IT'S ON TODAY

A new standard of photoplays has been set by "The Son of Wallingford," the Vitagraph big special production, which will be shown at the Grand theater today. After two years of study of photoplay technique George Randolph Chester, who wrote the story in collaboration with his wife, has discarded the stereotype mechanics of the motion picture. He has eliminated the demurely dressed maid, who trips lightly into the room and advances the plot by means of telephone conversations. The time worn letter while he braves his life to eliminate extra scenes of divorce parties or the story has been placed in the scrap heap. Every bit of "The Son of Wallingford" is told by action, and to get this in it was necessary to make over 1,500 scenes.

Rudolph Valentino, the celebrated young dancer who has the leading male role in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," a Rex Ingram production for Metro, which opens Tuesday at the Rivoli Theatre found his way to fame and fortune through his nimble feet.

But it was neither as a dancer nor an actor that Mr. Valentino hoped to take fortune by storm. It was in the more humble sphere as a prospective agriculturalist that he came to the United States, at the age of eighteen, a graduate from the Royal Military College of Asturias at Gijon, Italy. As he planned his future he would become one of the great land owners in this country of opportunity.

But things happened swiftly for him in New York. Soon he was busy teach-

From dancing to motion pictures was an easy step. His first picture was with Mae Murray in "The Big Little Person." When Rex Ingram, in his instinking search for the type to portray the pleasure-loving South American hero of "The Four Horsemen" saw Valentine, he chose him for the part.

MOSCOW (By Mail).—"How proud you must be of your son!" Badev Dounian remarked recently upon meeting the aged father of Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister.

"Neejet" (no way), Trotsky, senior, answered, waving his head. "Before, I had two fine factories that sold well. Now we have nothing, and I have no factories."
