CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

"THE CHILD'S FIRST SCHOOL IS THE FAMILY"—Froebel. Issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 5 West 40th Street, New York City. These articles are appearing weekly in our columns.

'WE ARE READY, SANTA.'

By Lydia Lyon Roberts.

The minister made a jolly, plump Santa Claus, and the little ones waited before him in breathless, eager suspense. Suddenly one little voice piped up: "Are you coming to our house, Santa?" Immediately there was a chorus: "I've been good, are you coming to my house?" Finally one little girl cried: "We worked hard and cleaned all up for you, Santa. Are you coming to our house tonight?" The last child had the right idea, and I think there must have been a happy, busy Christmas at her house, with mother and the little helper working together to keep the joyous time. Too many things at Christmas time are done by mothers for children when the ideal way is to do them with the children. In that way there are never any fussy, restless, bothersome children, but a willing, interested, unselfish group of youngsters having the real spirit of the day.

"Where are the pretty things?" wailed a five-year-old daughter as she surveyed the dining table on a holiday.

"I haven't had time to get the usual decorations," replied the hurrying mother. Then, noticing the disappointment on the child's face, she suggested, "You know where I keep them in the attic, why don't you get them and arrange them for me?"

The little girl trotted off happily and much to her mother's secret surprise, did get the simple napkins and crepe paper runners and flags, and placed them very daintily on the table. The proud delight of the child was a revelation to the mother, and after that she always said a few days before a holiday, "Well, daughter, we must soon be getting ready to make a nice holiday and have everything clean and pretty." Then would follow plans for a few simple ways the child could help.

The best Christmas of all to the children would be the one when they helped make table decorations, chains and paper flowers for the tree, helped pack the box of food or clothing and gifts for the unfortunate ones, and "worked hard and cleaned all up" for Santa Claus.
