Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

MORNING BRIGANDS

There may be happier times than this,
But if there are I've never known them,
When youngsters jump in bed to kiss
And wake the pa's and ma's who own them.
What if the sun be up or not,
Another perfect day is dawning,
And is it not a happy lot
With such delight to greet the morning?

Sometimes I hear them quit their bed
And catch their bare-foot pitter-patter,
And other times they're at my head
Before I know what is the matter.
Brigands to rob us of our sleep,
They come—their weapons love and laughter,
And though we're locked in slumber deep,
They always get the joy they're after.

PORTLAND UBER ALLES?

It is interesting to have the Portland chamber of commerce assume the task of locating roads in Umatilla county. It is particularly interesting to know that the Portland hope is for a highway over which people may travel without passing through Pendleton or the other towns of Umatilla county. Just why the tourist should be shielded from a blighting trip over an improved highway through the greatest agricultural country of the state is not quite clear. It may be the Indians. But of course the building of roads in Umatilla county is entirely a Portland affair and no doubt we are absurd in the attitude that the taxpayers of the county affected should have some consideration.

The Portland hope, as shown by private letters, is that the Wallula highway will give the metropolis a closer connection with Yakima and so they must have it irrespective of the wishes of this county and neighboring counties.

The fact that Yakima is 100 miles west of Wallula and that a Yakima customer could not reach Portland over the proposed "cut-off" without a hundred mile detour towards the rising sun is a slight detail the Portland committee has overlooked. But what is a geographical point like that if the state pays the bill? To people on the ground it looks like the metropolis is trying difficult strategy when it seeks to snake Yakima business into Portland over a 600 mile route, when a much shorter route is available. However, we are rustics and of course not schooled, like Portlanders, in the high art of modern road building with other people's money. Our task is to finance roads where the Portland chamber orders, raise our taxes so that Portland can have a fair and bear in mind at all times that we of the hinterland are to be seen and not heard.

It was thoroughly explained to the Portland chamber that the humble desire of our people is that before the state commission spends a million or two on needless roads in this section that the legitimate needs of Eastern Oregon be cared for. It was particularly urged that work that has been promised in this county and other counties be provided as promised and that among other things, our present highway be surfaced so that it may stand up under travel. In this suggestion we were supported by organizations in Union, Wallowa and Baker counties. The people of Grant county are at the same time imploring us to help get funds for a north and south road that will give our southern neighbor a needed outlet. But of course the wishes of these countries are as nothing when Portland has a new wrinkle on tap with respect to Yakima trade. When the massive brain of the Portland chamber is at work all other wisdom vanishes. What do the cow counties know about roads, anyway? Is not this Portland territory and if the suzerain speaks is it not our place to salaam and smile?

It is a great life if you don't weaken.

DEATH RATE DECREASING

The department of commerce announces that the census bureau's annual report on mortality statistics, which will be issued shortly, shows 1,142,578 deaths as having occurred in 1920 within the death registration area of continental United States, representing a death rate of 13.1 per 1000 population as compared with 12.9 in 1919, which was the lowest rate recorded in any year since the registration area was established in 1900.

The death registration area (exclusive of the Territory of Hawaii) in 1920 comprised 34 states, the District of Columbia and 16 registration cities in nonregistration states, with a total estimated population on July 1st of 87,486,713, or 82.2 per cent of the estimated population of the United States. The state of Nebraska was added to the registration area in 1920, so that at present the only states not in the area are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, West Virginia and Wyoming. The figures for the territory of Hawaii will appear in the report but they are not included in this summary.

The death rate from pneumonia increased from 123.5 per 100,000 in 1919 to 137.3 in 1920. For chronic diseases of the heart the rate increased from 131.0 to 141.9; for cancer, from 80.5 to 83. Some of the other diseases for which the rate increased are whooping cough, measles, cerebral hemorrhage, congenital debility and malformations, perperal fever, scarlet fever and appendicitis. The fatalities caused by automobile accidents and injuries show an increase from 9.4 per 100,000 in 1919 to 10.4 in 1920.

A marked decrease is shown in the death rate from tuberculosis, which was 114.2 in 1920 as compared with 125.6 in 1919; also in the death rate from influenza, 71.0 in 1920 as against 98.8 the year before. The death rate from suicide declined 11.4 in 1919 to 10.2 in 1920. There was a decline also in the rate for typhoid fever and in that for accidental drowning.

What Pendleton Grade Schools Are Doing

LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Second Grade.
Cruel looking witches, red-eyed cats, and bright hood pumpkins have appeared this week in the second grade during the art period.
The second class has completed the supplementary reading assigned in the state course of study and is now using Wheeler's third reader for sight reading.
Appropriate exercises in commemoration of the work of Francis E. Willard were held on Friday in the second grade room. A sketch of Miss Willard's life was given and the great service which she rendered was discussed. We are sure the second grade boys and girls can tell the meaning of the little bow of white ribbon.

Third Grade.
Glen Snyder was winner in the 33 spelling match and Shirley Caldwell in the 3A class.
Jack Stanger is fastest this week in the 3B fast oral arithmetic and Jim King in the 3A board work.
Hallowe'en posters and Jack o' Lanterns made the room seem very festive.

Glen Snyder has kept the nearest perfect position during the writing lessons this week.
Fourth Grade.
In the contest in arithmetic and spelling, the boys are the winners this week.
The children are enjoying the making of Hallowe'en masks from paper bags. We expect to see a great many paper bag hobgoblins in the near future.

Seventh Grade.
Gertrude Kuipers, Harold Broutlard, Nicholas Blydenstein were the winners in the addition contest, each receiving perfect marks.
June Schnell, Marie Gordon, Dorothy Barthel and Stella McVormmach are to take the names of the parents at Parent-Teacher's meeting.

The deserts work done by the seventh grade was highly praised by Miss Wartenburger.
Eighth Grade.
The eighth grade defeated the seventh grade in a spelling match last Friday.

Mrs. Winn visited the eighth grade Friday morning. She heard some interesting talks about "Adventures I have had."

The eighth grade is hoping to keep the Parent-Teachers' pennant this month, too.

Fifth Grade.
The fifth grade had a program Friday in honor of Francis E. Willard. It consisted of patriotic songs, a biography and extracts from Francis E. Willard's addresses.
Howard Jacobson has moved to the country.
Berlice Perkins from Portland, entered Monday.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

Eighth Grade.
Evan McClean left Washington school this week and has gone to Kamela, Oregon.
Charlene Wheeler entered school Tuesday morning.

Second Grade.
The second grade had a Hallowe'en party Friday afternoon. They had large pumpkins fixed as Jack o' lanterns, lit and placed on the window sills. They also had spooky figures pasted on the class of the windows. Some of the children were dressed in Yama Yama suits. Games were played. After the excitement was over they were very happy indeed, when their teacher served them refreshments.
