ALTA TODAY

All the excitement of the ancient feudal days in the hills of Kentucky and a charming romance are to be found in Elaine Hammerstein's new Selznick Picture, "Remorseless Love," which will be seen for the first time at the Alta theatre today. The story is by Mary Lanier Magruder and direction was in the hands of Ralph Ince and the capable manner in which this story is told constitutes one of the most pleasing photodramas in which the star has appeared.

"SKYFIRE"
COMEDY SHE ME

The story has for a background the picturesque Kentucky mountains and tells a tale of the simple mountain folk whose main concern seems to be the upholding of the family tradition of incessant warfare against their neighbors. Not the least interesting phase of the production is the warmly waged family feud between the historic Hatfields and the Morrisons. There also is a pretty love theme, well sustained suspense and a puzzling touch of mystery.

In "Remorseless Love" the star is capably supported by a large cast with Niles Welch playing the leading role. Others in the cast are Effingham Pinto, Ray Allen, James Seeley and Jerry Devine, the latter a mite of a youngster who scores a notable success.

Quarter of Million Spent On "The Black Panther's Cub"

The W. K. Ziegfeld production, "The Black Panther's Cub" starring Florence Reed, which is based on Swinburne's immortal poem, "Faustine," is heralded as a production which cost to produce more than $250,000. It is one of the first of the really big productions to be made in the East, and is accepted as concrete proof of the recent statement by several big producers that it is no longer necessary to go to California to make good pictures.

"The Black Panther's Cub" was made at W. K. Ziegfeld's big Fort Lee Studios in New Jersey. All of the interior scenes were made under artificial lights which enables a director to obtain many effects that are not possible to get under natural light. The exterior scenes were also made in the East.

As the locale of "The Black Panther's Cub" is laid in the English countryside and in Paris, it was necessary to build a number of special sets. In one instance an entire farm was reconverted after the English style and when finished so closely resembled an old English estate, that Norman Trevor, one of the principals in the production, who is an Englishman, asserted that it made him homesick to play in the scene.

In regard to the scenes of Parisian night life, which were made in sets constructed in the studios, none other than Director Emile Chautard, who is French, is needed as an authority that they are correct in every possible detail.

"The Black Panther's Cub" sets the pace for regal magnificence and gorgeousness in photodramatic production. No expense was spared in the construction of the scenes. Miss Reed herself spent a small fortune in gowns and the cast which Mr. Ziegfeld assembled to support Miss Reed in itself represents another fortune.

Norman Trevor, who is now starring in "Enter Madame" at the Fulton Theatre in New York, is the principal supporting member of the cast, while others of scarcely less prominence are Tyrone Power, Earle Foxe, Henry Stephenson, William Roselle, Mlle. Dazie, and Paula Shay.

"The Black Panther's Cub" is a scintillating, fascinating and enthralling story of night life in Paris, and the quiet and more refined existence of the English countryside. In the production Miss Reed plays a dual role with such masterly realism, that it seems almost impossible for "Faustine" and Mary Magruder to be the same person. The aim of realism in Miss Reed's acting, the realism suggested by the scenes and the atmosphere which Director Chautard has injected in the picture, marks an epoch in technique that will be difficult for another succeeding production to surpass.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Typing Class Has Speed Test
Miss Kathleen Meloy surprised the Typing I class this morning by giving them a speed test. She gave several phrases and asked that ten lines of these be written. After typing several minutes, the students were asked to count the perfect lines. The result of the counting showed that Sydney Laing had won first place; Agnes Little, second; and Waldon Byers, third.

Senior Society
The Senior class at its meeting held Wednesday morning, decided to have a picnic at an early date—known only to class members. As evidence of their originality they are to get acquainted by means of a picnic instead of the usual party which the other classes seem to favor. Watch the class of '32 for further signs of life.

Junior Glee Contest
A challenge to the other classes of the high school has been issued by the Juniors. This challenge made known their plan for securing a school rally song to be sung at a junior glee in November.

Each class has accepted the call and is working vigorously to make its song the winner.

Some of the rules and regulations which govern the contest are, that the words must be original with some class member or members; the words must suggest school spirit and be suitable for rally purposes; the song must consist of at least one verse and a chorus; the words and the music selected must be kept secret until the night of the glee.

Judges will be secured to choose the winning song. The points on which the rally song is to be judged are: appropriateness of words; suitability of music; rendition; and percent of class members taking part.

