MACHINES WILL PLAY BIG PART IN ALL WARS OF THE FUTURE

New Form of Warfare Will Revert Back to 500 Years B. C. Says Leader of Gallipoli.

By EARLE C. REEVES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.
LONDON, Nov. 16.—A new form of warfare that shall revert to the days of 500 years B. C. and be a return to the individualism of the heroic warfare of antiquity mounted on elephants and racing in chariots is the vision of the future road by General Sir Ian Hamilton.
Concurrent with the development of the post-war movement for the reduction of armaments and the struggle for development of international methods of avoiding war there has been a veritable epidemic of "official" forecasts regarding the wars of the future. Generals and admirals have drawn the lessons of the last war and projected from them pictures of the wars of the future, generally in the form of books of strategy and in memoirs.
None has clothed his theses more graphically in the terms of prophecy than the former Gallipoli commander. In his new book, "The Soul and Body of an Army,"

"We must fix our minds upon the thought that just as men seemed to be on the very point of obliterating the Man-up he got, seized hold of an aeroplane in one hand and a tank in the other, plucked individualism out of the mud and set it once more upon its feet in the open field, where numbers and blind obedience are going to have less and less of an inning against science and efficiency.
Revert Old Battles.
"Outwardly the battle of the future will resemble battles which took place before the birth of Christ rather than those fields of sinister desolation and solitude where we have suffered. The areas of conflict, the use of tanks and motors as the pivot of the forces where formerly elephants and war chariots maneuvered will have more affinity to 500 B. C. than to A. D. 1917.
"Trench warfare is already dead. The tank and the aeroplane are inaugurating an era of economic strategy which was demanded, indeed, by the situation during the last war, but was demanded, alas, in vain.
"In the next war machines will no longer be denied, and wide encircling movements, followed by distant battle fought between comparatively small forces, will be the order of the world to come. No longer will the British fleet sit like a hooded falcon upon Britannia's wrist. The old days will be revived, and the coast line of the enemy, wherever it may be—Haiti, China, Yellow Sea, Red Sea—will be our graphically in the terms of prophecy frontier."

SCHOLARSHIP LOAN FUND OF OREGON WOMEN'S CLUB BENEFITS MANY

With Donations Annually From Various Clubs of State Fund Reaches Nearly $10,000.

One of the most beneficial undertakings of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs, is the scholarship loan fund. Mrs. Ida B. Callahan, president and a director of the General Federation of Women's clubs, in an interview at her office at O. A. C.
"With donations annually from the various clubs of the state," said Mrs. Callahan, "this fund has now reached the sum of approximately $10,000. It is loaned without interest to young women who wish to complete their education. Many young women have been students at O. A. C. because this fund was available and I have now become self-supporting members of society. Applications for loans at present far exceed the amount of money in the treasury.
"The Oregon Federation of Women's clubs was organized in Portland in 1899, and now has a membership of 130 individual clubs scattered over different parts of the state. These clubs have a total membership of 6,000 women organized for the purpose of promoting social, civic and educational improvement in their respective communities. These clubs, however, are of more than local value, for their combined efforts bring good results to the state and the nation.
"An Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the general federation, recently said, 'A woman's club is a group of organized women, who can be depended upon to back every movement that makes for the betterment of that community's life. Groups of such a character are a tremendous asset to the country in a time like this when half-fledged thought, hasty conclusions and hazy thinking are too frequent!'
"The administration of the state federation is done by means of its executive board, which carries out the plans adopted at the annual meeting. A monthly bulletin, published in Portland by Mrs. Edith Knight Hill of the Oregonian, is sent to all the clubs to keep them informed of the progress of the work. The plan of work conforms to that of the general federation and is carried on in six departments with divisions and committees.
"These six departments," continued Mrs. Callahan, "are fine arts; applied education, American citizenship, public welfare, legislation, and the press. Backing the state work in these departments is the general federation which was organized in New York in 1890. It is made up of 50 state federations which include 41,000 distinct clubs. Its total membership is now 2,000,000. Twelve foreign countries represented by clubs are as follows: Canada, Canal Zone, China, Cuba, England, France, Hawaii, Japan, Philippine Islands, Sweden, West Australia and West Indies.
"Both state and national federations are non-sectarian and non-political, but are bi-partisan, working with both parties, supporting measures, not men."

PORTLAND TIRE COMPANY TO HAVE KENTON PLANT

"Eighty five per cent of the crude rubber of the world comes from the East Indies, mostly through Singapore. Portland is as close or closer than any other port in the United States to this source of supply. At the present time crude rubber stands fifth in Portland's imports, and trainloads now leave this port for Akron and other Eastern points," says K. C. Mohrhardt who is now in Pendleton.
"Sixty per cent of a pneumatic tire is cotton. The best long staple cotton in the United States, the variety used in the manufacture of automobile tires comes from Arizona and the Imperial Valley of California. Cotton tire fabric is manufactured at Oakland, California. Portland is obviously close to this source of supply.
"The Columbia Tire Corporation has purchased an eight acre factory site in Kenton, the manufacturing center of Portland, and will begin the construction of a modern two-story concrete building early in December. With a daily capacity of 500 tires and 500 tubes, this company, by locating in Portland and avoiding long freight hauls on raw materials and finished products, can save on the average $248,000 per year, over the Eastern manufacturer.
"It will be a distinct advantage to tire dealers in the Northwest to purchase tires here instead of having to send East for them. Long delays in delivery will be avoided; fresh stock will be assured; smaller stocks can be carried, and adjustments can be more readily made.
"The Columbia Tire Corporation is officered by B. A. Wursburg, an industrial engineer, with an excellent record for efficiency work in the tire industry, as president; Alfred A. Aya, long associated with the industrial growth of Portland and Oregon, as vice-president and general sales manager; Lewis Wyman, experienced in the marketing of raw and finished products as treasurer and purchasing director, and K. C. Mohrhardt, a banker in California, and experienced in the tire industry at that state, as secretary and auditor."
