ultimate remedy."

"The fitting end of a life that has been tainted with dishonor is the obsecration of a prison—or death," Warner's confession continued, and I do not fear either—the latter less than the former."

Officials believe this to be a hint that he may be contemplating taking his own life, and he is being watched carefully by the prison guards.

Warner related a graphic picture of his fall from a position of respect to the career of a felon. He said he was graduated from a Philadelphia medical school in 1879 and practiced his profession in that city until 1882, when he first fell into the clutches of the law and was given a two year prison sentence in the Pennsylvania city after being convicted of a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses. In 1903, three years for forgery in 1906, three years in Pittsburgh. In 1911, for larceny, and three years in 1915 in Illinois for false pretenses.

In his written confession to the court Warner stated that during the last two years he had deposited spurious drafts for collection in more than one hundred banks in ten states. He declared he would have collected hundreds of dollars if his courage had not failed him when some checks he had drawn on those accounts were questioned.

"Whenever the bankers seemed to doubt the story I told I never tried to cash checks on these fraudulent drafts," Warner declared. "But in scores of cases they cashed the checks without question."

Frequently, according to the confession, Warner has found it to his advantage to consort with widows in various parts of the county in his operations using them to identify him at banks.

Warner deposited a bogus draft at a Denver bank last June. He was later arrested in Salt Lake City and taken to the Colorado metropolis for trial.
