AMERICAN WOMEN WEAR CLOTHES BEST, SAYS WIDOW OF ENGLISHMAN

Lady Henry Thinks, However, That Beautiful Englishwoman Shines Wherever She Be.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Although the American woman can wear her clothes to better advantage than the average English woman the latter shines wherever she may be, according to Lady Henry, an American-born woman who is the widow of an Englishman. Her criticism was occasioned by reports from the United States that American fashion authorities were saying that American women look startlingly trim and smart in England, where there are no feminine complexions worth speaking of.

"I think," said Lady Henry, "that so much depends on the individual. Personally I think a beautiful English woman shines wherever she may be.

Value of Personality.

"But in any case, I do not think that clothes count for as much nowadays as they did before the war. English women who did war work are, perhaps, not so super-particular about their clothes as they were. I think they have found out that more depends on personality than on clothes.

"Another point is that so many of the American women one sees are merely passing through from one place to another. Naturally, they wear the kind of clothes which are suitable for traveling—that is, 'trim, smart tailor-mades.'"

An American business man who visits London twice a year added his quota of comment.

"What always strikes me about English women, when I return to London after three or four months in New York, is their restful appearance. It seems to me that their clothes express some quality of this kind which the majority of our women lack.

Strand or Bond Street.

"I agree that a dozen American women walking up the Strand would probably draw attention to themselves because of the extreme neatness of their appearance. But I do not believe that they would attract a scrap more attention in, say, Bond street than a dozen English women, typical of the hundreds of other beautiful women it is possible to meet in the course of a stroll in the West-End shopping centers.

"Americans abroad are naturally in what may be called 'luggage kit.' English women in their own country are not under the necessity of being so absolutely trim. They can overflow a little into broken-lines and bunchings to express the thing untechnically, which, after all, have their own charm."

TIMES ARE HARD FOR THE SCANDINAVIANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(U. P.)—The Scandinavian countries are struggling in a period of deep depression that will be a long one, according to advisers received by the Department of Commerce.

Unemployment in Scandinavia is extremely serious. Employers struggling along on a narrow margin claim that wage must be further reduced before they can enter competitive markets.

Reports show the money market tight, prices are declining; shipping is on the increase but without much return in profit; iron and steel production is reduced to a minimum; the pulp and paper markets are rising, but prospects for winter shipments not promising.

Belgium however, is making rapid industrial improvement, markets are firm and food and construction industries active.

King George in his new fancy waistcoat stepped out on the balcony of the palace after the signing of the Irish peace treaty to show how happy he was.

WOMAN LIVED ON NOTHING BUT MILK

Mrs. Lynch Suffered Fourteen Years from Case of Stomach Trouble.

"For fourteen years my life was just one unbroken period of misery on account of the awful suffering I endured from stomach trouble. But I believe I am the happiest woman in town now since Tanlac restored me to health," said Mrs. Frances E. Lynch, 6811 Sixteenth Ave., N. E. Seattle, Wash.

"I was confined to my bed for more than half the time, and although I tried everything under the sun I knew of or ever heard about. It was no use. I had forgotten that a good night's sleep was like, couldn't retain anything on my stomach, and I lived for weeks on nothing but milk.

"I have a splendid appetite now and eat things that for years I didn't dare to touch. I never have a trace of indigestion and am feeling just like a different person. Such results as I have received from Tanlac are enough to make anybody happy."

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompsons Drug Store and by leading druggists.

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian, January 2, 1894.)

The leaders of Pendleton society, when ready to again take up round of social functions, are apt to find that the younger ones have taken the lead. Not affected easily by gloom and little worried by questions of finance, they have of late been giving some delightful parties. Just to show their courage, they took the name, "hard times party," Monday evening, and in keeping with title, in appropriate costume, came together at Frager's opera house. No clouds of trouble were there and the evening was full of pleasure. Good clothes were proscribed. No one who was dressed in a mode was allowed admission except as a spectator. Ragged and woeful dilapidated garments or gay negligee costume only gave one the entire. Quite a number of the dancers were students of the Weston Normal school who were to return the next morning to take up their work in the recitation and lecture rooms. The evening proved all the more enjoyable to them at thought of the long winter's work before them. The guests were: Misses Elsie Folsom, Reta Bean, Ida Thompson, Hattie Thompson, Gussie Moorhouse, Lessie Moorhouse, Grace Welch, Viola Cahoon, Anna Cameron, Nancy Cameron, Elsie Matlock, Clem Motley, Fannie Duncan, Witty Duncan, Manah Switzer, Bessie Switzer, Della Livermore, Maude Crawford, Edna Crawford, Ida Platten, Daisy Platten, Mrs. Gerrish, Myrtle Gillett, Lizzie Starkweather, Grace Smith, Fannie Mead, Geraldine Despain, Maude Shults, Grace Shults, and Vera Turner; Messrs Tom Jordan, Tom Purdy, Dean Shull, James Furnish, William Furrell, Frank Welch, Ernest Hartman, George Hartman, Harry Morgan, Percy Mitchell, Chas. Eppinger, A. T. Borst, C. E. Hansen, Roy Ritter, Wm. Kidler, Chas. Bond, Robert Bond, C. Kuykendal, T. C. Nye, Jr., Albert Rae, Frank Moule, Jas. Jackson, Chas. Dickson and Walter Bowman.

