Just how to prune fruit trees so they will produce to the best advantage is one of the things that Clayton L. Long of O. A. C. has devoted a lifetime of study to learn. His business is to pass this information along, and he came to Pendleton today. He and Fred Benjamin went to Milton-Freewater this morning where during the first part of the week they will conduct a pruning school.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY OFFICES AND OFFICERS

Robert Hatton and Mike Brew were arrested yesterday by Glenn Bushee just after they crawled off of a train in the Pendleton yards. Hatton, according to the officials, has complete equipment and records with him for organizing locals in the I. W. W. information that the man has been in jail in Washington and South Dakota is being held pending a further investigation.

Says Husband Nagged. That her husband nagged her constantly and found fault with her is the claim made by Effie Mae Griswold in her suit for a divorce from John T. Griswold. The plaintiff, who is represented by Peterson, Bishop and Clark, claims that she has earned practically all of her own living by working since her marriage. The couple married in January, 1920, according to the complaint.

COUNTY BUDGET

any work which will lighten and brighten the labor of home-making on the farms or in the towns is well worth while.

Would Invalidate Contract.

A report read by Miss Sabra Nason, county librarian, and a discussion which followed gave the information that if the recommendation of the Taxpayers' League to cut the budget asked for by the county library board is followed, the contract between the library board, the Pendleton Commercial Association and the city of Pendleton would be invalidated, and the benefits of the Sturgis fund would be placed in jeopardy. The library report included a statement that such a contract can not be rescinded except by a vote of the governing body of the contracting parties at two consecutive annual meetings.

"Well, lawyers brought in this recommendation, didn't they, and shouldn't they have known that this recommendation would cause the library to lose the benefits of the Sturgis funds?"

The question was put point-blank to Judge Schanep, but he refused to answer.

Reports On Market Roads.

Judge Schanep made a report of the number of miles of market roads constructed during the year with market road funds. This report came after the merits of the road program had been entered into. Thirty-two miles of such roads have been built during 1921, the judge declared.

Following this report, a resident of the east end of the county declared that he knew of men there who would contribute as much as $1000 in cash in addition to their taxes in order to get more good roads. A. H. Cox spoke in the interest of keeping up the road program.

Louis Miller declared that the roads now are not as good as they were 40 years ago, and he went on record as favoring a return to the old system of road building whereby supervisors would have charge of the work.

Some by-play was indulged in when the statement was made by one speaker to the effect that the Taxpayers' League is composed three-fourths of democrats.

"Well, I think it is just the other way," another man retorted. "I was just thinking that all of the leaders are republicans. I don't know a man of much prominence in the league who is a democrat."

E. P. Dodd, of Hermiston, spoke briefly on the stand taken by the Hermiston Commercial Club in favor of the budget. J. T. Hinkle was the only one present to oppose the adoption of the budget by the club, Mr. Dodd said.

DR. LORENZ'S NEW METHODS ARE AID TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Great Bloodless Surgeon Says Science Has Been Revolutionized Since Operation.

BY MARGERY REX
(Written for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Rates of exchange may wipe out the wealth of one country and inflate the currency of another in comparison.

But human service is a coin which never falls below the par value of shining gold.

To the crippled children of America Professor Adolf Lorenz, master of bloodless surgery and specialist in joint diseases, is offering aid. It is such aid as was brought to the crippled daughter of a millionaire packer eighteen years ago, when Dr. Lorenz was brought from Vienna to Chicago by J. Ogden Armour to enable his little daughter, Lolita, to gain use of her limbs.

And it is even more than that since Dr. Lorenz declares his methods in bloodless, harmless surgery have been much utilized since those days.

The noted surgeon is sixty-eight years old now. He looks as Santa Claus might if he were able to add distinction to benevolence—white beard, rosy, clear skin, light blue keen eyes.

Great Changes in Everything

"Those eighteen years have brought great changes—yes, indeed," Dr. Lorenz began. "But what a change in New York City!"

"This is truly the 'City of Light,' Paris used to be called that, but in that respect it cannot compare with modern New York.

"Life here is all in a tumult; it is terrible and bewildering to me. The rush, the hustle and the noise. It is undoubtedly bad for the nerves of New Yorkers, but they seem to survive."

Dr. Lorenz will continue for some time the clinic begun by him at the Hospital for Joint Diseases.

Scores of crippled children come to the great surgeon there, and it is estimated that nearly seven hundred letters a day have been received at the hotel where he is staying.

"Technique has been revolutionized since my first visit here," the specialist continued, "but harmlessness is characteristic of it all. Other people may say, 'Do you want to take a chance and have an operation?' Well, there is no risk attendant here.

"But your poor New York children—so many of them—thrown all in a heap by infantile paralysis. I am using some new methods and experiments to assist them.

"Limbs can be straightened by 'manipulation' and mechanical means. Eventually 'transplantation' can take place. Healthy muscles can be easily removed from a healthy limb and placed in a sickly one as rombos can be grafted and replanted. Hip-joints that are deformed can be set straight—that has always been my specialty.

Great Suffering in Vienna

"But there is also suffering in my home—Vienna. The dearth of supplies continues. The decreased value of the kronen prevents buying even such supplies as are offered in the shops.

"War profiteers, of course, live in a shameless splendor. The brain workers are badly off.

"The former prosperous class, to which I was supposed to belong (with a laugh) has lost everything."

At this point Dr. S. Weyman, whom Dr. Lorenz has appointed as his assistant, told me that the great surgeon was not worth even one thousand dollars today.

"My fortune is reduced to one-thousandth of what it was formerly," he said. "It cost me two and a half billion kronen to come over to America.

"Austria has about enough supplies to last out a month. It is not a fertile land, but mountainous—what fertile provinces we had we have lost.

"We must import three-fourths of all our needs, and these three-fourths must be bought in the world markets with our worthless kronen, six thousand of which would barely buy one dollar.

"We owe much to your fine American Relief administration, to the Jewish Relief and the Red Cross.

Afraid of New York Subway

"Would I like to live in New York?" Dr. Lorenz smiled. "Well, I like America, but the hustle of this city terrifies me. As for that subway that runs under the ground, I would never trust myself to go down with its crowds, I know I should never, never come out alive."

Dr. Lorenz spends four and a half hours a day at the clinic at the hospital for joint diseases, where an entire floor has been placed at his disposal.

After his work here is finished he will go to Chicago. On his way he will stop off at Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit, where clinics will be arranged.

"In Chicago I am going to see Mrs. John J. Mitchell, who was Miss Lolita Armour when I knew her," declared Dr. Lorenz. "I was invited to her wedding but couldn't come on at that time."

At the time Dr. Lorenz performed an operation on Lolita Armour and effected a cure he became internationally famous.

INFIDELITY AND LOOSE MORALS ARE SCORED

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 12.—(U. P.)—A picture of modern social conditions which surpasses even the revelations of a restricted set which has come into prominence in Los Angeles was painted by the Bishop of Guildford, in an address before the Church Congress here.

"The crumbling of public morals, unless arrested, means the death-knell of the nation," he declared.

"Husbands and wives have acquired the habit of infidelity, and promiscuity is life among the unmarried of all classes.

"The standard of practical morality among women has steadily deteriorated, since the Malthusian campaign started forty-five years ago and the only sin was that of being found out.

"The 'emancipation of women' movement has also to be considered in this matter. What can the 'right to motherhood' mean, but the right to induce in extra-matrimonial social relations without reprobation."

The president of the congress, the Hon. Lord Birmingham, disagreed with the thesis, declaring that "our great cities are in the whole purer and better places than when I was young."