Vice President Elected
Receipt of the resignation of Alan Polson from the office of vice-president of the P. H. S. Student Body necessitated another election to fill the vacancy. A student body meeting was held October 12, for the purpose of nominating his successor. The nominees were Byron Warner and Richard

The Greatest Physician of All Is Pure Blood

When the Foods You Eat No Longer Seem to Do You Any Good—Look For the Danger Signals Which Denote Waste Products In The Blood.

How to Clear Your Blood of Waste Products.

The blood is the means by which all the tissues of the body are directly or indirectly nourished. You will at once realize that unless the blood is pure, some part of the body will soon become diseased.

Waste products in the blood are an element of danger. Ninety per cent of the people "below par" are suffering with waste products in the blood.

When your blood is loaded with waste products, you become weak, nervous, irritable and easily upset.

Other symptoms are pimples, boils, or some other skin disorder; loss of weight; and probably rheumatism.

Your blood is your fountain source of energy—therefore keep your blood rich and pure.

For over 50 years, thousands and thousands of men and women have relied on S. S. S. to clear their blood of waste products. S. S. S. will improve the quality of your blood by relieving you of the waste products which cause impoverished blood and its allied troubles—skin disorders, rheumatism and a lowered vitality.

The same qualities which give S. S. S. its beneficial effect in clearing your blood of waste products make it extremely desirable for keeping your blood in good condition.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. Beware of substitutes. Write Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., P.O. Box 119, S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga., for special medical advice (without charge). Gym Classes Begin Boys' gymnasium classes started Wednesday under the direction of Coach Hanley. The work will consist of a calisthenic course, swimming and work on the horizontal bar.

The first three classes from 9:45 until 12:00 are composed almost entirely of freshmen. The class from 2:20 to 3:15 comprises most of the upper classmen.

Gymnasium work was made compulsory by a law passed last year, requiring that an average of at least twenty minutes each day be spent upon some sort of physical exercise. Later on contests will be staged between the classes, in drills, calisthenics and games. Credit is given for this work as it is for any other school activity.

SOCIETY IN LONDON TURNS TO DRESSMAKING

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(U. N. S.)—Fashion was created hitherto for society by the dressmaker; now the position is reversed, for fashion is today created by society for the dressmaker. London society has gone in for the smart set no longer craves for the Paris model. Openly they wear clothes "a la Londres" and are not ashamed of it—boast of it, in fact.

Lady Duff Gordon, the presiding genius of "Luciles," has now a worldwide reputation, and the latest to invade Hanover square, the domain where husbands fear to tread, is Lady (Cecily) Gingham, wife of a famous cavalry general, and daughter of the late Colonel H. Montgomery-Carr, of Kentucky. There are others, but they modestly hide under a pseudonym. Others are engaged by the big drapery stores in the capacity of advisers. Were a list to be drawn up of fashion advisers in the West End of London it would read like a page from "Dehrett's Peerage."

London New Arbitrator.
Thus London boasts of being the arbitrator and the purveyor of fashions for the universe of womankind. Paris is now a back number. She succeeded her title ten years ago. The reason for Paris losing ground is that during the last ten years she has elected to revive Eastern modes more fitted for the harem than the refined woman's home, or the social circles of America or Great Britain.

This caused a revolt among the well-dressed of London, so they took to designing their own dresses and wearing them in preference to the daring phantasies and Oriental travesties evolved by the Parisians. Now London is inundated with orders from North and South America, Australia, India and other places which formerly relied on Paris.

Paris has realized this, and now most of her big houses have established branches in London to catch some of this diverted business while British houses have opened up stores in Paris. Moreover, French stores even send their buyers to London for attractive styles in well-cut suits and tailored fashions for sale in Paris, where "London Style," "Drap Anglaise," "Drap Ecossaise" and "Costume Anglais" for "Le Sport" are frequent signs in the windows.

Movement Starts.
A great change from the days when a smartly-dressed Englishwoman would only consider a fashion at all possible when it bore the Parisian label. However, now the change is effected London does not mean to stand idle. Already a great educational movement has been started further to popularize the London mode. The London County Council, anticipating the trend of events, has included artistic millinery and dressmaking in the educational curriculum in both the elementary and secondary schools, and graduates from these establishments are drafted into the leading business houses.

The wearied seamstress of Tom Hood is a thing of the past; she is now a dress artist and commands a big salary. She carries out the designs of the society expert, who in turn is assisted by the artist from the Chelsea school. Some of the latter are very distinguished members of the art fraternity, short-haired damozels who might wallow in vortexisms, post-impressionisms, cubisms of Augustus John, Nevinson, Wyndham Lewis and by day eke out an honest living fashioning gowns.
