Adornment Is the Word

At the places where smart women gather scarcely a head is unadorned. Jeweled combs have given way to jeweled bandeaus, tulle and urelets of leaves. The Lac arrangement of tinselled leaves, is worn quite low and is distinctively lovely for the slim of face. From Russia come the high headdress and for those women whose features are regular enough there is the wide band which covers the hair at the front.

European, but in the eyes and graces of the higher caste of native in India—a much more difficult problem.
 Unlike other revolutionaries, however, he has always come willingly to the aid of the government in a crisis. In 1904 there was an outbreak of plague in Johannesburg, and Gandhi opened up a private hospital long before the government had time to act. In 1913, while he was being constantly imprisoned by the government in South Africa, the railway strike broke out, and transportation in the Transvaal was paralyzed. From the ordinary agitator's point of view this would have been his supreme moment to strike his blow at the organized society of South Africa, but he relented and gave orders to his people to resume work and aid the government to keep order.
 This is the complex character of the man who perhaps unwittingly is responsible for Britain's travail in India. Bitterly hated by many of the rulers in India, both colored and white, but venerated as a saint by the vast millions of the native population of all creeds and castes.

WANTED TO BUY AND SELL We have several clients wanting to buy good farm leases. Want to buy small acreage tract near Pendleton, Becho or Stanfield, suitable for raising poultry. Want to sell good three ton truck practically new, and will sell at big sacrifice.

We sell insurance as follows: Fire, Life, Accident, Health, Employers Liability, Workmen's Compensation, Public Liability, Elevator Risks, Plate Glass, Burglary, Fidelity and Surety. Do not place yourself under obligations to your friends by asking them to sign your Bond, Because you may be called upon to reciprocate by signing a Bond for them. Don't sign a bond for anyone, because you may thereby impair your credit and involve your estate. Why? Why should you be placed in either position when we issue Bonds on behalf of persons in positions of trust, also Bonds on undertakings in Judicial Proceedings and various other miscellaneous Surety Bonds.

Why Trade, Not Sell? Because it's easier. Nearly every land owner wants to sell and few want to buy. Many are dissatisfied with conditions where they are and wish to change locations but can't sell and for want of ready cash can't buy, hence must trade or not change. If you want to trade for anything see us. If you have anything you want to trade, call us up.

HEAD OF HINDU REVOLT GENTLE AND EDUCATED

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(I. N. S.)—Gandhi won his position by pursuing a policy of doing no wrong, committing no violence, but simply enduring all the punishments the other side could inflict on him until they all became weary and ashamed of punishing.

That is how Prof. Gilbert Murray describes Mohanda Karamchand Gandhi, the Indian agitator, whose name is so frequently mentioned in respect to the native uprisings in India on the occasion of the present visit of the Prince of Wales to India.

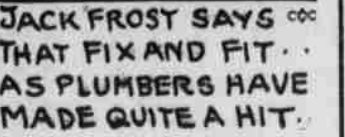

Gandhi studied law in Great Britain about the year 1889, but instead of going back to his native land, like many of his contemporaries who had the advantage of a European education, a confirmed British loyalist he wholeheartedly embraced the Hindu cause and was a constant and virulent agitator for their rights.

Gandhi is a Jain, a very high caste of Hindu, and he came from rich parents. He took the usual Jain vow, that of an abstinence from alcohol and cow's flesh, because to the Jains a cow is a sacred animal; and an abstinence from pork and bacon because the pig is an unclean animal.

He took his law degree and for a time practiced law in Bombay, but he became more for religion than law. He became an ascetic and gradually gave away his money to good causes, keeping for himself only a meagre allowance. Finally he forsook the lawyer's profession, because he could not conscientiously follow a profession which believed in might to force its rights.

In 1914 he was a very patriotic supporter of Britain's war against Germany, and from its results he expected a better India for Indians, irrespective of caste and religion, and the exclusion from their native domains of the material interests, the industrial slavery and the money and power worship of the west.

The result was a check to his ideals and ever since he has been engaged in constant passive resistance to the government and has always striven to enoble and raise the status of the Indian, not so much in the eyes of the
