PORTLAND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO BUY CUTOFF; "NO MORE" SAYS YEON

Backers Say Roads Needed so Tourists Won't Have to Pass Through Pendleton.

Regardless of protests from towns of Umatilla and also from Baker and Union counties a Portland chamber of commerce delegation yesterday asked the state highway commission to build a highway along the Columbia river from Umatilla to Wallula. It is understood an initial appropriation of $350,000 is desired for the work but men who have studied the subject say that the ultimate cost of this bit of road, should it be built, will be in excess of a million dollars.

The following story from this morning's Portland Oregonian tells of the Portland request and of its reception by the highway commission:

"A delegation from the Portland Chamber of Commerce presented a request that the highway commission build the proposed Wallula cut-off, which would run along the Columbia from Umatilla to a junction with a road on the Washington side of the line.

It was argued that this would be a great saving for certain traffic which, by using the cutoff, would not be compelled to go around through Pendleton to reach the Columbia river highway. John B. Yeon, commissioner, expressed himself as believing that the cut-off is logical, but that there is no chance of the commission placing any more new roads on the map until further funds have been furnished.

MOVIEDOM'S MONEY BAGS USED TO OBTAIN ARBUCKLE'S FREEDOM

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—(U. P.)—The fight to save Arbuckle from prison today widened into a battle involving the whole picture industry, according to the producers. Charles Brennan is now in Chicago gathering evidence for the defense. The defense is probing Miss Rapp's life for evidence favorable to Arbuckle's case.

Back Fatty to Limit. Movie interests believe that if Arbuckle is convicted a stigma will be placed on the entire industry, affecting the stars adversely and cutting heavily into the profits. So believing the movie financiers are ready to back Arbuckle to the limit, saving their own investments through saving him.

GEESE VERY PLENTIFUL IN ARLINGTON COUNTRY

George Tonkin, United States Game Warden for the district of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon is spending the day in Pendleton enroute from Arlington to his headquarters in Baker.

Mr. Tonkin states that around the Arlington territory geese are to be seen in large numbers and ventures to say that any hunter should easily get a bag full at any time. As further proof of their abundance, he states that he himself shot four with a twenty gauge, and even admits that he is a very poor shot. He said that Walter Mitchell, formerly in the grain business here is now located in Arlington and would be more than pleased to guide any hunters that are not familiar with that part of the country.

Not only are geese thick this year, he added, but in fact all over southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon migratory birds are increasing in numbers. Some interesting news he left while here is that the Government is to open the season in Alaska for the hunting of Beaver. This will make it less attractive for poachers in this country. He predicts an enormous amount of hides to be shipped in from the northern fields.

Mr. Tonkin leaves for Baker tonight as he has rather an interesting case coming up there soon. He recently arrested Attorney Green from the eastern part of this state for trespassing upon a State Game Refuge. This case shows promise of being rather amusing and is being watched by sport followers all over the state.

RAILROAD MEN WILL NOT FACE CUT THIS YEAR

Board Gives Assurance They Will Not Consider Further Cuts Until Decisions Reached

EMPLOYEES ACCEPT 12 PER CENT CUT OF JULY FIRST

Workmen Voted for Peace at Midnight; Neither Side is Claiming Victory Today.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(U. P.)—The Brotherhoods formally cancelled the October 30 strike order today, after conferences lasting far into last night. The basis for settlement is: The Brotherhoods accept the railroad board's assurance they will not consider further wage reductions until the decisions are reached on rates and working conditions. This means the men will not face another wage cut for a year. For the railroads, the executives promise not to act arbitrarily in the matters of wages and working conditions, but to submit all matters to the railroad labor board.

Ben Hooper, President Harding's spokesman on the railroad board, achieves credit for averting the strike. Hooper offered the board's recent resolution relative to further wage cuts which was the basis of settlement Hooper offered. The men accepted the 12 percent cut of last July. Action by the brotherhoods came rapidly last night, the crisis being reached when the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor refused to support the brotherhoods.

Switchmen Did Not Vote. Trainmen, engineers and conductors voted at midnight for peace, but the switchmen did not vote as the matter had been settled before their ballots were marked. Neither side claimed a victory today. The men voted a strike against the July first cut, but the leaders said there would be no strike unless the roads trimmed the wages again. A resolution passed by the executives throughout the crisis declared the men had no quarrel with them, but with the railroad board, which ordered the cut.