ST. CATHERINE'S DAY OBSERVED BY SPINSTERS

PARIS, Jan. 2.—(A. P.)—St. Catherine's Day is the day when all young French girls who have attained the age of 25 without finding a husband put on the bonnet of spinsterhood, although this does not necessarily mean that they forthwith abandon all hope of finding a suitable mate.

The girls who work in the Paris dressmaking establishments made high holiday on that day, and those among them who had become "St. Catherine's" wore lace bonnets made by their comrades.

In groups they walked along the boulevards, generally five or six abreast, arms linked, with the bonnet wearers in the front rank and all their escort of friends following. The working girls vied with each other in the fancy costumes they wore.

Wedding groups are popular, with the "bride" beautifully dressed in silk, accompanied by a "bridegroom" in comic costume.

The Three Musketeers, with cloak and sword, slouched hat and white feather, were to be seen walking proudly along the boulevards followed by their admiring friends, but the Musketeers' voices proclaimed them girls.

OHIO COLLEGE BOASTS CLEAN DOZEN PURITANS

DEFIANCE, Ohio, Jan. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Purity clubs in universities have nothing on "The Clean Dozen" club here.

This club is made up of a dozen male students at Defiance College who room on the first floor of Simpson Hall, the men's dormitory.

By way of sullying the punishment for infraction of their rules to the name of the organization, it is decreed that each member who breaks one of the regulations of the club must chew a square inch of soap.

Club rules follow:

"In order to create a wholesome atmosphere, and promote clean speech and pure minds, we agree to comply with the rules of this organization and will not hesitate to make those who refuse to join unwelcome in our midst.

"No swearing will be tolerated.

"No vulgarity will be permitted.

"Penalty for swearing shall be to chew one piece of soap one-half an inch square ten times per vile word.

"Penalty for vulgarity, such as unclean stories, shall be to chew one piece of soap one inch square twenty-five times vigorously.

"Members of the club have the right to inflict whatever further punishment they deem fit if necessary to secure compliance of the members with these rules.

"Members of the club say they have purchased a supply of soap to use in penalizing their fellows."

Just Folks

UNCHANGEABLE MOTHER

Mothers never change, I guess, In their tender thoughtfulness. Makes no difference that you grow Up to forty years or so, Once you cough, you'll find that she See you as you used to be, An' she wants to tell to you All the things that you must do.

Just show symptoms of a cold, She'll forget that you've grown old. Though there's silver in your hair, Still you need a mother's care. An' she'll ask you things like these: "You still wearing h. v. d.'s? Summer days have long since gone, You should have your flannels on."

TURN ADVERSITIES INTO ASSETS

AN adversity may often be turned into an asset if you go about it right. This is not a new thought for it has been expressed for ages in the old proverb about every cloud having a silver lining. But there was never a more fitting time than this to harness up your troubles and make them pull you out of the ditch if you find yourself there.

The business depression wears an ugly face, but there are positive advantages about the situation if you will but look for them. The individual who finds his income curtailed, be he ditch digger or a banker, learns something new about the value of a dollar and acts accordingly. He learns through necessity to distinguish between what is essential and what is not. In other words he practices economy and as he does so he finds that his money goes farther than it did.

The business or industrial concern, forced to retrench, comes to differentiate between what is of service and what is not. There is a general house cleaning under way and it is a good thing. It is a good thing for an employe as well as employer because under the new viewpoint the valuable man stands out for what he is and the indolent or incompetent is relegated to the rear where he belongs.

There will be decided benefits from the demand for strict attention to the tax subject and to all public expenditures. Those who demand heavy tax reductions will not get what they want but they will get more than they think they do. The new spirit calls for close scrutiny of anything calling for expenditures. Therefore the project of doubtful merit will find rough sledding and defeat where a few years ago it would have gotten by. Public officials in whatever capacity they may serve, know they are being observed and that they must render real service if they are to be upheld. Therefore while we may not see the tax reductions some will hope for we will get more for our money.

This is no time for foolish optimism but neither is it a time for undue pessimism. The man who looks on a period of depression as an unmixed evil is mistaken. There are many compensatory features about the present situation. The thing to do is to seek them out and profit by them. This is something that all may do, be they rich or poor, old, young or middle aged.

The best New Year's wish the East Oregonian can offer to its readers is the hope that during the coming year they may have good success in turning their adversities into assets.

IN MORROW COUNTY

THE past year has been a pretty strenuous one for the business and industrial affairs of Morrow county. So much depends here on the success of the farmer and stockman, and these two lines of endeavor have been hard hit during 1921; their labor has been profitless to a very large extent and the heavy slump in prices for sheep, wool, cattle and wheat has affected every class. We are optimistic, however, and look forward to the new year with brighter hopes. There has been in more recent days a better price and demand for the wool and sheep and the present indications are for an improvement in wheat prices. Morrow county will come back, and rapidly, too, when there is the least possible inducement. We have been "up against it" before and weathered the storm, and everyone is going forward, facing the new year with a faith that all will be well. We will forget quite soon the trials of the past and prepare ourselves to enjoy the sane prosperity that is awaiting us. Thus we bid farewell to 1921.—Heppner Gazette-Times.
