TO THE FARMER

You cannot sell your crop unless men are working. Men cannot work unless you buy the things they produce.

If you buy clothing, shoes, underwear, hats, stockings, farm implements, and household articles, you give employment to factory workers who produce these things, railroad workers who transport them, clerks and stockkeepers in wholesale and retail stores, miners who supply the coal to run the plants and railroads, and countless others, all users of farm products.

They cannot eat bread made of your wheat, wear clothing made of your wool, shirts made of your cotton, cannot consume your corn, oats, vegetables, fruit, etc., unless they are working.

They cannot work unless you keep on buying. If you stop buying—business stops—your business and their business.

You can't sell crops to the "bread-line" man.

This is the greatest country on earth and will continue to do business—but you can give it a bad bump unless you keep on buying the things you need.

Perfectly safe too—now that prices are down.

RUSSIAN INDUSTRIES REPORTED WAKING UP

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—M. Almgren, a wealthy and prominent Swedish business man, has just arrived in London from a visit to Russia and gives some interesting details on how Russia is "waking up."

He states that all the factories that he visited are very busy, employing the full number of hands and having plenty of orders, particularly the Puller Works and the aeroplane shops; and although the clothing industry is catching up with the demand, the bootmaking firms cannot keep pace with the orders.

What chiefly struck M. Almgren was the fact that the United States is outdistancing all other competitors in the race for Russian markets. Numerous American steamers, with full cargoes for Bolshevik consumption, are arriving at Reval, and an American shipping company which formerly worked a line between New York and Archangel is planning three more ocean going steamers on this route.

He says that Petrograd and Moscow are swarming with foreign business men.

'JAZZ WEED' SOURCE OF CRIME IN SOUTHWEST

BY CHARLES E. HUGHES
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Marihuana, a weed "Jazz weed" frequently used by Mexican drug addicts is the source of much crime in the Southwest, according to Inspector Fred C. Boden, of the Board of Pharmacy, of California, who has started an unrelenting fight to curb the use of the narcotic.

"Eliminate Marihuana and crime among the laboring class of Mexicans will be appreciably reduced," said Boden. "Prevent persons from planting and growing the weed and much wickedness will be spared the world."

According to the inspector, whose duties take him from Fresno to the international border, marihuana is a strange growth containing properties that astonish even the drug addict.

For instance, observed Boden, a bit of marihuana placed in a drink of brandy causes the optimistic indulged to fancy that he witnesses jelly-like pulsations and oriental wiggles in every object in his view. Street cars shake like a wicked shimmy for the marihuana smoker.

If a little marihuana is sprinkled on a tortilla as it bakes, the "lowly delicacy vibrates and it is said, sends forth weird tunes not unlike those seeping over the walls of a sultan's harem rendezvous.

In fact, the lowly and mischievous weed is capable of producing so much devilry, Boden claims, that he never overlooks a chance to pull up a plant and arrest the grower.

ORIENTALS ARE DUMPED INTO ENGLISH PORTS

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—The smuggling of Chinese into England on a large scale is just being investigated by the Liverpool police.

In defiance of the Aliens act and all manner of other restrictions, this practice is growing all the time, and the port authorities seem unable to discover the manner in which they are being hoodwinked. A few arrests have been made, but the smugglers find the gains so great that they willingly take the small risks.

The swindle is really of the double variety. The victims are told that plenty of places await them in England, with wages varying from $5 to $50 a week, and that if they have any capital their gains would be increased accordingly. In numberless cases they have handed over their entire life's savings, amounting frequently to as much as $100, to the Chinese swindler.

Put aboard any old craft, they eventually reach England, after having been nearly starved on the voyage. There they find themselves destitute, hungry and workless.

At this point they are approached by the other partner to the swindle and offered work at starvation wages, in Chinese laundries, boarding houses and shops. Hunger drives them to accept.

Then the partner receives a substantial premium from the owner of the particular business, and he and the agent in China divide up together.

WAR COST CUT DISTANT BUT NOT SO WITH AUTO; FLIVVER IS GOOD NOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—Here's a today picture of French Ambassador Jusserand—the man who will direct France's part in the armament conference after Premier Briand's resignation of his resignation, set to him two weeks after the conference opens.

An old battered hulk of a flivver winds along in a zig-zag course down Pennsylvania avenue en route to the Capitol.

Let us present no less a dignitary than the distinguished plenipotentiary from the Republic of France.

There seated in a rusty car of the vintage of probably 1909, and of the brand for which Detroit became more or less notorious, is Jules Jusserand, the French Ambassador. Usually Mme. Jusserand is beside him.

The sublime in democratic simplicity has been attained in that sort of sight. But it causes no worry to the dean of the diplomatic corps.

Ambassador Jusserand is quite content in his flivver. All of the $10,000 limousines can about past him and the whiz disturbs him not one bit.

COMPLETES EDUCATION BY SWABBING DUCKS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—"Swabbing" down the decks of a trans-oceanic freight steamer is the unique way Joe Marchetti, twenty-four-year-old graduate of the University of Southern California, is completing his education as a lawyer. He gained some preliminary experience on Pacific coast trips and has left on a long cruise to Europe.

He has been admitted to practice in California courts, but found, he said, that a sea life would provide him with a lot of practical experience.
